The Chicago Daily Tribune.

VOLUME LX.—NO. 75. SATURDAY, MARCH 16, 1901—TWELVE PAGES. PRICE TWO CENTS.

CARNEGIE GIVES AWAY $6,200,000.

Sum of $5,200,000 Offered to New York and St. Louis Will Receive $1,000,000.

ALL IS FOR LIBRARIES.

Gotham Is to Have 65 Branches If It Will Furnish Sites and Promise to Pay the Expenses.

AVERAGE OF COST, $80,000.

Steel King Says He Will Consider It a Rare Privilege to Furnish the Money for the Benefit of So Many People.

PROPOSAL LAID BEFORE MAYOR.

New York, March 15.—[Special.]—Andrew Carnegie has offered to the City of New York $5,200,000 with which to build sixty-five branch libraries costing about $80,000 each. These are intended to put the advantages of libraries within the reach of the people in every section of the city.

St. Louis, Mo., is to receive $1,000,000 from Mr. Carnegie for a new library and branches on conditions similar to those usually made by the millionaire.

Fixes Terms for His Gift.

Mr. Carnegie's proposed gift to New York City, announced in a letter to Dr. John S. Billings, director of the New York Public Library, is as follows:

Our conference upon the needs of Greater New York for branch libraries to reach the masses of the people in every district have convinced me of the wisdom of your plans. Sixty-five branches strike one at first glance as a large order, but as other cities have found one necessary for every 60,000 or 70,000 of population the number is not excessive.

You estimate the average cost of these libraries at, say, $80,000 each, being $5,200,000 for all. If New York will furnish sites for these branches for the special benefit of the masses of the people, as it has done for the Central Library, and also agree in satisfactory form to provide for their maintenance as built, I should esteem it a rare privilege to be permitted to furnish the money as needed for the buildings, say $5,200,000. Sixty-five libraries at one stroke probably breaks the record, but this is the day of big operations, and New York is soon to be the biggest of cities.

Proposal Laid Before Mayor.

G. L. Rives, secretary of the New York Public Library, by direction of the library trustees, immediately sent a copy of Mr. Carnegie's letter to Mayor Van Wyck with a letter, in the course of which he said if the city authorities favored the general plan the Board of Trustees would hold itself in readiness to coöperate in every way possible in furthering the purposes of Mr. Carnegie's offer.

Explains Plan for System.

Dr. Billings further explains Mr. Carnegie's proposition in the following communication sent to the Mayor:

"In the conferences referred to by Mr. Carnegie, the suggestions which I have made related mainly to a free public library system for the Boroughs of Manhattan and the Bronx. I have stated that such a system should include the great central reference library on Forty-second street and Fifth avenue, about forty branch libraries for circulation, small distributing centers in those public school buildings which are adapted to such purpose, and a large traveling library system operated from the central building. Each of the branch libraries should contain reading-rooms for from 50 to 100 adults and for from 75 to 125 children. There should be ample telephone and delivery arrangements between the branches and the central library.

Will Cost $500,000 a Year.

"To establish this system would require at least five years. The average cost of the branch libraries I estimated at from $75,000 to $125,000, including sites and equipment. The cost of maintaining the system when completed I estimated at $500,000 per year. The circulation of books for home use alone in these boroughs should amount to more than 5,000,000 volumes per year, and there should be at least 500,000 volumes in the circulation department, with additions of new books and to replace worn out books of at least 40,000 per year."

Some of the data furnished Mr. Carnegie by Dr. Billings showed that Boston, with 560,892 residents, has fifteen branch libraries and reading-rooms, and fourteen delivery stations, and appropriates $288,641 for library purposes, being at the rate of over fifty cents per head of population. Chicago has 1,698,575 population, six branch libraries, and sixty delivery stations, besides stations in the public schools, and appropriates $263,397 for library purposes, being at the rate of 15 5-10 cents per head of population.

Grave Problem for the City.

George L. Rives said: "We have seen the Mayor and he authorized us to say that he is most heartily in favor of the plan and will do all in his power to carry out Mr. Carnegie's views. There are, however, several troublesome questions as to the city's power to make the agreement proposed.

"In addition to the legal difficulties, there is also the financial question as to whether the city, with its present debt and its present necessities in other directions, ought to undertake the financial obligations to be incurred in carrying out this scheme. That is largely a question of expediency and must be decided by public opinion."

Pittsburg to Get $25,000,000.

Pittsburg, Pa., March 15.—Intimate friends of Andrew Carnegie say it is his intention to give at least $25,000,000 for the erection of buildings and for the endowment of the proposed technical school of Pittsburg.

St. Louis to Receive $1,000,000.

St. Louis, Mo., March 15.—Andrew Carnegie has offered to donate $1,000,000 for the building of a new public library in St. Louis. The offer is similar to many others made to cities throughout the country and abroad. The conditions on which the gift is to be made can be easily complied with by the City of St. Louis. Mr. Carnegie asks that the city furnish an unincumbered site for the library and that a maintenance fund of $150,000 per year be assured.

EXPERTS OFFER RIVER PROJECTS.

Three Complete Plans Laid Before the Citizens' Commission Ready for Debate.

RESULTS FAR IN FUTURE.

Discussion Will Take Till Legislature Adjourns—Money Is Wanting in Any Case.

CITY AND TRUSTEES CLASH.

Three complete schemes for the improvement of the Chicago River so as to pass the required amount of water through the channel without interfering with navigation were submitted to the Citizens' River commission yesterday by the five experts who have been at work for two months. Two side schemes of much importance were added to the experts' report. Only a portion of the figures were ready on two of the projects, and the commission will be called together again next week to take up the various projects as a whole.

There is certain to be a long debate before any one of the schemes is adopted. The plans of the experts appeared to be designed more to cover future work on a large scale than anything now within the means of the Drainage Trustees.

Three Projects Offered.

The first project provides for sending the entire flow of water through the river, which is to be widened and deepened to be capable of carrying all the water that can be got through the drainage canal below Summit, or 700,000 cubic feet a minute.

The second plan leaves the river enlarged only to permit the passage of boats 470 feet in length. Bascule bridges are to replace all center pier structures. Water required in excess of the river's capacity is to be taken through an inlet from the Calumet River.

The third proposition makes the river 200 feet wide and 24 feet deep, with an inlet at either the Summit or the Sag from the Calumet.

Will Delay Work Two Years.

"It will be too late to do anything this session in the way of legislation," said a member of the Sanitary board after the meeting. "It may take weeks for the commission to decide upon some one of the three projects. Then we will have to take a good deal of time to discuss it, and the Legislature will have adjourned long before we have definite plans to offer. Plans for river improvement are undoubtedly off for two years. In the meantime we will do what we can to get along with the valley towns and the federal government."

Widening the River Costly.

A branch of one of the projects provided for the widening of the river to 360 feet with a depth of twenty-four feet from the drainage canal to Sixteenth street and to 300 feet with a depth of thirty feet from Sixteenth street to the lake. A map showed the immense value of the property to be secured and buildings torn down to make such a channel. In view of the vast expense of widening the river through the down-town region to the present width at Wells street it was deemed likely that the commission would confine the improvement to a channel 180 feet wide and twenty-five feet deep, capable of being navigated by vessels of 470 feet keel and fifty feet beam. Outside the removal of the tunnels this could be done at a comparatively small expense. The capacity of such a channel would be about 300,000 feet of water a minute. To obtain the extra amount of water required to comply with the drainage law, there would have to be a cut-off from the lake at some other point.

The experts suggested a cut-off at Sixteenth street, running from the lake to the South Branch at Seventeenth street. This would be on the south side of the street from the lake to Armour avenue, where it would turn southwesterly to avoid the track elevation. It would be eighty feet wide, twenty-five feet deep, and 3,300 feet long. The bridges across it would be fixed. This plan stands no chance of adoption.

Channel to Calumet Favored.

An alternative plan for bringing water from the Calumet to the South Branch by a channel to the west of the Towns of Hyde Park and Lake will be more favorably received and may be adopted by the commission and the trustees, as it will not be expensive in comparison with the widening of the main river channel. It is argued that property-owners would welcome this plan and it would provide for the disposal of sewage.

In addition to this project for the Calumet region another is proposed that would simply take care of the sewage of that territory without adding to the flow of water through the canal.

A side scheme for the digging of a channel from a point north of Evanston to the North Branch is wholly for the distant future. It will require a legislative enactment. Most of the territory drained is now outside the district.

Judge Carter in the Chair.

Judge Carter presided over the commission. The city was represented by Health Commissioner Reynolds, the Board of Trade by P. B. Weare, the Real Estate board by W. W. Baird, the River Improvement association by L. O. Goddard, the Drainage Trustees by Z. R. Carter, the Lake Carriers' association by Captain J. G. Keith, and G. J. Brine attended to look after the interests of Armour & Co. Major Willard, United States engineer, was present, but explained that the War department would not allow him to serve formally on the commission.

In Deadlock Over Bridges.

The refusal of the city to issue a permit to the Sanitary District for the construction of new bascule bridges across the river at Main street and Ashland avenue will delay those improvements indefinitely. The Sanitary Trustees awarded contracts for these bridges a month ago. Two week ago the Drainage board applied to the city for a permit to begin work. President Jones was advised yesterday that the city would refuse to issue the permits unless the city was allowed to put its own inspectors on the bridges to supervise the work, the officials to be paid by the Drainage board. President Jones refused to consider this proposition, and no permit will be issued unless the city recedes from its position.

BLAMES RICH FOR SMOKE.

FRANKLIN MACVEAGH SAYS HELPLESS POOR SUFFER.

Municipal Art League President, in Arguing Before Council Committee for New Ordinance, Declares the Well-to-Do Bring About Wretched Conditions Here, Then Leave Town, While the Helpless Working Classes Must Endure Bad Air and Streets.

"In so far as the smoke nuisance is able it has made Chicago unfit for residence. It is the well-to-do who impose the nuisance on the people and the other classes suffer from it. The wealthy can leave the city if they want to and they are leaving it in great numbers—by dozens. They will not live amid smoke and dirty streets."

This statement of municipal conditions was made before the Judiciary committee yesterday by Franklin MacVeagh, who, as President of the Municipal Art league, advocated the passage of the new smoke regulations. After engineers, firemen, boilermakers, and others interested in the ordinances had discussed their provisions the decision of the committee was postponed until next Wednesday.

"The smoke nuisance can be remedied," declared Mr. MacVeagh. "The use of anthracite coal would be efficacious, but that is not necessary. Smoke is being consumed and can be consumed. So long as the smoke nuisance continues it will be because the Council and the executive department of the city do not do their duty. Does the Council think it not worth while? Does the executive department?

"I think it is worth while and so does every man with the interests of Chicago at heart. This question is important from the standpoint of health, decency, and property interests, which are being sacrificed from time to time.

Who the Guilty Ones Are.

"One great obstacle to advance has been a misconception. The suppression of the smoke nuisance has been considered a matter of the interest of the well-to-do, of taste, of esthetics, and the subject of outcry by the wealthy." Then Mr. MacVeagh declared it was the well-to-do who are to blame. "The common remark is that Chicago is not a fit place to live in," he continued. "I am loyal to Chicago, have lived here and intend to do so, in spite of the smoke.

"I appeal to you for this reform in the name of the poor. Those are the men, women, and children I am thinking of as President of the Municipal Art league when I try to interest officials in this step. It is the poor man and his wife and child, who live in the river wards and whom even the lake wind does not benefit, whose battle we are fighting."

Three Plans Under Consideration.

The committee had under consideration three measures; one to compel every engineer, fireman, or stoker to obtain a license, which may be revoked if dense smoke is produced; another to secure city inspection and record of all boilers put in, while Alderman Brennan wanted the owner who persists in violating the ordinances compelled to use hard coal.

Architect Louis H. Sullivan told the committee that the smoke evil was holding back architectural development in a manner not known to the public.

J. C. Kochenderfer, representing the International Union of Stationary Engineers, and James Donald of the same body, protested that the engineer should not be held responsible before the owner of the building, who provides the furnace and fuel. Patrick Enright, representing the Union of Firemen, demanded the presence of a fireman on the Board of Examining Engineers.

FOUR INDIANS AND MANY WILD BEASTS ARE KILLED.

Extraordinary Roundup Takes Place on Texas Ranch by Indians and Cowboys—Many Exciting Encounters.

El Paso, Tex., March 15.—[Special.]—In a roundup of wild animals that has just taken place on the cattle ranches of Colin Campbell, in Cachise County, a count of the dead animals showed the number killed to be twelve black bears, seven grizzlies, and nineteen mountain lions, two lynx, and about a hundred and fifty coyotes.

Four Indians were killed by the beasts and several were injured. Dozens of dogs were killed.

One hundred Indians belonging to the Pima tribe and about twenty cowboys comprised the roundup party. They were aided by about two hundred dogs.

Many of the animals, infuriated by the attacks of the dogs, attempted to break through the line, but were met with volleys of bullets and shot down.

LOVE LEADS GIRL TO LOCKUP.

Miss Lulu Huston Arrested for Pounding on Door of House Where Clarence Gray Lives.

Clarence Gray and Miss Lulu Huston can now learn whether love laughs at police station locksmiths. Miss Huston was arrested yesterday because in trying to find Mr. Gray she pounded on the front door of his parents' residence, 6317 Parnell avenue.

Clarence is 25 years old and works for his father, J. M. Gray, a real estate man. Miss Huston is an actress and lives at the Hotel Englewood. They met several years ago. Clarence's parents soon objected to the attention he paid Miss Huston, but accomplished nothing. He was offered a partnership with his father if he would give up the girl, but refused.

Mrs. Gray warned Miss Huston to keep away from the house, but the girl called at the real estate office to see young Gray at noon yesterday, and, not finding him there, went to the house. Here she is said to have pounded vigorously on the door. Mrs. Gray met her and Miss Huston is alleged to have become disorderly and was arrested. Young Gray says he will secure her release.

FEAR FOR LAKE STREET BRIDGE.

Ice Above the Desplaines River Structure Breaking Away and Watchmen Become Alarmed.

The watchmen in charge of the street car bridge on Lake street over the Desplaines River were afraid last night that the bridge would be swept away before morning. Just above the bridge is a plat of ice three blocks long, and when the river began to fall at 10 o'clock much of the ice broke away from the bank. Should the whole mass become detached it is feared that the bridge cannot be saved. The slough bridge at Madison street was chained to trees in the afternoon, and the car company had men at work all day breaking the ice.

DAY OF TERROR ON BOAT INDIANA

Goodrich Liner Breaks Rudder Off Racine and Drifts Helpless in High Sea.

ON THE BOTTOM ONCE.

Twenty-six Passengers Hold On for Life and Crowds of Spectators Line the Shore.

TOWED INTO PORT AT LAST.

Twenty-six passengers on the Goodrich line steamer Indiana, bound from Chicago to Milwaukee, watched in alarm from 2 o'clock yesterday morning until 4 in the afternoon while their craft, with its rudder gone, rolled helpless in the trough of a north gale off Racine.

Once, in the early morning, the big wooden vessel struck on the sandy bottom, and the passengers realized they stood face to face with a shipwreck. At the critical moment, however, the steamer F. & P. M. No. 1 of the rival line, along with the steamer Atlanta, sister ship of the Indiana, came to the rescue and stood by till the disabled steamer drafted away from shore. The peril of the boat did not end then, however. From 3 a. m. until after daylight it drifted helpless in a tremendous sea. Its anchors were unable to hold it. At times the waves dashed clear over its upper works. Had the wind veered toward the east nothing could have kept it from going on shore.

The steamer dragged its anchors all morning before the gale, just outside of the breakers, but it did not strike again. At 4 in the afternoon, when it had been blown five miles, it was taken in tow by the tug Meyers, which had been sent from Milwaukee. The twenty-six passengers, worn out by their rough experience, hurried ashore at Racine and resumed their journey by rail. The Indiana will be towed to Milwaukee today and docked, if the sea goes down.

Leaves Chicago with Big Cargo.

The Indiana left Chicago on Thursday night at 8 o'clock with a big cargo of miscellaneous freight besides the passengers. Most of the latter were sailors bound for lower lake ports. Edward Raymond, a lumberman of Eau Claire, and a Chicago traveling man named Kelly were also on the passenger list. Captain Edward Sniffen of Manitowoc was in charge.

When the boat passed out of the Chicago River the wind was blowing a gale from the northeast and a big sea was on. The vessel plowed along without much difficulty. After 1 a. m. the boat sighted Racine light. The wind by that time had veered to the north and blew straight up the lake.

The change in the wind appeared to pile the sea up higher, and Captain Sniffen decided that it was too rough to put in at Racine. His determination was strengthened by observing that the Barry line boat F. and P. M. No. 1, which had left Chicago at the same time, was also going to give Racine a wide berth. The two boats were then a mile apart. The Indiana passed the harbor entrance at 2 a. m. and had almost reached Wind Point, two miles beyond, when there was a crash and a jar.

There was excitement on the boat a minute later. It was found that the rudder had snapped off close to the stem. Immediately the boat got into the trough of the waves, and in another moment it struck the bottom.

Evidently the boat had struck a sand bank, for it scraped along on the bottom only for an instant and then came clear.

By 4 a. m. the Indiana had blown two miles and was just opposite Racine harbor, and at that time the Atlanta of the Goodrich line, bound to Chicago from Milwaukee, came in sight and steamed alongside.

Hawser Parts at Once.

The Captain of the Atlanta at first passed a hawser to the disabled craft. It broke almost as soon as it was made fast. Then the Atlanta started for the harbor to summon help, and secured the fish tug Emma Bloucher. The sea was so bad then that a line could not be passed.

The Indiana was drifting slowly south and away from shore. A telegram was sent to Milwaukee for the tug Myers, and the Atlanta gave up its effort.

By 3 o'clock in the afternoon, when the tug Myers hove in sight, the Indiana had drifted almost two miles south of Racine harbor. The shore was now lined with excited spectators. The waves had subsided enough so that the Myers was able to go close to the Indiana, and a line was passed. At 5 o'clock the boat tied up in the river. The Atlanta resumed its course to Chicago.

SICK PRIEST REFUSED AT THREE CHICAGO HOSPITALS.

Father Tinan Chill, Stricken with Paralysis, the Police Say, Is Denied Admission for Treatment.

Father Tinan Chill of Rensselaer, Ind., suffered a stroke of paralysis last night at 10 o'clock while coming into the Polk street station. The police say they left the priest at the St. Elizabeth Hospital, but at an early hour this morning the clerk at the hospital said he had no knowledge of a Catholic priest having been brought there.

When the ambulance arrived at the Polk street station the police found Father Chill in what was believed to be a dying condition. They took him to Mercy, St. Joseph, and the Alexian Brothers' Hospital, but were unsuccessful in securing admission, it is said, because the places were crowded.

The priest was left at St. Elizabeth's shortly before midnight, still unconscious.

CARRIAGE GLASS CUTS DOCTOR.

N. T. Quarles the Victim of a Defect in His Vehicle—Thrown Through Window.

Dr. N. T. Quarles, 52 Fowler street, was injured yesterday afternoon by being thrown through the front of his closed carriage. When near Leavitt and Le Moyne streets a front wheel gave way, letting the carriage to the ground. Dr. Quarles pitched forward and was cut about the head and face by the glass. He was taken to the Norwegian Deaconess' Hospital, 788 North Artesian avenue, where his injuries were dressed. The horse stopped after the carriage dropped.

MORE UPROAR IN SNELL.

STUDENTS GIVE PROF. GOODSPEED A QUEER WELCOME.

New Head of University House Driven from His Room, Engineer Says, by Rope from His Window, After Water Had Been Thrown Through the Transom and Horse Pistols Discharged in the Hall—Tie Door Fast from Outside.

Students in Snell Hall at the University of Chicago acted contrary to custom when they planned and carried out special ceremonies for the installation of their new head, Professor Edgar J. Goodspeed. The students celebrated his first night in the hall by tying the door of the professor's room after he had retired, throwing water through the transom while he was in bed, shooting horse pistols in the hall, blowing horns, and slamming doors. Dr. Goodspeed, according to the story told, finally made his exit from a second story window by sliding down an improvised rope made of a sheet.

Start Uproar in the Hall.

As soon as Dr. Goodspeed had put out the lights in his room and was safe in bed the waiting students came forth from their rooms and securely tied the door of the professor's room. Then they began their joyous celebration and tried to make the new head feel at home. In this praiseworthy effort they brought out pitchers of water, which were poured through the transom of the professor's room. This deluge roused the professor from his sleep in a hurry.

While the students were discharging revolvers, blowing horns, shouting through megaphones, and slamming the doors, Professor Goodspeed was making plans to escape. From the evidences found by the janitor in the morning and the statement of the engineer at the power-house, Professor Goodspeed tied his sheets to the window and thus improvised a rope by which he escaped to the ground. Trying to return to catch the culprits, he found the outer doors locked.

He went to the boiler-room and was advised by the engineer to climb the fire escape on the west side of Snell Hall. This he did, and the frightened and surprised students scattered before him and rushed to their rooms. Professor Goodspeed then left the hall for the night.

Hang Out Sign of Welcome.

Before the return of Professor Goodspeed in the evening the young men had strung a rope from his window to a lamp post in front of the hall. On it they hung a sign reading: "Welcome, Eddie Goodspeed."

Professor Edgar Goodspeed is the son of Professor T. W. Goodspeed, secretary of the Board of Trustees of the university and is professor of New Testament and Patristic Greek. He recently was appointed to succeed Henry G. Gale, former head of the hall, who was married last January.

Professor Goodspeed refused to have anything whatever to say about the prank yesterday afternoon.

THREE MEN PERISH IN A BOSTON NEWSPAPER FIRE.

Flames Cut Off Escape of Employes of the Advertiser—Printers and Editors Forced to Flee by Way of the Roof.

Boston, Mass., March 15.—Three lives were sacrificed, nearly a dozen men were injured, and many thousands of dollars' damage was sustained as the result of a fire in the Daily Advertiser and Record seven-story granite front building in Newspaper Row tonight. The dead are:

CRAFT, JUDSON, proofreader, of Cambridge.
LUSCOMBE, WALTER, proofreader, of Salem.
RICHARDSON, JAMES, SR., proofreader, of Boston.

The fire started in the pressroom, spread to the elevator well, and darted to the top of the building so rapidly that before the occupants of the two upper floors were aware that the building was on fire their rooms were filled with flames and smoke.

In the editorial-room on the sixth floor there were five men. All had to run for their lives. On the upper floor, occupied by the composing-room, were eighteen compositors and proofreaders, whose situation was most critical. They rushed for the windows leading to the fire escapes, and all but three of them succeeded in gaining the roof of an adjoining building.

The three victims, all proofreaders, were suffocated before they had time to reach the fire escapes. Those who escaped were obliged to jump several feet to the roof of the adjoining building, and in this way a number of them suffered injuries.

RUSSIANS WIN AT TIEN TSIN.

Czar's Troops Sieze Railway Siding in Spite of Threats by English Troops.

BRITISH SOLDIERS IN LINE

Hongkong Regiment with Fixed Bayonets Wait Orders to Resist Aggression.

KAISER TO REMAIN NEUTRAL

Count Von Buelow, in Reichstag Speech, Outlines German Policy in the Far East.

M'KINLEY ORDERS TROOPS AWAY.

[Special Cable to The Chicago Tribune.]

LONDON, March 16, 3 a. m.—A dispatch from Pekin states that the Russians at Tien Tsin have taken possession of the railway siding and armed sentries are now guarding it. General Barrow (second in command of the British forces), hesitates to act apparently in the absence of General Gaselee, feeling sure that bloodshed would ensue. He has had long consultation with Sir Ernest Satow, the British Minister. The Russians are jubilant.

Troops Were Face to Face.

Another dispatch received here from Tien Tsin by Reuter's Telegram company, dated from that city yesterday at 3:20 p. m., says:

"The Russians are now intrenching in the disputed territory. A company of the Hongkong regiment, with fixed bayonets, is in front, while two companies of the Madras Pioneers, under the command of Major Johnson, are held in reserve.

"Both the Russians and the British are awaiting instructions from their governments."

Friction Officially Admitted.

The friction between Russia and Great Britain over the land in dispute at Tien Tsin was referred to in the House of Commons tonight by Lord George Hamilton, Secretary of State for India.

The Russians assert that the land is part of their new concession, and therefore Russian property. Mr. Kinder, manager of the railway, last Tuesday begun to make a siding, but was stopped by the Russian authorities. He appealed to Colonel McDonald, who referred the matter to General Barrow, British chief of staff in Pekin, who replied: "Carry on the siding with armed force if necessary."

Guards were put on the line by the British and the work continued.

General Wagasak, the Russian commander, protested and said the thing would not have been done if the Russians had had as many troops as the British, adding that such matters should be left to diplomacy.

Colonel McDonald again communicated with General Barrow, who telegraphed: "Continue the siding."

General Wagasak, indignant, appealed to the Russian Minister to Pekin, M. de Giers.

Claimed Under New Treaty.

Lord George Hamilton said that Russia claimed the land by virtue of a concession alleged to have been granted by China since the disturbances commenced. The authorities on the spot, he said, were dealing with the matter. The government had not sent special instructions, as throughout the Chinese operations the British officers had shown a sprit of excessive conciliation.

Outlines Germany's Position.

[Special Cable to The Chicago Tribune.]

BERLIN, March 15.—Germany has no interest in the Manchurian question, does not know the nature of the secret agreement between Russia and China over that province, and has no curiosity on the subject.

Moreover, Germany will maintain an attitude of strict neutrality in any controversy between any of the powers over conflicting interests in Manchuria.

Such was the declaration in the Reichstag today by Count von Bülow, the Imperial Chancellor, in a speech in which he presented a bill appropriating 123,000,000 marks for the expenses of the German expedition in China, and in which he carefully reviewed the whole Chinese question.

Utters Significant Warning.

But in concluding his speech he uttered the following significant warning in answer to a question by the Radical, Herr Richter:

"If by 'world policy' is meant a tendency to interfere in matters which do not concern us, I am a decided opponent of such 'world policy.' But that we must advance our interests in eastern Asia is a fact that has become historic. It was in that sense that I said three months ago that we must have our place in the sunshine. I say today that we will keep that place in the sunshine, and not let ourselves be pushed into the shade."

Count von Bülow stated further that the Anglo-German agreement made no reference to Manchuria, and that it contained no secret clauses. He declared that Germany's only purpose was to retain unimpaired her possessions and trade interests in China, and he added that Germany's relations with all the powers were cordial.

Germany Will Be Neutral.

The Chancellor's declaration is regarded in diplomatic circles here as a direct assurance that Germany will remain neutral in any controversy between the powers over the Province of Manchuria, in which British, Russian, and Japanese interests apparently conflict.

In his speech Chancellor von Bülow traced the deliberations of the envoys at Pekin, and then took up the question of Germany's relations to the powers, referring to each in detail. He continued:

"Just as good as our relations with Russia and Great Britain are our relations with the United States, France, and Japan. The United States is taking her part zealously in the negotiations and is especially displaying the keenest interest in the maintenance of China's integrity.

"Between ourselves and France there ..."

in China, as in most parts of the other points of the earth, no essential opposition.

Germany's task is to restore peaceful conditions in China as soon as possible and retain unimpaired our possessions and trade interests. We wish, by just and loyal attitude, to assuage the existing differences, and, by the cooperation of others, to attain our common objects and secure suitable compensation for the costs of the expedition rendered necessary by the outrage upon the law of nations and to maintain the freedom of our trade."

Herr Richter, the Radical leader, asked the Chancellor how the Manchurian agreement between Russia and China stood. Russia was mounted in the saddle, while Germany held the stirrup. He feared that German politics in regard to China were proceeding in a blind alley.

Socialist Leader Fears War.

Herr Bebel, Socialist leader, said there was no need for so many German troops in China. He protested against providing troops for Great Britain. The most serious developments in China had yet to come. He feared that what had begun in the East must one day be settled with arms in the West.

After several other speeches the Chancellor again spoke and said he did not know the position regarding the Manchuria agreement, and did not believe the governments most concerned knew.

Suggestions for Chinese Reform.

[Special Cable to The Chicago Tribune.]

PEKIN, March 15.—According to the Emperor's command the Viceroys and Governors have presented suggestions for reform to the Chinese plenipotentiaries here. One of these emphasizes educational reforms and the adoption of the idea of Sir Robert Hart, director of the maritime customs, that literary examinations should continue, but all the candidates getting the highest degree be compelled while waiting for office to take a course in foreign branches, especially those treating of foreign relations, international law, political topics, and official equipment.

Germans Loot a Town.

It was reported at the United States Legation today by the Rev. W. S. Ament that the Germans had visited the market town of Nau-Ming, sixty miles from Pekin, and completely looted it and despoiled women of their trinkets, even taking rings out of their ears.

The attitude of the Russian Minister regarding further punishments is delaying the demands of the powers upon China. Mr. Rockhill, the American special commissioner, says that personally he is in favor of drawing a clean sheet over additional executions, but that certain high officials in the provinces are guilty of barbarous crimes and that it is generally recognized that they should be punished.

At the latest meeting of the Ministers M. de Giers vehemently declared that he would rather see his right hand cut off than consent to further decapitations.

M'KINLEY ORDERS TROOPS AWAY

American Soldiers in China to Proceed to Manila, Leaving Only 150 to Guard Legation.

Washington, D. C., March 15.—An order was sent to General Chaffee today for the evacuation of China by American troops, leaving only a legation guard of 150 men. The troops will be removed from China the last of April.

The dispatch to General Chaffee in Pekin is as follows:

Adjutant General's Office, March 15, 1901.—Chaffee, Pekin: In reply to your telegram Secretary of War directs you complete arrangements; sail for Manila with your command and staff officers by end April, leaving as legation guard infantry company composed of 150 men having at least one year to serve or those intending to reenlist, with full complement officers, medical officer, sufficient hospital corpsmen, and, if you think best, field officer especially qualified to command guard.

Retain and instruct officer Quartermaster's department proceed to erect necessary buildings for guard, according to plan and estimates you approve.

Colonel Charles F. Humphrey, on arrival, will make an inspection of Quartermaster's department, Philippine Islands until July 1, when he will be assigned to duty as Chief Quartermaster at Manila and Miller ordered to the United States.

All stores and supplies not required for legation guard to be disposed of, in your best judgment, of course. Serviceable supplies needed Philippine Islands will be sent Manila. Division of the Philippines will furnish supplies for legation guard.

MacArthur notified. CORBIN.

It was said at the War department that this clears up the Chinese situation so far as the War department is concerned, as the protection of the legation can in no sense be taken as occupation of Chinese territory, and the guard cannot be used for any other purpose.

The transports Sumner and Indiana will be sent to Taku to take the troops in China to Manila. These troops consist of the Ninth Infantry, four troops of the Sixth Cavalry, and the light battery, formerly commanded by Captain Reilly. Two transports will bring away the 2,100 animals which have been used by the army in China.

General Chaffee has advised the department that the best place of embarkation is Taku, which no doubt will be clear of ice on the date fixed for departure.

SAN JUAN, Porto Rico, March 15.—A dispatch from Fajardo, Province of Humacao, announces that the United States special service vessel Mayflower, Commander D. Kennedy, with Governor Allen on board, is aground on a sandbar, but that it is believed the vessel has suffered no damage. The government tug Uncas, Chief Boatswain J. W. McLaughlin, has gone to the ship's assistance. James S. Harlan, the newly appointed Attorney General of Porto Rico, today attended the session of the council, occupying his seat for the first time.

ST. PETERSBURG, March 15.—M. Bogolepoff, Minister of Public Instruction, who was shot by Peter Karpovich on Feb. 27 while holding a reception at the ministry, died today from the effects of his injury. It is said that the shooting was due to the harsh measures adopted by the Minister in dealing with the university students.

COUNT BONI IN A DUEL TODAY.

Castellane and Rodays to Fight with Pistols at Twenty-five Paces.

SWISS MEETING IS OFF.

Deroulede and Buffet Settle Their Quarrel with the Pen.

SAY HONOR IS SATISFIED.

[Special Cable to The Chicago Tribune.]

PARIS, March 15.—The conditions of the Castellane-Rodays duel, which is to take place tomorrow, are that two shots from pistols shall be exchanged at twenty-five paces.

Count de Castellane regrets that swords were not the weapons selected, as he is a first-rate swordsman, but a wretched shot. He keeps wonderfully cool under the circumstances.

The time and place of the duel have been kept secret. Even Count de Castellane himself does not know where or when the duel will take place, and will only be informed at the last moment. The details are being kept secret in order to provide against the presence of spectators.

Count de Castellane went to the Chamber of Deputies this afternoon, where many of his friends congratulated him on his conduct.

It is said here that the person who came from M. Deroulede on the eve of President Faure's funeral with the story of the plot was M. Honoré de Luynes.

Deroulede's Duel Is Off.

[Special Cable to The Chicago Tribune.]

BERNE, Switzerland, March 15.—Owing to the fact that detectives have been shadowing them constantly, the duel between MM. Deroulede and Buffet has been abandoned.

The seconds of both men met at midnight in the Hotel Beau Rivage at Ouchy and a verbal agreement was reached that the meeting had been prevented by force of law of the Swiss authorities; that the same obstacles would be met everywhere, and that as the origin of the affair was exclusively political the honor of the principals was safe and the incident was closed.

Statements by the Seconds.

The seconds later drew up the following declaration:

In conformity with our statement of March 13, the four seconds met at Lausanne, after taking the most minute precautions to secure secrecy in the meeting of the two exiles. All the arrangements were made for the adversaries to face one another on Friday morning, when a double decree of expulsion was communicated to them under threat of arrest.

The hotel where we are staying is surrounded and we are obliged to recognize the fact that, henceforth, wherever we might try to meet we shall find some impediments.

The duel was originally exclusively political and put in antagonism the plebiscitary Republican M. Paul Deroulede and the Royalist M. Andre Buffet, who were thereby brought to the field of honor to affirm their political divergencies. Under these material and moral conditions and in the presence of Force Majeure, the undersigned adjudge their honor safe and declare the incident closed.

DE CASSAGNAC.
DE RAMEL.
BARRES.
DE VILLERS.

The decree ordered the duelists and their seconds to leave Swiss territory before 8 o'clock on Friday morning.

M. Deroulede and his party left here for Milan and M. Buffet and his friends started for Basle this morning, accompanied by detectives.

Deroulede Is Not Satisfied.

Before leaving M. Deroulede expressed to his seconds in strong terms his discontent with the issue. He declared that he had been placed in a false position. He said he desired to exchange bullets with the royalist, and it was deplorable that the duel had not taken place.

M. Buffet said: "I guarantee that the royalist party will not remain compromised by M. Deroulede's statement. I shall be unable to keep silence. Otherwise it would be said that a famous name had been given me and that I had to bow before the revelation."

INDIA'S CENSUS IS COMPLETE.

Population of the British Empire in Asia Shown to Be 294,000,000.

[Special Cable to The Chicago Tribune.]

CALCUTTA, March 15.—The census of India, which has just been completed, shows a population of 294,000,000, an apparent increase of 7,000,000 in ten years.

The population has, however, for the first time really remained stationary, the increase being due to improved methods of taking the census.

Owing to the two famines that have raged since the last census was taken and the mortality from disease there has been a great decline in the birth rate. The natives' states show an excessive decline in the birth rate. This result was quite unexpected.

Old World Census Figures.

Washington, D. C., March 15.—The Census office has received through the State department a consular report on the population of the German empire. It is now about 56,000,000, larger, than that of any country in Europe except Russia, which has in Europe alone over 106,000,000 subjects. In 1845 Germany had 34,000,000; in 1865, 40,000,000; in 1885, 47,000,000.

France Has 38,000,000.

France has about 38,000,000, or only two-thirds the number of Germany. In 1845 France had 34,000,000.

The provisional results of the census of Vienna, taken on Dec. 31, 1900, have just been announced, and according to a report from the Consul General at Vienna, show a population of 1,635,647, or nearly 63,000 less than there were in Chicago when the recent census of that city was taken.

LORD WOLSELEY REPLIES TO PERSONAL CHARGES.

Former Commander-in-Chief of the British Army Declares in the House of Lords That He Opposed the Occupation of Ladysmith and Favored the Holding of the Biggarsberg Range, Twenty-five Miles North — Wanted to Send an Entire Corps.

LONDON, March 15.—In the House of Lords today Lord Wolseley, the former Commander-in-Chief, replied to the criticism of the former War Secretary, Lord Lansdowne, now Secretary for Foreign Affairs. He said that Lord Lansdowne's indictments were grave, and it almost seemed as if the personal attack were made in order to divert attention from the question at issue and throw upon the Commander-in-Chief blame for the mistakes made by the government.

Lord Wolseley then proceeded to refute the specific charges made by Lord Lansdowne. He said he had, in February, 1896, recommended that additional troops be sent to south Africa and recommended strengthening the Natal garrison and the defensive occupation, not of the Town of Ladysmith, but of the Biggarsberg range, which was twenty-five miles in advance of Ladysmith. He had never considered Ladysmith and its surrounding hills to be tenable.

Urged an Army Corps.

Three weeks before Mr. Kruger's declaration of war he had urged Lord Lansdowne to send out an army corps, a cavalry division, and five battalions for the lines of communication, in addition to the 10,000 troops already in south Africa.

Lord Wolseley concluded with saying:

"I have said as little as possible consistently with any justice to myself. The noble Marquis made strong personal statements which were not supported. I have made my reply, which is also unsupported. I cannot, however, leave the matter thus. I feel I am amply justified in moving that all the papers be laid on the table. I am prepared to prove by official documents all I have said."

Lord Wolseley's motion was rejected by a vote of 62 to 38.

Lord Lansdowne's Reply.

Lord Lansdowne, in replying, questioned the correctness of some of Lord Wolseley's statements. He reminded the latter how, after the Glencoe disaster, he had suggested that the British should fall back behind the Tugela River. If the suggestion had been given earlier it might have saved one of the most untoward disasters of the war. Lieutenant General Sir William Butler had written a private letter to Lord Wolseley suggesting that 40,000 men might be necessary for the campaign. Lord Lansdowne did not wish to excuse himself for underestimatng the enemy, but Lord Wolseley should bear his full share.

Lord Salisbury said he was not aware that any personal charges had been made against Lord Wolseley.

Lord Rosebery enumerated Lord Lansdowne's charges against Lord Wolseley and said they were personal in the judgment of the mass of the House and the man in the street.

SAY DE WET IS A MADMAN.

British Prisoners Recently Released Think Boer Leader's Mind Has Given Way.

BLOEMFONTEIN, March 15.—Prisoners who have lately been released by General De Wet say they think he is a madman. They aver that the terrible fatigues he has undergone, his anxieties, and the intensity of his feelings have unhinged his mind. Apart from this view of General De Wet's mental state, some of his peculiarities are that he rarely sleeps within the bounds of his camp. He seeks his rest outside, with a few trusted followers. He imparts his plans to no one.

Reports De Wet at Senekal.

[Special Cable to The Chicago Tribune.]

LONDON, March 15.—The War office has received the following dispatch from General Kitchener, dated Pretoria, yesterday: "De Wet is reported to have reached Senekal (northeast of Bloemfontein in the Orange River colony).

"French reports from the eastern Transvaal that in addition to previous captures by him and casualties to the enemy the Boers have recently lost 46 in killed and wounded and 146 have been taken prisoners or have surrendered. He has captured 200 rifles, 3,900 rounds of ammunition, 2,400 horses, 120 mules, 370 trek oxen, 2,500 cattle, and 400 carts and wagons. It is still raining hard and this delays the movement of French's column.

Delarey Executes Five Men.

[Special Cable to The Chicago Tribune.]

CAPE TOWN, March 15.—Five men have been executed outside Walmarans by Boers belonging to General Delarey's commando. The news of the execution was taken to Klerksdorp by Mrs. MacLachlan, whose husband, father, and brother-in-law were among the victims. Three other men have been sentenced to death by the Boers.

The Boer invaders have cut the wires and there is no communication with the eastern districts of Cape Colony and Natal.

FILIPINO GENERAL GIVES UP.

Trias and His Staff Surrender and His Troops Will Lay Down Their Arms.

[Special Cable to The Chicago Tribune.]

MANILA, March 15.—General Trias and the members of his staff surrendered today at Santa Cruz de Malabon and took the oath of allegiance to the United States. His troops are marching to San Francisco de Malabon, where they will formally surrender to Lieutenant Reeves, an aid of General Bates.

The Thirty-second Volunteer Infantry, which has been doing duty in the provinces and will sail for home shortly, arrived here today.

The Thirty-fifth Volunteer Infantry sailed today, with 24 officers and 806 men. Originally the regiment consisted of 50 officers and 1,300 men. Of this number 10 were killed in action, 100 have returned to the United States on sick leave, and 20 officers and 188 men remain here.

The four men who murdered Mr. Wilson, an English employé of the Manila municipality, last November have been sentenced to death and will be hanged tomorrow.

COLLIDES WITH OCEAN LINER.

Swedish Bark Badly Damaged, but Fate of the Other Vessel Is Not Known.

[Special Cable to The Chicago Tribune.]

LIVERPOOL, March 15.—The Captain of the Swedish bark Sygen reports that while off Anglesey during last night his vessel was in collision with an outward bound steamship, which he thinks was an Atlantic liner. The Sygen's masts and gear were carried away and the vessel suffered other damage. It is coming here in tow and the master has asked for further assistance.

[Special Cable to The Chicago Tribune.]

LONDON, March 15.—A dispatch from Lloyd's agent at Liverpool says it is supposed that the vessel which was in collision with the Swedish bark Sygen last night was a Dominion line steamship.

HEWITT LONGS TO RETIRE

Russell Sage Discusses Andrew Carnegie's $5,000,000 Gift to Employes.

GENERAL NEW YORK NEWS.

NEW YORK BUREAU CHICAGO TRIBUNE, New York, March 15.

J. P. Morgan Gives $100,000 to Y. M. C. A.

J. Pierpont Morgan has given $100,000 toward liquidating the debt of the city branch of the Young Men's Christian association. The sum required was $300,000. It took Mr. Morgan just two minutes to make up his mind to give one-third of that amount. He had not been approached about the matter until Tuesday. On that day one of the officers of the association called upon him at his office. The solicitor for aid did little talking. He merely laid a letter showing the needs of the association before Mr. Morgan, and also giving the amount which had already been subscribed.

"Where's your book?" asked Mr. Morgan. The association official produced it. Down went the six figures below the last amount subscribed.

Mr. Morgan knows much about the work the Young Men's Christian association is doing. In 1866 he became treasurer of the city association and had to secure aid for it himself until the year 1871, when he gave up the job. He continued to be a director of the association for a number of years after that, however.

An alleged poolroom, occupying the entire sixth floor of the buildings 42 and 44 Bond street, was raided tonight by the police under the direction of representatives of the Committee of Fifteen. Seven arrests were made, six of them on a warrant issued by Justice Jerome. The seventh arrest was made because the prisoner was giving directions for the destroying of evidence.

Hewitt Would Imitate Carnegie, but Cannot.

Andrew Carnegie is not the only multimillionaire who believes in freeing himself from business cares and devoting his declining years to the "making of his soul." Abram S. Hewitt, ex-Mayor, philanthropist, iron manufacturer, big employer of labor, is another. Advanced in years, failing in health, wealthy beyond the dreams of avarice, he, too, is engaged in "the making of his soul." He is doing it by journeying down-town to a business office every week day, working when he would much rather rest.

"I most thoroughly agree with Mr. Carnegie," says Mr. Hewitt. "I sincerely wish I had a chance to sell out like Mr. Carnegie had. I would jump at it.

"Mr. Carnegie has been extremely fortunate. He is at last at liberty, but I am still in prison. I can't get out. At least, I can't get out on terms which I feel it would be honorable to accept.

"I had a chance some time ago to sell out our Trenton works, but the condition was that they should be closed down permanently. This would have thrown 500 of our people out of work; people who have been with us for years, and many of whom have bought their own little homes in Trenton. I could not accept such terms; so here I am with the burden yet on my shoulders. I suppose death alone will relieve me of it."

Mr. Hewitt contends that "good use of what has been acquired" can be made in active business as well as out of it, and that staying in may, in some cases at least, involve greater personal sacrifices than getting out.

A. N. Rose, Emma Abbott's first friend and benefactor in New York, and for many years at the head of the Baltimore and Ohio railroad's Eastern freight department, died in Yonkers of pneumonia on Thursday.

Russell Sage Talks of Carnegie's Gift.

Russell Sage was asked this morning what he thought of Andrew Carnegie's views regarding the duties of successful businessmen toward themselves, their employés, and the community at large. "It's an important question. He takes a great deal of thought to settle matters of this kind," he answered. "If it's true that he is going to have $5,000,000 tied up and taken care of for the benefit of workmen who need help and deserve it, it's a pretty good scheme—a good deal better than giving one man $1,000,000 for something and another for another thing without making sure your money will be of real use to those who deserve help."

"Mr. Carnegie thinks when a man has been in harness long enough and made a sufficient fortune he ought to retire and take care of his soul," was suggested.

Mr. Sage shook his head, smiling. "I believe in staying in it until the end of the road," he said. "If a man wants to lessen his cares, well and good. But he ought to stick and control things, because he knows the business better than anybody else. I've been in my business from the start. Shall I control my clerks or shall they control me?"

Claudine Sharp Talks of Her Plans.

There was a rumor in musical circles today that, at the next annual meeting of the Philharmonic society, which is scheduled for the end of the orchestra's season next month, Francis E. Hyde, who has been its President for the last thirteen years, will retire and Andrew Carnegie will be elected to succeed him.

Claudine Sharp, the Chicago girl who came over from London with George W. Lederer's party of actors, was resting today from the rather rough ocean trip. She was glad to get back to America, she said, and determined as ever to work her way up in the profession.

Miss Buell, Miss Sharp's aunt, was asked about the stories of the devotion of the Indian Prince, the Maharajah of Kapurthala, to her niece while they were in Paris.

"Those stories are all ridiculous," said Miss Buell. "They were greatly exaggerated and annoying to us. The Prince did meet Claudine, they were together some, and he apparently was fond of being in her company, but it was nothing more than an agreeable acquaintance."

Several large corporations paid out heavy sums in dividends today. The Standard Oil company alone issued checks for $20,000,000. The Consolidated Gas company paid out $1,450,000. Over in Boston the banks connected with the Burlington railroad were busy attending to a payment of a quarterly dividend on that stock, which was equal to $1,498,637.

Tin Can Trust Calls for Payments.

Subscribers to the American Can company have received notices of their allotments and have been requested to send checks in payment for the amount of stock which they will receive to the First National Bank by March 20. The subscriptions were considerably in excess of the amount of stock to be underwritten and there was a scaling down of the amounts in the case of all of the larger subscribers.

Control of the American Can company will be in the hands of the men who are the largest stockholders of the American Tinplate company, and the relations between the two corporations will be of the closest. It is the expectation the general offices of the company will be in New York, although it is to be a New Jersey corporation, and Edwin Norton of Norton Bros. of Chicago, the largest manufacturers of tin cans in the United States, will be selected for President.

Although at one time it was thought Mrs. White would not live to see the next issue of the paper, she stuck pluckily at the work and dictated her editorials until the doctor forbade even that.

Boy Shoots in Attempting to Hold Up Store.

Walter Atkinson, 16 years old, was brought to Camden, N. J., today a prisoner, charged with attempted murder. He had a narrow escape from being lynched last night at Berlin. Atkinson lives in Camden. Yesterday he rode out to Berlin on his bicycle, dismounted in front of James Hewitt's store, and walked inside. Charles McIlvaine was alone. McIlvaine advanced, a pistol was thrust in his face, and he was ordered to give up all the money in the place. McIlvaine did not think the boy would shoot and refused, but he then ducked just in time to miss a bullet. Mr. Hewitt came in and Atkinson fired at him and then fled on his bicycle. He was pursued and ran into a swamp, where he was trailed by dogs. He surrendered. When he was taken back to Berlin a rope was made ready and a noose tied, but cooler heads prevented a lynching.

To Stop Spitting in Public Places.

Chronic spitters will on and after April 1 be vigorously hunted down by specially appointed health inspectors, and a systematic effort made to exterminate them by the health officials. Owing to the numerous communications received relative to the habit of expectorating in public places, President Sexton at a meeting of the Board of Health today caused a resolution to be introduced and adopted ordering the enforcement of the sanitary code regulating the spitting on the floors of public buildings, in cars, and ferry boats. Dr. Roberts, Sanitary Superintendent, said he thought of having uniformed inspectors at public buildings and in public conveyances, and all those who spat on the floor must be arrested.

Moss Tells of Officials Refusing Bribes.

Frank Moss, in a speech before the Patria club tonight on the needs of purification of the city, said that there were hopeful signs, and that the heroes were not all dead. As instances, he said a prominent New-Yorker had refused $50,000 in stock from the Ramapo company that was offered if he would favor that company's ends; that another city official had refused the same amount from another water company, and that a police official, prominent in the Strong administration, had refused $25,000, which was offered by gamblers for permission to conduct their business. The name of the last man Mr. Moss would not give, but he said, after his speech, that the man who had refused the Ramapo bribe was Justice Gaynor, and the man who had refused to do business with another water company was Lucien Knapp, who was Controller of Long Island City before consolidation.

REGENT JURY MAKES PLEA IN COURT FOR MORE HASTE.

Judge Gibbons Limits Arguments to Two Hours for Each Lawyer and Trial May End Today.

The long-suffering Regent case jury "kicked" yesterday. The men who for twenty days have been in charge of a bailiff asked Judge Gibbons to hurry the case along, and the Judge said he would. It is expected the arguments will be concluded by noon today.

The plaint of the jurors came in the afternoon. Each attorney had been allowed two hours for his final argument, and Lawyer King exceeded that time. Judge Gibbons interrupted him and asked the jurors whether they were willing to have the case continued over Sunday.

"We would be thankful to the court if he would expedite matters," answered Juror Alexander Forbes.

"Second the motion," shouted another juror.

The court agreed to expedite the case as much as he could by warning the attorney to be brief.

The day had another feature. It was the plea of guilty entered by Mrs. Della Mahoney, one of the defendants, at the opening of court. The move was a surprise to both the State and the other defendants. Judge Gibbons accepted the plea with the remark:

"The court will extend no favors in this case."

Miss Sheehan and Dr. Reeves, who also pleaded guilty, are wondering if Judge Gibbons feels the same toward them.

Shortly after Mrs. Mahoney's plea had been accepted the defense and prosecution rested, and Assistant State's Attorney Olson commenced the arguments for the prosecution.

LOOK TOWARD A GREATER STATE.

Commercial Interest of Illinois Considered at Banquet of the Manufacturers.

WISE LAWS PLAY A PART.

Members of Legislature Told by Speakers That They Must Do Their Share.

MADDEN SOUNDS KEYNOTE.

Hints on "how to make Illinois the greatest industrial and commercial State in the union" were thrown out to a large number of the members of the Illinois Legislature last night at a banquet given in honor of the Forty-second General Assembly at the Auditorium by the Illinois Manufacturers' association. The subject was discussed by both guests and members of the association, two of the speakers agreeing that a constitutional convention offered an answer to the question, and nearly all the other speakers conceding that legislation in some form might contribute to the advancement of the State's commercial and industrial standing.

Martin B. Madden, President of the association, in his capacity of toastmaster, struck what was conceded to be the keynote of the discussion in his opening remarks when he said that with all her natural advantages Illinois would find it impossible to develop her resources without the hearty cooperation of the municipal and State authorities. His suggestion was amplified by the other speakers, who were as follows: W. B. Conkey, George C. Rankin, Representative from the Thirty-fifth District; Franklin MacVeagh; John C. McKenzie, Senator from the Twelfth District; La Verne W. Noyes; Joseph P. Mahoney, Representative from the Thirteenth District; I. H. Rockwell; Thomas A. Rinaker, Carlinville, State Representative, and J. W. Templeton, Representative from the Thirty-first District.

Age of Progress, Says Madden.

President Madden, after reviewing the natural advantages of Illinois and referring to the necessity for mutual effort on the part of the municipal and State governments, made an appeal for legislation that would aid the industrial development of the State. He said in conclusion:

"Just taxation, economical administration, justice to all interests, discrimination against none will encourage the investment of capital from every part of the union in the State of Illinois. We have had our hopes, our disappointments, a season of progress and then a season of reaction, yet the general trend is up the shores of progress. The beginning of the new century finds the men of Illinois swimming on a new tide of tireless energy which it is hoped will carry them in triumph to that proud position indicated by the subject of the evening.

"There is no reason why America should continue to purchase manufactured articles from foreign countries. We have here the location, the raw material, the shipping facilities, the ability, the genius, the labor, and the money not only to manufacture for our home market but to place our manufactured products in the remotest markets of the world."

Needs of Illinois.

W. B. Conkey addressed his remarks directly to the lawmakers during a portion of his speech, and told them what, in his opinion, the manufacturers of Illinois needed.

"In the first place," he said, "we want laws enacted that will not be detrimental to the interests of manufacturers. There are a number of laws today on the statute books of the State directly affecting the manufacturing interests and the interests of employers that ought not to be there."

George C. Rankin of Monmouth, Ill., spoke to the toast, "Chicago and the Country," his treatment of the topic being in line with the sentiments of those who spoke on the general subject of the evening.

"The opportunity is present," he declared, "and united intelligent endeavor can bring to the city and State future supremacy scarcely dreamt of. Divided counsels and personal jealousies will not reap a golden harvest. The city demands and merits fair and legitimate legislative enactments which will enable it to cast off burdens, to enlarge its capacities, to accept new responsibilities, and to prepare it for the coming day when it will be the acknowledged center of all American virtues and achievements."

MacVeagh for New Code.

Franklin MacVeagh was the first of the speakers to voice a demand for a new constitution as the most potent agency for making Illinois the leading commercial State of the union.

"It seems to me," he said, "that if the curtain is ever to be rung down on the present constitution the time is at hand. It was a great constitution in 1870, but the State has outgrown its limitations. It stands now in the way of legislation and leads to a lot of disgraceful evasive legislation.

"I want to see the Legislature take the questions of political importance, the questions of progress and development, and handle them in such a way that it will not be Massachusetts and New York that set the pace, but Illinois."

State Senator John C. McKenzie defended the present constitution and urged the honest enforcement of existing laws as the best method of enhancing the State's prosperity.

"I still love the constitution of 1870," he said, "and to say to you who advocate a new one, think well and long before you act, for in that old constitution are the barriers of safety for the people of the State."

La Verne W. Noyes declared that a constitutional amendment would serve Chicago's needs. In conclusion he made an argument in favor of the establishment of a permanent annual exposition in Chicago, which would stimulate manufacturing and commercial enterprises.

Senator Mahoney said a new constitution was needed.

SIN UNDER CHARITY CLOAK

LEWIS ADAMS CONFESSES TO SWINDLE IN MANY CITIES.

Former Resident of Grand Rapids, Mich., Arrested in Boston, Admits That He Has Worked Rich People of Boston, Buffalo, Cincinnati, Toledo, and Other Places by Soliciting Funds for Charitable Institutions—Chicago Millionaires on His List.

Boston, Mass., March 15.—[Special.]—Lewis V. R. Adams of Mont Clair, N. J., was arrested here late this afternoon by detectives, charged with forgery and obtaining money under false pretenses. Adams, when brought to police headquarters, broke down and confessed, telling how he worked almost every prominent charitable institution in Boston, Buffalo, Chicago, Cincinnati, Toledo, and Grand Rapids.

According to his confession while in Chicago he solicited "donations" for the Home for Destitute Cripple Children, the Erring Women's Refuge, and a woman's club. Two millionaires are in his books for $1,000 each. The police say the book was filled with names. While in Chicago he cut quite a swath as "the shirt waist man." Here are some of the institutions mentioned in his book which he worked: Woman's Club league, Fort Wayne, Ind.; Old Men's Home, Chicago; Children's Hospital at Buffalo, and the Ingleside Home, Ingleside, N. J.

Found with Raised Checks.

For the last two weeks the police here have been flooded with letters from charitable institutions stating that some unknown man was soliciting donations for them. Detectives were engaged, and they located Adams at a prominent hotel in the South End. When they entered the room he was fingering some checks. One check had originally been made out to him for $20 and was signed by Joseph B. Glover of this city, who gave that sum to Adams for the New England Home for Little Wanderers. Adams secured a blank check and forged Glover's name to one for $3,000. He told the police that he had intended to raise all the others.

Is a Grand Rapids Man.

According to his story he collected thousands of dollars, all of which he lost through speculation. His aliases were many. When brought into headquarters he gave the name of Walter L. Montgomery, but a tag sewed on his garments was inscribed Lewis V. R. Adams, Grand Rapids, Mich. He had removed every other mark of identification from his clothes, but forgot this one, and confessed that was his name. He said his father is a lumber dealer of New York City and that his home is at 37 Plymouth street, Mont Clair.

Adams' scheme was to get hold of a list of charitable institutions in the city he had decided to work and then manage to get hold of a sheet of their letterhead paper, on which he would forge a credential, usually signed by the treasurer or President of the institution, empowering him to collect donations for them. He would then select a hundred names of wealthy residents and work them for "donations."

CRIMINAL SHOOTS A DEPUTY IN AN ATTEMPT TO ESCAPE.

Joseph Goldstein Makes Break for Liberty at Duluth After Being Sentenced and Wounds Officer.

Duluth, Minn., March 15.—[Special.]—Joseph Goldstein shot and perhaps fatally wounded Deputy Sheriff Frank L. Magie here this afternoon in an attempt to escape. Magie was taking him from the courtroom to the jail. As they emerged from the courthouse Goldstein made a dash, but Magie seized him. As they were struggling the prisoner drew a revolver and fired, the bullet shaving a button off the vest of another deputy. Then he fired again, the shot taking effect in Magie's hand. As the deputy fell back the prisoner fired another shot, which struck Magie in the forehead, and he staggered and fell.

Goldstein then took to his heels, pursued by several deputies. As they ran they fought. Goldstein and Deputy Sheriff Randall fired three shots each, none of which took effect.

When Goldstein's revolver was empty he tossed it in the air and surrendered. When he was taken back to jail a crowd gathered and there were many threats of lynching. The deputies hustled him back into jail, just in time to avoid trouble.

The bullet did not penetrate Magie's skull, as was thought at first, but glanced from the forehead under the scalp and came out through the top of his head.

Goldstein is a well known criminal, having served terms in Boston, Albany, Toronto, and other places. Not long ago he held up a gambling-house at Virginia, Minn., and when he was about to be captured in a saloon in Hibbing held a crowd at bay with his revolver while he backed out of the room and fled.

BOY ROUTS A BULLDOG THAT BITES SCHOOLMATE.

Charles Blasgel, Eleven Years Old, Strikes Animal with a Shovel and Drives It Away.

When a savage bull dog was repeatedly biting Charles Waters, 13 years old, Charles Blasgel, 11 years old, came to the rescue and succeeded in beating the animal away, but not until he himself had been severely bitten. The affair took place in the yard of the Bass Perkins School, Sixty-seventh and May streets.

The pupils were at play when the dog entered the yard. Young Waters produced a shoestring and tied it around the dog's neck, declaring that he would take the animal home. Waters pulled on the shoestring and the dog leaped on him and bore him to the ground. Waters screamed as the animal buried its teeth in his leg, and bit him on the hand.

Young Blasgel seized a coal shovel, which the janitor had left on the play ground, and struck at the dog, which turned on him and bit him on the leg. Swinging the shovel again Blasgel brought it down on the dog's head. The animal ran into the rear of a house at 6718 May street and later was killed by a policeman.

A large black dog attacked Loretta Ferdinand, 10 years old, when she was returning from school yesterday and bit her on the cheek. The girl was opposite 5720 Ashland avenue when the dog appeared. It was frothing at the mouth.

CHICAGO GIRL ASKS DAMAGES.

Miss Anna R. Maddern Sues Boston Politician for $50,000 for Breach of Promise.

Boston, Mass., March 15.—[Special.]—Miss Anna R. Maddern has sued Jesse M. Gove, the Republican leader of Boston, for $50,000, alleging that he has failed to keep a promise to marry her. She says that in 1898, when she was 17 years old she met Gove in Chicago and later was induced to come to Boston to marry him. In all the years since she has not become Mrs. Gove and in the meantime has loaned Gove $20,000. Gove has a wife and several children. He is reputed to be wealthy.

Mrs. Morris Seeks a Divorce.

Mrs. Nellie Morris, wife of Simeon I. Morris, who assaulted John W. Gates several months ago because of alleged wrongs, has filed suit for divorce, on the ground of intoxication and cruelty. The couple was married June 12, 1878, at Independence, Ia. Mrs. Morris was granted an injunction restraining her husband from visiting her flat, 201 Dearborn avenue.

WEST VAN BUREN STREET, DOTTED WITH MUD-FILLED RUTS.

[From a photograph taken yesterday for THE TRIBUNE.]

West Van Buren street, at the intersection of Jefferson street, presents a striking example of the condition of Chicago streets. Along the tracks of the street railway and north of them on Jefferson street are more than twenty-five holes in the pavement. These holes, which are from five to twelve inches deep, just now are filled with mud and slush. Between the water holes and the track on the one side and the curb on the other side is a layer of mud varying in thickness from three to eight inches. Some of the holes, which are two or three feet in diameter, present constant danger to heavy teams. Pedestrians crossing Van Buren street at this point are compelled to wade through mud which is almost ankle deep.

DIRTIEST OF ALL CITIES.

CHICAGO STREETS ARE SEEN AT THEIR WORST JUST NOW.

Accumulated Filth Mixed with Water Until a Paste Is Formed Which Covers the Thoroughfares and Fills the Ruts—Now That Election Is Near the Mayor "Awakens" and Puts More Men on the Pay Rolls—Higher Bids Expected.

"It is well for the interests of Mayor Harrison and his campaign," said a Chicago man who recently returned from a visit to a number of other large cities, "that most Chicago business-men are so busy they haven't much time to look around. If they were traveling through other cities with time for observation they would come home to find that Chicago is the dirtiest, filthiest city in the world."

The weather conditions of the last few days have been such as to show up at greatest disadvantage the condition of the city's streets. It has been possible, indeed easy, to step in small pools of water on almost any crossing, even in the down-town district, which drench the shoes of men and women in a muddy slime in spite of the protection of rubbers. When snow falls it is dingy and almost black in six hours.

When the streets are dry they do not appear so odious, but they are little less dangerous. The litter often is swept into piles by the wind, but after the street has been so brushed and the dirt is left in a heap no one comes to take it away. Then the wind veers again and throws the filth into the faces of pedestrians.

People returning to the city after a trip to cities of this country, or, indeed, any other, are surprised to find to what a low point municipal uncleanliness has fallen. Many Chicago people have visited Havana this winter and there, although the city formerly was held the synonym of uncleanliness, they find the streets looking—by comparison with Chicago—like well swept floors.

"Awakening" of the Mayor.

After allowing the mud and slush, trash and filth to lie thus unmolested in the streets all the winter, the Mayor awakened yesterday all of a sudden to the "political possibilities in a big increase in the city's pay roll as a help to his campaign. Accordingly the recently reinstated Superintendent of Streets, M. J. Doherty, made a requisition on the Civil Service commission for 800 additional street laborers, representing as many votes.

His scheme for the customary preelection padding of pay rolls was made difficult, however, by a ruling of the Civil Service Commissioners regarding the appointment of temporary men. Superintendent Doherty was ordered to show "cause" for the addition, and to continue showing "cause" each day he continued to keep the men on the rolls.

In all, the Street department asked for 1,400 men, but as 600 are at work now the increase was only 800. As such requests are made just before elections and have come to be regarded with suspicion.

The ruling was made that in the case of temporary appointments the head of the department must report to the commission at 5 o'clock the day before the men go to work, the number of men needed, and the character of the work intended to be done. On the day after placing the men at work he must show cause for their continuance, and this must be repeated as long as the extra force is at work. The statement must be accompanied with a detailed report as to the number of men employed and the average number needed.

"There is always a plea that the men are needed, and we cannot say that the privilege of temporary appointments is abused," said Commissioner Ela, "but just at this time it was thought wise to put as many precautions about the appointment of temporary men as possible."

Higher Bids Expected.

At the public letting of street improvement contracts today, which will begin the spring work for the Board of Special Assessments, one of the results of bad county and city bookkeeping is expected to develop. Contractors are expected to raise their rates so that the city will be unable to secure the improvement of streets at anything approaching the prices for which other improvements have been secured.

The bids are the first to be opened for six months and it is the first opportunity there has been for a test. The estimates on the improvements are $607,000, of which $550,000 is for street paving and $57,000 for sewer work. Thirty streets are to be paved, twelve with asphalt, nine with brick, six with macadam, two with granite, and one with cedar block. The more important streets or "systems" are as follows:

West Fortieth avenue system, 6 miles of street in the Twelfth and Thirty-fourth Wards, macadam, estimated cost..... $140,000
Longwood avenue system, Thirty-first Ward, macadam, estimated cost..... 40,000
West Huron street, from Center avenue to Noble street, asphalt; estimated cost..... 15,500
Randolph street, from Desplaines to Halsted street, Haymarket square, granite block..... 34,000
Noble street, from Kinzie street to Milwaukee avenue, estimated cost..... 50,000

Supposed Cleveland Man Kills Himself.

Within a dozen feet of a number of persons who were standing at Twenty-first and Lincoln streets last evening a man supposed to have been Joseph Krisomek, 81 Lackett street, Cleveland, O., committed suicide by shooting. The man is supposed to have been demented. A telegram from Cleveland says that a Joseph Krivonek, which is the most similar name in the city directory, is a grocer of some means.

Blow Over Heart Fatal to Boy.

As a result of a blow over the heart received, it is asserted, in a fight with a companion, James Healy, 13 years old, died yesterday at his home, 2027 Loomis street. The police of the Deering Street Station have arrested George Miller, who is said to have fought with Healy. Miller is 17 years old and lives at 3012 Sullivan court. He is held pending the inquest.

Miss Evans to Go on Stage.

Miss Jane Evans, daughter of John Evans, 930 Maple avenue, Evanston, has signed contracts with Harry Corson Clark and James K. Hackett for a stage career. She will make her initial appearance on April 1 with Mr. Clark, her contract with Mr. Hackett commencing on Sept. 1.

INDICT MEN OF RICHTON.

WILL COUNTY GRAND JURY FINDS TRUE BILLS FOR THREE.

State's Attorney Heise Procures Evidence by Sending Witnesses to the Poolroom Stockade on Trains from Chicago—Cook's Inquisitors Will Be Instructed by Judge Tuley to Investigate Gambling—South Side Minister After Policy Shops.

The initiatory steps toward ridding Will County of pool selling were taken yesterday when indictments against the proprietors of the Richton poolrooms were returned by the Will County grand jury. Thomas Moriarity, Albert Monahan, and Patrick O'Reilly are named as keepers. State's Attorney Heise is confident that he has ample evidence to secure convictions in all cases. Jerome P. Stevens, the Joliet horseman, was foreman of the indicting jury.

As no persons are admitted to the Richton stockade it was necessary to take the special train to the poolrooms from this city. Several newspaper men passed unchallenged and purchased a number of tickets. These were afterwards shown to the grand jury and formed the basis of the indictments. The details of the pool selling were listened to with much interest.

Minister Fights Policy Shops.

The Rev. George W. Fink, pastor of the Mayflower Mission, 4323 Wentworth avenue, today will institute a crusade, with the assistance of Police Captain Lavin, against the fifty policy shops in the territory bounded by Wallace, Root, and State streets, and Garfield boulevard. Merchants are complaining because customers have no money to pay their bills, and there is said to be much suffering in the district.

Captain Revere detailed Detectives Sederberg and Jackson yesterday to investigate complaints that a policy shop was being conducted at 263 Division street. The officers arrested Cutley Adams, Harry Williams, and M. P. Brown.

Grand Jury Takes Up Policy.

When the March grand jury convenes on Monday it will be instructed by Judge Tuley to devote its spare time to investigating the policy shop violations aired by THE TRIBUNE recently. The February grand jury in its report confessed that it had found conditions dangerous to the home and to the fair name of the city, but said that the term was too short to allow it to seek the persons responsible for these conditions.

A long list of policy shops and gambling-houses furnished to the February jury was left in the possession of the State's Attorney as a legacy to the coming inquiry. The jury is expected to verify this list, in which effort the February jury failed, because, its report explained, of the confessed ignorance of the heads of the Police department, whom it had called in and questioned, relative to gambling.

Among the citizens who have been summoned for the March jury are William W. S. Carpenter, 1149 Washington boulevard; Hebern Claflin, 6430 Kimbark avenue; Henry H. Walker; Chicago club; William J. Bradford, 3861 Lake avenue; Charles H. Taylor, 4050 Indiana avenue; and Wiley S. McCrea, 122 Pine street.

SAYS SIXTY PERISHED IN FIRE.

Man, Suffering from Burns, Arrives at Mobile, Ala., with Story of Turpentine Camp Blaze.

Mobile, Ala., March 15.—[Special.]—A turpentine camp across the bay in Baldwin County was burned early this morning and sixty people, mostly negroes, are supposed to have perished. As far as known F. C. Pressler, who brought the news here, is the only man who survived.

This is his story, which has not yet been corroborated from any source:

"I was awakened by the intense heat and the crackling of timbers around me. The whole earth seemed ablaze. I was sleeping near the door and instinctively rushed out into the open when I discovered what was happening. I didn't take time to make a close inspection of the room. It was full of smoke, such as pine timber gives out, and I believe not one of my companions escaped.

"I made a dash through the fire as soon as I grasped the situation. I was undressed, and the charred timbers on the ground burned my feet and the smoke almost choked me, but I kept running towards the swamp, knowing I could escape if I reached it. More than once I fell, but managed finally to reach the swamp where I rolled in a pool of water. Then I fainted.

"I do not know how long I lay there, but this evening I woke up. I knew I must reach Mobile or die from my hurts. I made my way to a little landing, where the camp had several canoes, and rowed over here."

Pressler is of the opinion that the fire was started by three negroes who were run out of the camp yesterday morning. They were roughly handled before being allowed to leave, and he thinks they set fire to the woods for revenge. The negroes are not known here, but Pressler furnished a good description of them and a posse has gone to Baldwin County to look for them. If apprehended they are sure to meet the fate bestowed upon their victims.

The owner of the camp is James Halloway of Wisconsin. He was at the camp yesterday.

WILL DECIDE CRERAR SITE

COUNCIL COMMITTEE TO REPORT TO FULL MEETING MONDAY.

All Interests to Be Heard in the Afternoon and Conclusion Reached—At Session Yesterday Peter B. White Sets Forth the Comprehensive Scheme and Judge Grosscup Declares It Impracticable and Urges the Library Plans.

All persons interested in the project of erecting a building for the Crerar Library on the lake front are to be heard by the Council Committee on Streets and Alleys on Monday afternoon and some plan will be agreed on for presentation to the Council that evening. This was decided on yesterday after a session of the committee, at which Judge Grosscup, Peter B. White, and others had been heard.

The desire for haste is inspired by the fact that the present Council has only two more meetings, after which it is followed by another Council, which can hardly act before the Legislature adjourns for two years.

At the session yesterday Mr. White presented the elaborate plans which men interested in a harmonious development of construction on the lake front have been studying for six years, but Judge Grosscup pronounced the plans a dream which it would be impossible to realize. The federal Judge was present in the interest of the Crerar Library Building, and suggested to the committee that the library building be given the space on Michigan avenue, between Randolph and Madison streets.

Judge Grosscup said it would be most difficult to carry out the plans for all the buildings, for the consent of every abutting property-owner from Park row to Randolph street would be required.

"The city hall building on the lake front is at present hardly in contemplation," contended the Judge. "The Crerar Library is not only in prospect, but is tangible. We ask a site, nothing more."

FLOOD IN ST. JOSEPH RIVER DAMAGES BOATS AND HOUSES.

Water Covers Valley, Threatening Somorleyton Resort, and Ice Floes Batter Shipping in Harbor.

St. Joseph, Mich., March 15.—[Special.]—The St. Joseph River was on a rampage this morning, and as a result several private boathouses on the banks of the Morrison channel and ships anchored at the mouth of the stream were battered for hours by floes of ice swept lakeward by the current of the river. The sides of the boathouses were crushed in by the force of the ice, and the schooner Cape Horn was broken from its anchor.

THREATENS SON OF SENATOR.

Swindler at Butte, Mont., Demands That C. W. Clark Send Him $5,000 Through Mails.

Butte, Mont., March 15.—[Special.]—The police officials have made public the details of an attempt to swindle Charles W. Clark, son of United States Senator W. A. Clark, out of $5,000. Mr. Clark a few days ago received a letter directing him to send the money in small bills to "Wyoz," Butte postoffice. The writer added significantly that he was a dead shot. The letter was turned over to the postoffice authorities. The general delivery window was watched for several days, and finally a small boy called for a package addressed to "Wyoz." He was arrested and questioned. He said a masked man had given him 25 cents to call for the package. He proved his innocence.

NOVELTY IN FEE INQUIRY.

EXPOSE THREATENED IN REVENGE ON DISTRICT BILL.

Steering Committee's Rod in Pickle for Recalcitrants Likely to Stir Up a Tempest, It Is Said—Fees of Sheriff Magerstadt and Clerk T. N. Jamieson May Be Investigated—The Hearing Would Bring Up Matter of O'Gara, King & Co. Coal Contracts.

Investigation of the administration of T. N. Jamieson, clerk of the Appellate Court, and of E. J. Magerstadt, Sheriff of Cook County, is threatened by the Republican steering committee at Springfield, and politicians think it might prove embarrassing to those two officials at this particular period. As an act of retaliation upon the Republicans who are charged with blocking the passage of the apportionment bills it is said that such an investigation would stir up a tempest of more than teapot proportions.

The spectacle of an investigation of the offices of two prominent members of the Cook County Republican organization, instigated and conducted by Republicans, would be novel, at least. It is charged by certain members of the House that "Dr." Jamieson is collecting fees three or four times in excess of those allowed by law, and that Sheriff Magerstadt's contract for feeding County Jail prisoners at 25 cents each a day is one that would make a hotelkeeper envious should all the facts relating to profits be made public.

Aside from the interest that might be awakened by turning a white light on the affairs of the Sheriff and the clerk of the Appellate Court, the prospect is opened for an investigation of the dealings of O'Gara, King & Co., the firm which has been supplying low grades of coal to Cook County institutions and the Kankakee asylum.

Profits in Dieting Prisoners.

Sheriff Magerstadt is allowed $40,000 a year by the County board for dieting the prisoners committed to his care at the County Jail, or rather this amount is set aside by the commissioners to meet the Sheriff's charges at the rate of 25 cents a prisoner each day. If there is any part of the $40,000 appropriation left at the end of the year Sheriff Magerstadt is free to use it as he sees fit. He has not been accused of turning any of the money back into the treasury.

The records of the County Jail show that the total number of days for all the prisoners during the fiscal year ending Dec. 1, 1900, was 153,483. This number of days, multiplied by the 25 cents which the county allows for each prisoner, entitles Sheriff Magerstadt to $38,371, or within $1,629 of the $40,000 appropriation.

If Sheriff Magerstadt clears five cents on each prisoner he can write down $7,674 as his profits for one year, or if he can feed his boarders for 15 cents a day he swells his bank account by $15,348. The labor of cooking the food for the prisoners costs nothing, as it is furnished by the prisoners themselves, and the work is done in the jail kitchen, one of the best equipped in the country. The bread is bought already baked, but all the rest of the food is prepared in the jail.

Sheriff Magerstadt gives his boarders coffee and bread for breakfast, and bread and coffee for supper. For dinner the bill varies. Two or three times a week, it is said, the prisoners get boiled meat of some kind with potatoes. There have been times when some other form of vegetable than potato was provided, such as beans or lentils. It is the opinion of certain members of the House that this modest bill of fare can be prepared in wholesale quantities at considerably less than 20 cents.

Fees of Clerk Jamieson.

Clerk Jamieson of the Appellate Court is in California and could not be interviewed yesterday concerning the charge that he is collecting fees from litigants in excess of those fixed by the statute. His clerks, however, denied the accusation. "Our fees," said one of the clerks, "are fixed by statute. Some cases cost as high as $300 or $400 in fees."

It was explained that while the average cost of a case in the Appellate Court at Ottawa, Ill., was lower than in Chicago, the difference could be accounted for in the difference between the total number of cases handled and the character of the litigation involved.

Attention was first called to the big prices O'Gara, King & Co. were receiving from the State for coal for the Kankakee asylum in an article in THE TRIBUNE in December, 1900.

It was shown that during the four years Governor Tanner had "Len" Small at the head of the asylum the coal supplied to the institution was no nearer to the contract specifications than that delivered to Cook County institutions. The difference in cost between the coal contracted for and that delivered was estimated at from 60 cents to $1 a ton. Since the asylum requires over 12,000 tons a year it is evident that the profits were large.

The State has been paying O'Gara, King & Co. $2.50 a ton for so-called Duquoin coal. If such coal was delivered it was shown that the price was 35 cents a ton too high. Moreover, the charge was made in Kankakee that Duquoin coal was not delivered. Employés of the Illinois Central railroad declared that the coal came from Pana and Springfield, being a much cheaper grade.

ARREST KANSAS CITY WOMAN.

Chicago Detectives Lock Up One Supposed to Be May Howard, Under Bond on Larceny Charge.

On a telegraphic request from the police of Kansas City Detectives Fitzgerald and Ryan of the Central Station arrested May Howard, alias Rogers, as she left a Chicago and Alton train from Kansas City on Thursday morning. She and a companion are accused of robbing a man of $60 and then jumping their bonds in Kansas City. She was not booked, and yesterday her friends employed Attorney Moritz Rosenthal, who secured a writ of habeas corpus in Judge Kavanagh's court, returnable next Monday. Fearing her friends would give bond for her release, the woman was taken away from the Harrison Street Police Station last night.

HOUSE TO HOUSE SEARCH FOR BOILERS IS ORDERED.

Police Ordered to Make Hunt "Like They Do for Dogs"—Fund Started for Explosion Victims.

A house to house hunt for boilers has been ordered by Mayor Harrison, and policemen have begun the canvass, "just as they would for dogs," according to the Mayor. When the entire city has been gone over the police reports will be given to the Controller and the Boiler Inspector. A comparison will be made with the city's list, and action will be taken against the delinquents to insure protection against accident.

The policemen will make their rounds like census enumerators, visiting every building which could be supposed to have a heating or power plant. Special orders for this investigation have been issued by Chief of Police Kipley.

The Mayor exonerated Boiler Inspector Schlacks from blame in connection with the Doremus laundry boiler explosion after receiving his report yesterday. He said the clerical error was one for which the inspector was not responsible, and the legal accountability was placed on the proprietor for not requesting inspection.

At a special meeting of the Chicago Laundrymen's association at the Briggs House last night it was decided to donate $500 for the immediate relief of the Doremus employés injured in the explosion on last Monday. A committee was appointed to distribute the money. It is hoped to raise $1,500 more from laundrymen and their employés.

RUN ON MASSACHUSETTS BANK.

False Rumor of Insolvency of Natick Institution Causes Many Depositors to Withdraw.

Natick, Mass., March 15.—[Special.]—A run on the Natick Five Cents Savings Bank started today and a large number of depositors from Natick, Farmingham, and Saxonville appeared at the bank's doors to draw out their money, a rumor having gained currency that the institution was insolvent. The bank has assets of $2,188,688.24 and is regarded as one of the strongest banks in New England. The rumor arose through the offering for sale of some of the bank's shares. According to an officer of the institution, the bank has been desirous of disposing of several shares which it had held for investment. From this, it appears, a report spread that the bank was in need of cash and was offering shares to obtain it. The bank is entirely solvent.

Laboring men are being organized to support Judge Hanecy as a result of the labor charges made against the present city administration. Chief of these is that Mayor Harrison has allowed the salaries of department heads to be increased from 20 to 40 per cent, yet vetoed ordinances seeking to advance the wages of day laborers. Yesterday thousands of circulars were distributed among laboring men entitled, "What Has Harrison Done for Labor?" Some of the answers follow:

He has caused convict labor to compete with free labor in the making of brick.

He has vetoed an ordinance granting Saturday half holidays to city laborers.

During the lockout of 1900 he nailed up schoolhouses to aid the contractors in their fight against labor, and kept them closed at great expense to the city, while the parents of thousands of children were clamoring for schoolrooms in which to keep their children off the streets.

Headquarters of the Hanecy Laboring-Men's club were opened at 189 Washington street and here noonday meetings are to be held, beginning next week.

Judge Hanecy's Campaign committee perfected plans last night for the most thorough canvass of the city made in a municipal campaign in years. Every block in every ward is to be placed under the eye of an active party worker. Every voter will be made the object of "missionary work" from now until election day. In every precinct clubs are being organized to get out every voter on election day. In the Thirteenth Ward forty-three clubs were organized in forty-nine hours.

This afternoon all Republican Aldermen and candidates for the Council will meet with the city members of the County Central committee and perfect further organization.

At the request of a delegation of Illinois Central railroad employés Judge Hanecy will speak at the Burnside shops at noon next Wednesday. This afternoon he will address a meeting of women at the Grand Pacific Hotel.

Alderman Fowler last night branded as false the reports that he intends to dodge supporting the city ticket.

Judge Elbridge Hanecy and William Boldenweck swept through the Lake View wards last night, speaking at the Lincoln Turner Hall, Diversey and Sheffield avenues; Jung's Hall, Lincoln and Ashland avenues; Wieblinger's Hall, Byron and Ashland avenues; and Garfield Turner Hall, 635 Larrabee street. When Judge Hanecy arrived at Jung's Hall he found Major Lawrence M. Ennis speaking in his behalf. Major Ennis has always been a Democrat, but declared his intention yesterday of supporting the Republican nominee for Mayor.

GOVERNOR COMES TO CHICAGO.

Here for Rest and Enjoyment Only, He Declares—Talks of Apportionment Bill Fight.

Governor and Mrs. Richard Yates arrived in the city last night at 8 o'clock from Springfield, and went at once to the Auditorium Annex. Seats had been reserved for them at the opera, and they hurried there, remaining but a few moments in the hotel.

The Governor declared that his visit to Chicago was purely for rest, and had no political or business purpose.

When asked if he would take up the question of suggested changes in the Lincoln Park board, he said: "I certainly will not. I came here for rest. I have social engagements which will take up my time tomorrow afternoon, and in the evening I shall attend the ball of the Seventh Regiment. At midnight I leave for Indianapolis."

When asked if he was hopeful of the passage of apportionment bills, he said: "I have expected all along they would be passed, but I am not prepared to express an opinion now. I have not attempted to take any hand in the matter.

"I have been criticised because I have not interested myself actively in the passage of these bills. If I had followed this course I would have been roundly denounced by the people, who have been criticising me for my inactivity. I have not attempted to do anything in this matter because I did not consider it my duty to do so."

Former Governor John R. Tanner was also in the city, at the Great Northern. He said he was here on private business and did not expect to meet Mr. Lorimer and Governor Yates, unless by accident.

CITY BRICK PLAN IS DROPPED.

Publication of Scheme in "The Tribune" Brings Change of Plan—Gubbins Sees McGann.

As a result of a story printed in THE TRIBUNE yesterday the city administration for political reasons backed down on its proposition to continue and enlarge its business of selling bridewell brick. George P. Gubbins, President of the International Bricklayers' union, called on Commissioner McGann. When the labor leader left he said there would be no objection to the use of bridewell brick by the city, but that the sale of the prison made article to individuals would not be tolerated.

DECLARES CITY EXPENSES LOW.

Commissioner McGann's Report Has Figures to Show Chicago's Government Cheapest.

The annual report of Commissioner of Public Works McGann, presented yesterday, says the cost of the city government is shown to be $11.27 per capita for Chicago, $28.54 for New York, $22.46 for Philadelphia, and $70.01 for Boston.

JUDGE HANECY kissed a baby and saved a young woman from being run down by a street car yesterday. Incidentally he addressed six gatherings of Republicans and conferred at his headquarters with half a hundred party leaders. He worked unceasingly from 6 o'clock in the morning, when he arose, till shortly after midnight, when he returned home.

The candidate was leaving the Hamilton club's noonday meeting in the Medinah Temple when he found his path blocked by Pat O'Donnell.

"How are you, Judge?" exclaimed O'Donnell. "Say, just look here. Here's the prettiest baby outside of Ireland, and the little codger wants to shake hands with the next Mayor of Chicago."

Mr. O'Donnell pushed the candidate around the corner of the vestibule, where a woman stood with a chubby child in her arms. The baby put out its hands and Judge Hanecy took the infant in his arms, kissing it while the crowd cheered. Mr. O'Donnell told the mother that the child must now grow up to be a Republican, and the woman responded that the baby was a good child.

The candidate, accompanied by R. N. Patterson, one of the campaign managers, was crossing Washington street in front of the County Building when a young woman directly ahead slipped on the slushy pavement and fell across the street car tracks. A Milwaukee avenue cable car was rapidly approaching and several men ran from the sidewalk to the girl's assistance. Judge Hanecy was there first and, catching up the woman, assisted her to a point of safety.

"This is Judge Hanecy, candidate for Mayor," said Mr. Patterson.

"I knew him from the pictures," replied the girl, wiping the mud from her face and thanking the Judge for his gallantry.

"I'm sorry, my girl," said the candidate, "I'm sorry about these streets—but, you know, I'm not the Mayor yet."

Judge Hanecy says he is gradually giving up the habit of sleeping. He allowed himself only five hours on Thursday night and had finished his breakfast by 7 a. m. Then he came down-town, but, finding that his office in the County Building had been taken possession of already by eager callers who had risen even earlier, he was forced to make his escape with his mail to a friend's office.

The candidate spoke at the Hamilton club and the Marquette club headquarters during the noon hour, and the afternoon he spent at the campaign headquarters in the Oxford Building.

In the evening he spoke at Weiblinger's Hall, Lincoln Turner Hall, Judge's Hall, and the Garfield Turner Hall.

MAYOR HARRISON'S vocal chords, the ailment which has caused much uneasiness to the managers of his campaign, responded for a short time yesterday to the treatment of a specialist, and the unexpected ease with which the Mayor was enabled to deliver a speech was gratifying to his friends. During the morning the weakness of the Mayor's voice was noticeable and he spoke mostly in monosyllables.

A specialist was consulted before the meeting scheduled for 4 in the afternoon at the Briggs House to a German-American gathering. Treatment was given, but the advice of the physician that the Mayor refrain from speaking for at least two hours thereafter was disregarded. At the close of a fifteen minute talk, when the Mayor had informed his audience that he had just been subjected to a hot air treatment for his voice, a doubting Republican in the rear of the room suggested that the speech was merely the effervescence of the recent cure. He left hurriedly after making the remark.

March winds and snow covered walks did not prevent the advent of poetry and song to relieve the monotony of the political routine, and among the first mail received by the Mayor were the effusions of James Maloney, a South Side bartender, who aspires to the post of poet laureate of the campaign. Accompanying an acrostic rhyme, the initial letters of which read: "Mayor Carter Harrison," were two songs by Maloney.

"My Childhood's Forest Home" and "Baby's Tiny Bed of Grass" were the titles of the efforts, the latter being dedicated to the Mayor. With the suggestion that he was at all times willing to devote his genius to the aid of the Mayor, Mr. Maloney inclosed a sample of his made-to-order epics, the last verse of which reads:

Independence of your character is shown by every move you make;
Surely, if you're reëlected, how those franchisers will shake.
On the platform you have taken there will never be a break;
No one will ever dare to question—your name is always at stake.

The early departure of the Mayor to address the Briggs House meeting saved him the pain or pleasure of having Alderman Coughlin sing. When informed that the Mayor had just left his office, the "Bath-House" rolled up the manuscript of his latest song and turned to depart, but apparently impressed by a new idea returned to the office and, handing Stenographer Maier a cigar, he induced him to reopen the door of the Mayor's sanctum. With the clerk as an audience, the strains of "There's No Love Like That of a Mother's," the Alderman's latest bid for fame, came floating out.

MAKE CHARGES OF FRAUD.

DEMOCRATIC LEADERS OBJECT TO SUSPECT NOTICES.

Declare Republicans Are Trying to Cut Off Thousands of Votes—Give Up Meetings for Tonight and Bid Workers Attend Revision of Poll Lists and Watch Party's Interests—Charge Is Vigorously Denied—Day with the Mayor's Party.

Democratic leaders last night accused the Republicans of resorting to underhand methods in an effort to secure the erasure of tens of thousands of names from the voting lists when they are revised this evening. For this reason every Democratic meeting scheduled for tonight was called off and orders sent out for the workers to man the revision places and use every effort to get voters on whom suspect notices have been served to appear and explain away the challenge against them. Boards of Registry will sit at the various precinct polling places from 6 until 10 o'clock tonight, and all who have received suspect notices must qualify or their names will be removed.

The Democrats contend that Republican clerks of election have deluged the city with suspect notices and thus sought to keep thousands of bona fide Democrats from voting through their failure to appear. The Republican leaders just as strongly deny these accusations and assert that Democratic "floaters" who registered illegally will be cut off by the thousands, particularly in the First, Eighteenth, and Twenty-first Wards.

Up to late last night approximately 46,000 suspect notices had been sent out. Attorney G. H. Trude may lead an attack on the present primary law, asserting that it gives too much power in the matter of issuing suspect notices.

Mayor Harrison was ordered by Robert E. Burke to quit smoking yesterday, saying the use of tobacco was affecting his throat so that he might have to abandon his speaking campaign.

Chairman Frank of Mayor Harrison's Campaign Committee of One Thousand appointed a Committee of One Hundred to take direct charge of the fight. Among the number are Arthur J. Eddy, who will act as chairman; F. H. Cooper, Emanuel Mandel, Dr. John B. Murphy, John A. Lynch, Andrew McNally, and Charles A. Plamondon.

The Carter H. Harrison Non-Partisan Business-Men's league opened headquarters at 55 Dearborn street.

Tonight the Democratic Aldermanic convention of the Twenty-fourth Ward will hold its second adjourned session.

TEXT BOOK COMPARES RECORDS

Republican Campaign Brochure Shows Disbursements Under Harrison's and Previous Administrations.

Mayor Harrison's administration will be the subject of the Republican campaign "text book," which will be issued early next week. Every branch of the city government and the manner in which it has been conducted will be held up for public inspection.

It will be shown among other things that the pay rolls of the four years of Mayor Harrison's control exceeded the pay rolls of the previous four years by $10,937,866. During the years of 1899 and 1900 $7,337,357 more was paid out in salaries than during 1895 and 1896, the years of George B. Swift's administration.

Comparison of these pay rolls is shown in the following table:

Mayor.	Year.	Total pay rolls.
John P. Hopkins	1893	$11,170,544
John P. Hopkins	1894	12,151,529
George B. Swift	1895	10,414,590
George B. Swift	1896	11,240,984
Total four years		$44,977,647
Carter H. Harrison	1897	$12,340,683
Carter H. Harrison	1898	14,581,909
Carter H. Harrison	1899	14,547,851
Carter H. Harrison	1900	14,445,080
Total four years		$55,915,513
Total increase four years of Mayor Harrison's administration over four years of Hopkins and Swift		$10,937,866

Comparison of the two years of Swift's administration with pay rolls totaling $21,665,574, with pay rolls aggregating $28,892,931 during the last two years of Harrison's régime show an excess on the side of the latter of $7,337,357. It is shown, too, that last year the city pay rolls carried 16,051 employés. Even during the most open days of the Swift and Hopkins administrations the number of names on the pay rolls did not exceed 10,000.

The chapter on "Crime and the Police Department" asserts that "Chicago has been at the mercy of criminals during the last few years. Were it not for the corrupt influences in the City Hall, and the bad example set by commanding officers of the Police department, 95 per cent of the criminals would not have been tolerated in Chicago for one day, but would have been driven from the city. Many of these criminals come from other cities and States with the knowledge that Chicago is a crime center where the criminals are given unusual freedom as long as they can reach the advisers and powers behind Carter H. Harrison."

There are chapters dealing with the "Dissipation of the City Water Fund," "Loan Sharks and the City Hall," "Special Assessment Abuses," and every branch of the municipal government.

TEACHERS GET SUBPŒNAS ON CORPORATION SECRETARIES.

Make New Move in Tax Fight to Get Books Before Master and Show Statements to Stockholders.

At the instance of the Teachers' federation subpœnas were served yesterday afternoon on secretaries of six of the corporations included in the mandamus proceedings brought to compel the State Board of Equalization to assess capital stock according to law. The secretaries are summoned to appear before Granville W. Browning, Master in Chancery of the Supreme Court, this morning, and to bring with them the books of their concerns showing the last statement to the stockholders made before April 1, 1900, and the last since that date. The six secretaries are:

L. A. Wiley of the People's Gaslight and Coke company.

Markham B. Orde of seven of the companies included in the Union Traction company.

Charles F. Marlowe of the Consolidated Traction company.

Charles E. Mosley of the Chicago Telephone company.

Frank S. Gorton of the Chicago Edison company.

Frank R. Greene of the City railway company.

It is not expected by the officials of the federation that any of the secretaries will appear, and the object in summoning them is to obtain refusals that may be presented in the Sangamon County court when the mandamus case comes up for hearing on Monday. In case, however, they do appear their depositions will be submitted as evidence that wrong values were given when the capital stock of each organization was assessed.

Miss Margaret Haley, chairman of the committee that was placed in charge of the mandamus proceedings, says that she has no hope of winning the case. "We don't expect to win," said she. "If we lose, however, we shall have accomplished our purpose, for we shall have demonstrated to the people of Chicago that there are defects in the law that render it impossible to obtain a just assessment of corporations."

MAY CLEAR UP CARLSON CASE.

Police Find Body of Man in the Lake and Think It May Be the Missing Workman.

The police yesterday found the body of a man in Lake Michigan at the foot of Seventy-first street and believe they will be able now to explain the disappearance of Charles Carlson, 9793 Escanaba avenue, who has not been seen since Dec. 24. The police believe Carlson was murdered, and Steven Burke, 597 Ninety-seventh street, and George Foster, 564 Ninety-sixth street, are now in jail. They are held on a robbery and suspected of complicity in Carlson's death.

MAYOR BATES QUITS RACE

EVANSTON EXECUTIVE FINDS CONTEST TOO PERSONAL.

Declares in Favor of His Former Supporter, Alderman James A. Patten, Against Alderman George E. Gooch—Patten Remains in Race, Notwithstanding His Platform Was Based on Opposition to Mayor Bates for Alleged Violations of Pledges.

Thomas Bates, Mayor of Evanston and the nominee of the late Republican convention of that suburb for a second term in that office, withdrew yesterday from the spirited contest which now is going on and declared his intention of supporting Alderman James A. Patten in his struggle against Alderman George E. Gooch, the Democratic nominee. Mayor Bates attributes his withdrawal to the fact that the strife between himself and Mr. Patten over the charges of broken faith is resulting in the breaking of many close friendships.

Mayor Bates announced his withdrawal yesterday morning to John A. Childs, Mr. Patten, and Joseph E. Paden at a meeting held in the office of Mr. Childs. Two years ago these men were the strongest supporters of Mr. Bates and he appointed Mr. Paden Corporation Counsel as soon as he took his office. They were alienated from him shortly after his renomination, when it became known that he had promised politicians from the Third Ward to appoint Abel A. Allen in place of Mr. Paden if he should be elected. Mr. Patten and Mr. Childs, who are the leaders of the Republican party in Evanston, announced that Mayor Bates had declared his intention of running for the purpose of retaining his old appointees in office, and they used his action as an excuse for withdrawing their support from him.

Patten Seeks Bates' Defeat.

Mr. Patten became an independent candidate for Mayor on a platform the cardinal principle of which was "Defeat to a nominee who has broken ante-convention promises to remain unpledged as regards municipal appointments."

It is as yet hard to say what the exact result of Mr. Bates' withdrawal will be, but it is thought that it will increase the chances of Mr. Patten, who has decided to stay in the race in spite of the fact that he entered it only for the purpose of defeating Mayor Bates.

When Mayor Bates met his former supporters yesterday he declared his intention of working hard for the election of Mr. Patten.

Patten Ticket Is Unfilled.

The question of a ticket with which to assist Mr. Patten has not yet been decided upon, but it is probable that it will contain the same names as that on which Mayor Bates was placed. Mr. Gooch is also said to want the same ticket, as the other candidates are strong enough to affect materially the result as far as the head of the ticket is concerned.

Supporters of Alderman George E. Gooch, Democratic nominee for Mayor, last night decided if possible to induce the other candidates on the Bates ticket to run on the same ticket with Mr. Gooch. The remaining candidates are William C. Levere for Treasurer, John Hahn for City Clerk, and W. G. Morgan for City Attorney.

VOLUNTEER STEALS A HORSE.

Religious Worker Admits the Theft and Blames a Woman for His Downfall.

With a Bible in his pocket, Clarence Albert Phœnix, a member of the Volunteers of America, is locked up at the Englewood Police Station, and has admitted the theft of a horse, which he stole from his employer and turned over to a horse dealer at the Stock Yards. The horse was stolen from Joseph Litowich, 5721 Princeton avenue. Phœnix blames a woman for his downfall.

While going home from work last night Emil Gartz, an employé of J. V. Farwell & Co., was held up and robbed of $13 and a gold ring. He was accosted at Ferdinand and Armour streets by three men, who knocked him down, emptied his pockets, then fled.

Former Chief of Police John J. Badenoch got back in harness long enough yesterday to arrest Harry Clayton, who had stolen a blanket from the former Chief's horse. He caught the fellow in the act.

CAR LINES THE BIG ISSUE.

MUNICIPAL VOTERS' LEAGUE SAYS FRANCHISES MUST BE FOUGHT.

Statement Contends That Principal Grants to the Traction Companies Expire in 1903 and That the Ninety-nine Year Act Is Being Employed as a Blind—Pledge Which Aldermanic Candidates Will Be Asked to Sign—Fight on "Ed" Cullerton.

Through its Executive committee the Municipal Voters' league last night issued a statement declaring the street railway franchise problem the "paramount issue" of the present city campaign. It is held that few of the franchises are subject to the ninety-nine year act of 1865, thus having life until 1958, and that the principal franchises expire in 1903.

This decision is based chiefly on the report of the special committee of the City Council which investigated the problem shortly after the franchise extension battle in the Council three years ago. The league made public, too, the pledge dealing with the franchise question which each Aldermanic candidate will be asked to sign.

The formal statement, addressed to the public, says in part:

Let no one be deceived as to the importance of the approaching election. The rumored intention of the street railway companies to rely upon the ninety-nine year act of 1865 and not to ask an extension of their franchises during the next two years is the flimsiest sort of a "blind." It should deceive nobody.

The street railway question is the paramount issue in this campaign. All the principal franchises expire in 1903. There is even no serious pretense that this ninety-nine year act applies to most of them.

This election will largely determine whether they will be renewed by the "gang" or by able and honest representatives of the public interests.

The league's platform or pledge which each Aldermanic candidate will be asked to sign declares that all Council committees should be organized on a non-political basis, that appropriations should be limited to actual necessities, and that all franches and special privileges should be granted only upon full compensation therefor. The franchise provision then follows:

I believe that the following conditions should apply to all grants or extensions of street railway franchises:

The terms shall in no case exceed twenty years; all franchises to a given corporation shall expire at the same time; no franchise for branch lines shall run beyond the time when the franchise for the main line expires.

The city shall receive a fair percentage of gross receipts.

Fares for the crowded hours of the day shall be reduced.

The Council shall retain power to make reasonable regulations of the service.

The city shall have the right to acquire ownership of the lines at the end of the grant for a price representing the fair value of the tangible property of the companies for railroad purposes.

All franchises shall provide for uniformity and publicity of accounts.

The companies shall expressly waive all claim of rights under the so-called ninety-nine year act.

Charges are made that traction corporations are using money in the Aldermanic fights in many wards, and the league will direct vigorous fights in these districts. One of the objects of attack will be ex-Alderman "Ed" Cullerton of the new Eleventh Ward.

The project of organizing "kitchen parliaments" or home meetings for the discussion of public questions was taken up yesterday by the Christian Socialist league.

SWORN STATEMENTS.

Well Known People Testify to the Wonderful Cures Effected by Dr. Williams' Pink Pills.

People are learning more and more to know themselves and cure their own ills, this being made possible by the introduction of such remedies as Dr. Williams' Pink Pills for Pale People.

The discovery of this remedy and the recognition of its wonderful efficacy marks one of the most important pages in the annals of medical science. First used as a prescription by a physician whose ideas had advanced beyond the age in which he lived, who believed the source of most diseases could be traced directly to the blood and nerves, and who had the courage of his convictions, these pills soon became known for their remarkable cures. So great was the demand that it became necessary to prepare them in such form that they could be secured by any one without the prescription, and taken without a physician's direction. This act dates the beginning of the fame of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills for Pale People. From among thousands of recent cures the following are taken to prove the assertions that are made for this wonderful remedy.

THE WAY TO HEALTH.

An Iowa Man Is Able to Speak from Experience.

From the Tribune, Webster City, Ia.

Physicians are often puzzled by an ailment that does not yield to the usual remedies, patients are caused much suffering and expense while experiments are being tried upon them, when in many cases the seat of the disorder is in the blood. If this vital fluid is impoverished disease is sure to follow. Build up the blood, the diseased part is nourished and strengthened, and health results. This is the simple history of what often appears to be a complicated case. Mr. Ezra Edwards, the well-known merchant of Webster City, Iowa, passed through such an experience. He says:

"I have always believed that my trouble was due to the impoverished condition of my blood. About four years ago my ankles began to swell and caused me great pain. I am quite heavy, and as I was on my feet constantly I suffered intensely. Finally the swelling became so bad that I could not walk and for a week I was confined to my chair or bed. Three doctors treated me, but did not effect a cure.

"I first heard of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills for Pale People through an advertisement in a religious paper. About six months ago I began taking the pills, and I felt good results from the first box. I continued taking them as directed for nearly five months. I am now 42 years old and am the picture of health. I am willing to tell the world that Dr. Williams' Pink Pills cured me and I know they will cure others if they are given a thorough trial. The past summer is the first in ten years that I have escaped hay fever, and I give Pink Pills the credit for that also.

"Hardly a day passes that I do not tell some one of the benefits I have received from Dr. Williams' Pink Pills for Pale People, for I think that any man or woman suffering from any disorder of the blood or nerves should give them a thorough trial. It is better to spend five dollars for Pink Pills than to spend $500 on doctors' bills." (Signed) EZRA EDWARDS.

SHORTNESS OF BREATH.

Frequently One of the Unpleasant After-Effects of the Grip.

From the Bulletin, Providence, R. I.

It has been noticed that shortness of breath is frequently one of the unpleasant symptoms which attend the after-effects of the grip, and as this indicates an alarming poverty of the blood, prompt treatment cannot be too strongly urged when it becomes apparent.

The case of Mrs. William Adams, of 18 Putnam street, Providence, R. I., is a recent example of a method of treatment that has proved most highly efficacious in cases of this nature. Mrs. Adams, when interviewed concerning her experience, said:

"In 1896 I was taken with the grip and was confined to my bed eight long weeks. When the disease had run its course it left me so prostrated that I could not help myself in the least. I was troubled greatly with shortness of breath, which would be brought on by the slightest exercise or by dampness in the air. I had no appetite and was unable to keep anything but the lightest food on my stomach.

"I did not seem to be getting any better and so changed my doctor, but still received no benefit from the treatment. I tried in vain many kinds of medicine that I saw advertised. Meanwhile my condition became almost unbearable. One day I saw an advertisement of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills for Pale People and made up my mind to give them a trial. I can honestly say that I noticed an improvement from the first, and had taken but two or three boxes when my appetite returned and I felt very much stronger. As I had almost despaired of ever getting well I was much encouraged and continued taking the pills. In a few days the shortness of breath became less frequent and I was soon as well as ever.

"I cannot tell how thankful I am that I took Dr. Williams' Pink Pills for Pale People, and I earnestly recommend them to any one suffering from the after-effects of the grip." MRS. WILLIAM ADAMS.

BROKEN DOWN.

How a St. Paul Woman Suffered from Rheumatism.

From the Pioneer Press, St. Paul, Minn.

Any one who has suffered from either rheumatism or indigestion can appreciate the condition of a frail woman whose body was racked by the agonies caused by a complication of these diseases. Such was the experience of Mrs. J. T. Sloggy, of 107 East Jassamine street, St. Paul, Minn. Happily she found relief by taking the advice of a friend, and now, moved by gratitude for her delivery, she tells others how she was cured. To a reporter she said:

"During the winter of 1898 I suffered very much with rheumatism, being confined to my bed some of the time, was under a physician's care, and was unable to do any work. I was also troubled with indigestion. When spring came I was thin and nervous, had a poor appetite, and was broken down in health generally. That summer I made a visit to Wisconsin, and while there met an old friend, Mrs. Ira Wilbur, of Big Springs. She said she had been a great sufferer from indigestion and had been completely cured by Dr. Williams' Pink Pills for Pale People. I knew her word could be relied on, so I got a box of the pills and commenced taking them. I felt benefited in a few days, but continued to take them for about five months.

"That winter I had no return of the rheumatism, my appetite improved, and I gained in flesh and strength. My cure was permanent and I have not taken any of the pills since.

"I have told others how the pills helped me, and I sincerely hope that others suffering in the same way may be induced to try Dr. Williams' Pink Pills for Pale People." (Signed) MRS. J. T. SLOGGY.

PAIN IS BANISHED.

The Sworn Statement of a Detroit Woman.

From the Evening News, Detroit, Mich.

Miss Annie Patterson, of 12 Grant court, Detroit, Mich., is a bright, intelligent woman who tells an interesting story of a time when she stared death in the face, when doctors could offer but little hope, a time which she now shudders to recall. Her story follows as told in her own words, the facts being sworn to before a notary public in order to convince those who might regard the interview as overdrawn. Miss Patterson says:

"About four years ago I became afflicted with heart trouble and general debility. Occasionally I felt a pain in my back, and then it would seem to thrill through every nerve of my body. My strength gradually diminished until I was unable to do any work, however light. The doctors I consulted gave me only slight temporary relief, and I had about despaired of ever regaining my former health when I happened to read some of the statements of people who had been cured by Dr. Williams' Pink Pills for Pale People.

"I began taking the pills, and, I am happy to state, in a short time I noticed a less frequent return of the pain and my general health seemed better. My appetite returned, the trouble in the region of my heart left me, and I am again able to do a good day's work.

"I have great faith in Dr. Williams' Pink Pills for Pale People, and I shudder when I think what my condition might now be had I not used them. I am pleased to recommend the pills, hoping that this statement may be the means of bringing benefit to others who are suffering as I did." (Signed) ANNIE PATTERSON.

RECRUITING FOR NEW ARMY SLOW.

Only 10,000 Men Accepted to Fill the Additional Regiments.

SAMPSON HAS THE BOUNTY

Rear Admiral Receives Check for $8,335 for Defeat of Cervera.

NEWS GOSSIP AT CAPITAL.

WASHINGTON BUREAU CHICAGO TRIBUNE, Washington, D. C., March 15.

Recruits for New Army Come In Slowly.

Recruits for the new army are being enlisted at a rate which is not entirely encouraging, and yet on the whole is satisfactory to the officials of the War department. Considerable less than 10,000 men for the new army have been enlisted. The delay in filling up the new regiments is by no means due to a lack of desire on the part of the men eligible for military service to enter the army, but to the fact that the department's standard of qualification is so high that five or six men are rejected where one is accepted.

Secretary Root and the officers of the army are not at all alarmed over the slow rate in which men are being secured. They have no fear whatever that sufficient first-class fighting material will be obtained, and there will be no delay in mustering out the volunteers whose terms expire June 30. For at least one good reason the department officials are glad all the men required are not being enlisted at once.

If the entire new army should be filled up within a space of a month or two, three years hence, when the terms expired of the men being enlisted now, there would be some difficulty in securing enough men to fill up the quota. Therefore Secretary Root is perfectly satisfied that the enlistments should drag along for several months, so that the terms of the men will expire at different times, and it will be a comparatively easy matter to keep the army up to the number required.

There has been some talk in certain circles about lowering the standard of qualification of the men who wish to enter the army so as to fill up the new regiments rapidly. There is no intention on the part of the department to make a change of this character, as it is the determination of Secretary Root to get the best fighting force available.

Najib Taky-Ud-Deen, acting assistant surgeon in the army, was directed by the Secretary of War today to proceed from Columbus barracks, Ohio, and report for duty to the commanding officer of the Department of the Lakes.

Sampson to Receive $8,335 for Santiago.

Rear Admiral Sampson, and not Rear Admiral Schley, will receive the principal prize and bounty for the engagement off Santiago, as he was undoubtedly in command technically. The Treasury department has made out the check to Sampson's order in the sum of $8,335. Three of the checks will be paid him shortly—one in the sum of $1,070, for his engagement at Manzanilla, one June 30, 1898; the second in the sum of $1,475, for the second engagement at that place, on July 18; and the third, $750 in amount, for the engagement at Niepa Bay, on July 21. There are a number of other engagements where small sums will be paid him. Twelve thousand dollars in all will be his share of the total appropriation of the award made by the Court of Claims. Admiral Dewey has received his check for $9,750 as bounty for the destruction of the enemy's ships at Manila. There is still due him the amount for salvage on account of the vessels raised. The total amount of bounty will be $449,574.

Ex-Representative Marsh is still in the city looking after the interests of his former constituents in the departments. He has about completed his work, and will leave in a few days for his home at Warsaw.

Policy Toward the Postmasters Clearly Defined.

It may be consoling news to the fourth-class postmasters of the country to know the policy of the Postoffice department in dealing with offices of this class will be to make as few removals as possible. The few removals made will be with a view to improving the service or at the demand of Congressmen who desire changes. Assistant Postmaster General Bristow, who is the headsman of the administration, was seen by a TRIBUNE representative today and asked as to the policy to be pursued in regard to the fourth-class postmasters. It was learned that in the South no changes will be made unless charges are preferred against the incumbents or there is reason for cutting off the official heads of the fourth-class postmasters.

In the other sections of the country a different policy will be pursued. In the North, East, and West the continuance of the fourth-class postmasters in office will depend entirely upon the attitude of their members of Congress. If a postmaster has offended the Congressman and the latter desires a change for this or any other reason it will only be necessary for the representative to notify the department of his wishes and they will be acceded to.

Unless charges are preferred against the fourth-class postmasters they will remain in their positions at least four years more unless they retire voluntarily. It will not be necessary for the department to recommission the fourth-class postmasters who continue in office as their commissions are continuous and really expire at the will of the Postmaster General.

There is a theory, however, that these commissions run for four years. This is true in some respects and especially so where there is a change in the political complexion of administrations. Where one administration succeeds itself, however, it is not necessary to give these postmasters new commissions. This condition of affairs will greatly reduce the volume of work of the Fourth Assistant Postmaster General.

Rural Free Delivery Routes Established.

A rural free delivery route will be established at Eskridge, Wabaunsee County, Kas. There will be three carriers on this route, the length of which will be seventy-eight miles, and will cover an area of ninety-nine square miles. The population served numbers 1,570. The establishment of this route is responsible for the discontinuance of the postoffice at Grand Haven, Shawnee County. At Greenwood, Jackson County, Mo., a rural free delivery route will be established on March 15. There will be but one carrier. This route will be twenty-two miles long, and cover an area of thirty-seven square miles. It has a population of 845.

Platt and Depew to Receive Bonus for Sanger Place.

Charles H. Duell, the Commissioner of Patents, handed his resignation to the President this morning, to take effect upon the appointment of his successor. Mr. Duell resigns because he desires to resume the practice of law. Senators Platt and Depew of New York will probably be permitted to name the next Commissioner of Patents. This patronage will be given to them as a bonus for backing down in the fight they were making on Colonel Sanger as Assistant Secretary of War.

Naturally a New York man will be selected to fill the position created by Mr. Duell's resignation. Walter H. Chamberlain of Illinois, the Assistant Commissioner of Patents, is an applicant for Mr. Duell's place. He has strong backing, but in view of the deal with the New York Senators it is not likely he will secure the office.

Mr. Chamberlain is well qualified to fill the office of Commissioner of Patents, as he has been connected with the Patent office for some time. His candidacy is looked upon with favor by representative inventors and patent attorneys, as well as by his friends. He is recognized as a man of ability, especially so far as relates to patent law, and he is familiar with the business methods of the office.

Minister Wu Starts on His Western Trip.

Mr. Wu, the Chinese Minister, left this afternoon for Buffalo, where he will address the ladies of the Twentieth Century club, and later the Liberal club of that city. From Buffalo the Chinese Minister will go to Chicago, where he will be the guest of President Harper of the Chicago University. Mr. Wu will deliver an address in Chicago on Chinese civilization. Elaborate preparations are being made for Mr. Wu's entertainment in Chicago, and dishes likely to suit the taste of the Chinese Minister will be prepared. During Mr. Wu's visit at the university a Chinese band will be in attendance to play Chinese airs.

By direction of the Secretary of War, Lieutenant Colonel Daniel D. Wheeler, Deputy Quartermaster General, will make three visits to Chicago for the purpose of assisting the Chief Quartermaster of the Department of the Lakes in the purchase and inspection of horses to be delivered under contract at Chicago. Assistant Surgeon G. P. Parker Dillon is directed by the Secretary of War to report at Fort Sheridan for duty at that post.

Issues Permit for Two New National Banks.

Deputy Controller Kane today granted authority for the O'Neill National Bank of O'Neill, Neb., to begin business. This institution will start with a capital of $25,000. He also granted authority to the First National Bank of Jewell Junction, Ia., to begin business. It will have a capital of $25,000. Deputy Kane also granted authority to extend the corporate existence of the Merchants' National Bank of Cedar Rapids, Ia., until the close of business, March 15, 1921.

J. Frank Aldrich to Wed Miss Mariska Agan.

Friends of the two interested parties say that ex-Congressman J. Frank Aldrich is to marry Miss Mariska Agan of New York. She is the daughter of a physician living on Lexington avenue, and is well known as an amateur singer of unusual talent. She has sung frequently in concerts here and in New York. Mr. Aldrich is now a general bank receiver under Controller Dawes. He has charge of a dozen or twenty defunct banks of the kind known as "inactive trusts." No one is prosperous enough to support an individual receiver, but they are administered collectively by Receiver Aldrich. He served as the Representative from the Hyde Park district, being succeeded by Congressman Mann.

Mr. Aldrich, when in the House, became especially prominent from the fact that he was one of the managers of the campaign of Speaker Reed for the Presidency in 1896. Subsequently he was promised the place of Consul General at Havana, but the outbreak of difficulties with Spain prevented his superseding Fitzhugh Lee.

Prior to his service in Congress Mr. Aldrich was Commissioner of Public Works of Chicago, and made an excellent record. He is a widower with several children, his first wife being Miss Sherman, daughter of one of the pioneers of Chicago. Mr. Aldrich was in New York tonight, so that the report of his engagement could not be confirmed at first hands, although his friends say the story is true.

FATAL FIRE IN WASHINGTON.

One Man Killed and Four Injured During Panic in Pennsylvania Avenue Hotel.

Washington, D. C., March 5.—One person was killed and four seriously injured in a fire in the Merchants' Hotel, on Pennsylvania avenue, this afternoon. The fire, which spread rapidly, started a panic among the guests, several of whom jumped from windows.

The dead:

HENRY, L. F., 48 years old; suffocated.

The injured:

COLLINS, STEPHEN, proprietor; legs badly burned, burned about face, neck and arms; condition serious.

CATCHINGS, W. B., of Kentucky; serious injuries caused by jumping from window.

KETCHUM, W. B., of Connecticut; bruised by falling down stairs.

SCANLON, JOHN; head cut by jumping from window.

Firemen easily extinguished the flames and the damage to the building was small.

MAY JOIN PRESIDENT'S CABINET.

John G. Johnson of Philadelphia Said to Have Been Offered Portfolio of Attorney General.

Philadelphia, Pa., March 15.—John G. Johnson, a leading member of the Philadelphia bar, it is reported, has been offered the portfolio of Attorney General in President McKinley's Cabinet, to succeed Attorney General Griggs.

When asked today about it Mr. Johnson said:

"If I had been offered such a position in President McKinley's Cabinet I would not say so. I do not want my refusal to answer the question, however, to be construed as a denial that the position has been offered me. I refuse either to confirm or deny the report."

Mr. Johnson is a stanch Republican, but has never taken an active part in politics.

FIRE NEAR THE WHITE HOUSE.

Alarm Turned In from the Executive Mansion at Washington—Reviewing Stand Burned.

Washington, D. C., March 15.—An alarm of fire was turned in from the White House about 7 o'clock tonight. The flames were in the inaugural reviewing stand at the northwest corner of the grounds surrounding the mansion. The White House, Pennsylvania avenue, and the State, War, and Navy department buildings were brilliantly illuminated for a brief time before the fire was extinguished. The damage was nominal.

PUSH THE IMPEACHMENT CASE.

North Carolina Court Hears Evidence Against Justices Furches and Douglas at Raleigh.

Raleigh, N. C., March 15.—[Special.]—The Court of Impeachment began its session at noon. Both Judges, Furches and Douglas, were present. William A. Guthrie, chief counsel for the impeachment managers, introduced as the first evidence the official oaths of the impeached Judges and a certified copy of the records in the White case, also a copy of the judgment and mandamus in the case. He then presented a letter from White's counsel making demand on the State Treasurer for money. J. C. L. Harris, White's attorney, testified he had failed to get the money from the Treasurer and had applied to the Supreme Court for a mandamus.

Mrs. Nation Arrested Again.

Kansas City, Mo., March 15.—Mrs. Carrie Nation was arrested, near the Union Depot, today for obstructing the sidewalk. She was taken to the police station, but immediately released upon her promise to take a train for Topeka. Mrs. Nation had stopped to harangue a crowd, which became so large traffic was stopped.

FRIENDS TO SEE GEN. HARRISON.

Body of Dead Statesman to Be Viewed by Thousands in Capitol.

ALL PLANS COMPLETED.

Members of the Cabinet of the Former President Will Act as Pallbearers.

BURIAL WILL BE PRIVATE.

Indianapolis, Ind., March 15.—[Special.]—Arrangements for the funeral of former President Benjamin Harrison have been completed and all is in readiness for the removal of the body to the Capitol, where it will lie in state all tomorrow.

Thousands will visit the Statehouse to view the dead man for the last time.

The body was dressed late this afternoon and was removed to the front parlor, where it will lie until taken to the Statehouse.

The body was dressed in the customary black suit of Prince Albert cut which General Harrison always wore. A simple plain black tie was used and gold buttons adorn the shirt front. The left hand is folded across the breast, a plain gold band ring being on the second finger. This is the only ornament used. The face of General Harrison is composed and restful, his illness having made no perceptible change in his appearance.

Flowers Surround the Casket.

The casket containing the body was taken to the front parlor on the first floor and placed in front of the fireplace on the south side of the room, the head being toward the east. The mantel above it was piled high with the floral designs.

Mrs. Harrison went into the room alone and remained for some time there. The copper lining to the casket will not be put in place until just before it is taken to the church for the funeral, when it will be sealed hermetically.

The casket will be covered and ready to be taken to the Statehouse by 10 o'clock tomorrow morning. The hearse has been draped in American flags. It will be drawn by four black horses.

On the return from the Statehouse tomorrow night the casket will be placed in the same position it now occupies, where it will remain until Sunday afternoon.

President to Arrive Sunday.

President McKinley will arrive in this city from Canton at 6:45 o'clock on Sunday morning, and will be entertained at the home of Governor Durbin.

The Columbia club and the leading hotels of the city are making arrangements for the entertainment of distinguished visitors. Governor Nash of Ohio and a party of eight will be here. Senators McMillen, Sovereign, and Loeser will represent the Michigan Senate at the funeral. Senator Beveridge will arrive tomorrow.

Numerous telegrams and messages of sympathy were received by Mrs. Harrison and many friends called in person. Mrs. Harrison saw only one or two intimate friends.

All the relatives expected to attend are in the city except Lieutenant Commander and Mrs. John F. Parker. Carter B. Harrison, a brother, arrived this morning.

The number of floral tributes sent to the house today was greatly increased. So many have arrived that a separate room has been set aside for them and it is filled.

Admiral George Brown, on behalf of the Loyal Legion, sent a beautiful silk flag, which will be placed over the casket, and will not be removed until just as the body is lowered into the grave.

The Indiana National Guard will escort the body from the Harrison home to the Statehouse tomorrow.

The business houses in the city are draped in mourning, the suggestion having been made by the Merchants' association and Mayor Taggart. From noon until 2 o'clock tomorrow business will be discontinued.

Pallbearers Are Selected.

The active pallbearers will be A. L. Mason, James Whitcomb Riley, Evans Woollen, Harry J. Milligan, Clifford Arrick, William C. Bobbs, Harry S. New, Howard Cale, John L. Griffiths, Newton Booth Tarkington, Hilton U. Brown, and Samuel Reid.

The honorary pallbearers will be General Benjamin F. Tracy of New York, former Secretary of the Navy; John Wanamaker of Philadelphia, former Postmaster General; W. H. H. Miller, Indianapolis, former Attorney General; John W. Noble, St. Louis, former Secretary of the Interior; and Charles Foster, Fostoria, O., former Secretary of the Treasury; General Lew Wallace, Judson Harmon, Attorney General during Cleveland's administration, and Willam A. Woods of this city.

Owing to the limited capacity of the First Presbyterian Church and to the large number of people who will wish to attend the funeral services the doors will be open to the friends of the family by card. The Rev. M. L. Haines, the pastor of the church and an intimate friend of General Harrison, will deliver the funeral sermon. The services at the grave will be attended only by the family and more intimate friends.

Navy and Army to Mourn.

Washington, D. C., March 15.—The Navy department has issued a special order relative to the tribute the naval service will pay to the memory of the late ex-President Harrison. The ensign at each naval station and on board each vessel of the United States navy in commission will be hoisted at half mast and a gun will be fired at half-hour intervals from sunrise to sunset. For thirty days officers of the navy and Marine Corps will wear the badge of mourning attached to the sword hilt.

The Union League and Hamilton clubs will hold meetings early this afternoon to honor the memory of General Harrison, and the Marquette club will meet this evening for a similar purpose. The speakers at the Marquette club will be Charles H. Aldrich, Judge Grosscup, and P. H. O'Donnell.

The Union League club is called to meet at 1 o'clock to adopt resolutions.

The Hamilton club will hold a memorial meeting for ex-President Harrison today at 1:30 p. m. James R. Mann, Robert S. Iles, Charles D. Aldrich, and others will speak. Mr. Harrison was a member of the club.

Dr. F. W. Gunsaulus will preach at Central Church tomorrow morning on "Benjamin Harrison, the Christian Statesman."

The County Board Public Service committee appointed a subcommittee to dray up resolutions on the death of the ex-President.

PRESIDENT AT HIS OLD HOME.

He and Mrs. McKinley Reach Canton on His Way to the Funeral of General Harrison.

Canton, O., March 15.—President and Mrs. McKinley and party reached Canton this morning, and were met at the station by a number of old friends, acting as a reception committee.

The President and Mrs. McKinley, Secretary Cortelyou, and Dr. Rixey went to the Barber residence, the old home of Mrs. McKinley, where Mrs. McKinley will remain until the return to Washington, and the President until he starts for Indianapolis on Saturday. In spite of the inclement weather a number of people were at the station, and with these the President exchanged most cordial greetings.

Soon after lunch the President drove up to the North Market street home, now closed, to look over the premises, to see what changes are necessary, as the President and Mrs. McKinley hope to occupy the house a good part of the summer, beginning early in June. This evening a number of relatives and friends called at the Barber home and the time was passed in music and pleasant social visiting.

HOPE FOR APPORTIONMENT

PARTY LEADERS BELIEVE REDISTRICTING CAN WIN.

Republican State Central Committee Will Be Called to Urge Harmony Among Republican Legislators—Bills to Come Up Tuesday, When It Is Expected Many Former Foes Will Vote for Them—Little Work Done in the Assembly.

SPRINGFIELD BUREAU CHICAGO TRIBUNE, Springfield, Ill., March 15.

The Republican State Central committee will likely take a part in the endeavor to reapportion the State. Chairman Rowe said today if the bills were not passed on Tuesday he would call the committee together at the earliest minute to meet in Springfield and assist in the work in getting the bills through the General Assembly. He said, too, that some of the men who would not vote for the Senatorial apportionment bill had called on him as chairman of the State Central committee and told him that if the committee insisted on the proposition they were ready to support the bill. Chairman Rowe said, too, that up to this time, no one had asked the State Central committee to assist in the work of making the apportionment. He said his advice had not been sought by any one. One of the men with whom he was talking at the time said he had not been asked to request votes for the Republican State or national ticket last fall but he had done so just the same.

Sherman Hopes for Apportionment.

Speaker Sherman says he is ready to do anything and everything he can to get the bill through the General Assembly. If all the Republican members of the House are here next Tuesday the measures will be put upon their passage a second time.

There can be only one motion to reconsider, and when this is disposed of the action is final. Governor Yates' friends are showing some activity in the premises. Governor Yates is in Chicago tonight, and ex-Governor Tanner is said to be there also. Their business probably has something to do with the apportionment proposition.

Speaker Sherman gave out tonight the House Committee on License, as follows:

License—Nohe, chairman; Glade, Jones of Cook, Struckman, Pool, Wheeler, Miller of Alexander, Johnson of Rock Island, Onion, Farnum, Partridge, Hefferpan, Arrand, Farris, Brown of La Salle, Kelly, Kreicker, O'Meara, Shay.

This committee will be entered upon record in the House in the morning. Speaker Sherman also will announce tomorrow the committees of the House that are unnamed tonight, with two or three exceptions. He says the committees must all be at work next week, sifting out the good legislation and getting it before the House. There are many important bills in the House and some of them bid fair to become laws.

May Abolish Many Boards.

There is a decided sentiment in favor of the bill drawn by the State Board of Charities providing for a Board of Control of the State charitable institutions instead of an army of commissioners and trustees. There are other bills, too, that the public demands, notably the Crerar Library bill.

Money for Charleston Exposition.

An appropriation of $20,000 or $25,000 will be made for the State exhibition at the Charleston exposition. An effort will be made to incorporate in the bill making an appropriation for an Illinois exhibit at the St. Louis exposition the names of the commissioners who will expend the money.

Will Look Into Chester Prison.

Speaker Sherman announced tonight that he would tomorrow appoint the members of the Special committee, which is to investigate charges of defalcation at the Chester Penitentiary. The committee will consist of Messrs. Miller of Hamilton, Johnson of Rock Island, and Christian, Republicans, and Riess and Browne of La Salle, Democrats. Mr. Miller of Hamilton will be chairman.

No Work Done in Senate.

No business of any nature was transacted in the Senate today and an adjournment was had until Monday night. Senator Hussman of Effingham presided.

Kidnaping Bill Is Advanced.

The anti-kidnaping bill prepared by the House Committee on Judiciary was reported this morning by Mr. Crafts and sent to second reading.

New Measures Introduced.

Among the more important bills introduced in the House this morning were the following:

By Partridge of White—Amending the election law by providing punishment for the taking of official ballots from printing offices except by persons authorized by law to receive the same. Any person who causes the distribution of spurious or counterfeit ballots shall be subject to the same penalty as is provided for the persons making such distribution.

Also a bill providing for the punishment of any person who offers a bribe or who solicits money or liquor at any election.

By McClenathan of Vermilion—Providing that all discharged employés shall receive payment of wages due to the date of their discharge in lawful money of the United States. If time checks, due bills, orders, or other evidences of indebtedness shall be given in lieu of cash the employé shall be entitled to receive wages until such time check, due bill, or order is paid.

To Amend Habeas Corpus Law.

Representative Samuel E. Erickson of Cook will in the near future offer a bill making a radical amendment in the law of habeas corpus. It provides that whenever any writ of habeas corpus shall have been issued by any court or Judge other than the Supreme Court or Judge thereof, and an order to discharge or other final order shall be made or entered, an appeal may be taken to the Supreme Court from such order on behalf either of the applicant or of the people.

MARCH, APRIL AND MAY!

Paine's Celery Compound, the Best Spring Medicine in All the World.

Purifies the Blood as Nothing Else Can Do, Makes Strong Nerves, Cures Disease!

There is but one spring medicine that never fails.

Paine's celery compound is a physician's remedy, and all schools of physicians prescribe it.

It is guaranteed by thousands of men and women whom it has benefited. It has saved the health and lives of hundreds of sufferers in every community.

It is the only specific known for diseases arising from a debilitated nervous system and impure blood. Again and again it cures when every other means fails. It is as far in advance of the ordinary well meaning but useless sarsaparillas, nervines, and tonics as a finely adjusted chronometer is superior to the dummy clock on a jeweler's sign post. One is the finished product of brains and scientific skill, while the other is a bungling imitation.

This is why the demand for Paine's celery compound as a spring medicine so far exceeds today the demand for all other remedies put together.

Paine's celery compound, taken during the early spring days, has even more than its usual remarkable efficacy in making people well. It makes short work of all diseases of debility and nervous exhaustion. It rapidly drives out neuralgia, sleeplessness, dyspepsia, and rheumatism from the system. It removes that lassitude, or "tired feeling," which betokens weakened nerves and poor blood.

Overworked and tired women are but one class of persons who are in urgent need of the wonderful remedy to make and keep them well. Business-men who are not sleeping soundly, shop girls made pale and sickly by long hours of indoor work, and the countless sufferers from dyspepsia, kidney and liver trouble, need the invigorating effect of Paine's celery compound now that spring, with all its dangers, is at hand. Its preëminence as a health-maker comes from its extraordinary powers of supplying appropriate nutriment to the blood, nerves, and brain.

There isn't a family so rich or so poor as to afford to be without a bottle of Paine's celery compound in these early spring days, when the human system needs every assistance to carry it through the depressing effects of the season when nature makes it easiest to replenish the blood with new, healthful material, and feed the nervous system with strength for future work.

What Paine's celery compound has done for thousands of others it will do for the reader, and once this great medicine is given a trial, another person will be added to the multitude who praise its wonderful virtues.

SATURDAY, MARCH 16, 1901.

Doherty Was the Man. M. J. Doherty, Superintendent of Streets, has refreshed his memory and admits that he wrote a letter to the contractor for the government building notifying him that he would not be allowed to haul over any of the public streets the heavy monoliths which it was the intention to use for that building, so he appears to be the man primarily responsible for the change in plans, so far as the monoliths are concerned. It is to be regretted that the contractor did not appeal from Doherty to the Commissioner of Public Works or the Mayor instead of assuming that Doherty's "no" settled the matter. Perhaps it is not yet too late for some one of Mr. Doherty's superiors to reverse his decision and make possible the use of the monolithic columns.

Making Sunday Play Legal. Wonderful is the change which has come over the good old Puritan State of Massachusetts. In colonial days it was wicked to walk abroad on the Sabbath, except on the way to and from the meeting-house. Now, in this first year of the new century, a bill is pending before the Massachusetts Legislature which makes it legal for citizens of the State to play on Sunday "such quiet and harmless games and recreation, not otherwise forbidden by law, as do not infringe on the public rights or disturb the public peace or worship." It is also to be remarked that the bill is approved by a large number of the professors of Harvard University, as well as by several liberal-minded clergymen. Under the provisions of the bill a man may legally play golf, go fishing, or take part in a number of other popular amusements on Sunday. To the average mind it will seem strange that such legislation should be needed, and yet the fact that it has been introduced and is likely to be passed marks a great change in the public sentiment of Massachusetts.

The Collectors and the Controller. There is the usual spring wrangle between the City Controller and the Town Collectors. The former complains that the latter do not pay over so promptly as they should the city's share of their collections. The Collectors make the shopworn and threadbare excuses for not doing so which their predecessors have always made. There will be no change for the better until the work done now by these town officers is turned over to the County Treasurer, as is contemplated by an excellent measure now before the General Assembly. When all the collecting is done by one officer it is possible that the different municipal bodies for which he will have to collect taxes will get what is coming to them a little more promptly than they do now. If they do not they will have only one man to dispute with instead of seven. There would be no disputing with anybody were it not for the fact that these tax collections draw interest for the official in whose custody they are. Were it not for this the City Treasurer would not be so eager to get the money and the Collectors would not be so slow about making returns. The payment of interest on deposits of public funds demoralizes the officials who are the beneficiaries.

CONCILIATION AND ARBITRATION.

One result of the formation of the great steel company is that probably there will be peace in the steel trades for some years to come. The United States Steel company will have in its employ nearly 400,000 workmen, members of the Amalgamated Iron and Steel association. That these two organizations shall be on friendly terms is much to be desired. For the purpose of settling promptly and satisfactorily differences which may arise, and thus heading off possible industrial war, it is proposed to establish a board of conciliation and arbitration, which shall be practically always in session and to which shall be referred for settlement all questions of difference between employer and employé which arise in the conduct of an enormous and complicated business. On this board both labor and capital will be represented, and it will have the services of experts in the various subjects which it is likely to be called on to consider. The plan has been successfully tried in this country in some trades, and to a much larger extent in England, where it is given credit for saving hundreds of thousands of dollars for both the workmen and the capitalists.

This plan for preventing strikes and settling controversies, following so quickly upon the formation of the new steel corporation, calls renewed attention to one of the interesting developments in the trust question. Union labor, which started out with the idea that the formation of great combinations of capital was hostile to its interests, is fast changing its opinion. Under old conditions, where each mill was under a separate management, it was necessary for the representatives of union labor to deal with the manager of each, and as many different agreements had to be debated and agreed on as there were mills involved. Now only a single agreement is necessary to cover all the mills and the men employed in them. Furthermore, it is found that the manager of great corporate interests is, from purely selfish reasons, more ready to make concessions and agree to reasonable demands than the individual manager of a few years ago. He has more at stake and for many reasons cannot afford to be responsible for a strike which might involve several hundred thousand men. Therefore, union labor, which began by condemning great manufacturing corporations, is beginning to approve of them.

GUARANTIES OF FREEDOM.

The urgent and sufficient reason which compelled Congress to adopt the Cuban policy, set forth in the Platt amendment, is well stated by Franklin MacVeagh. He says:

> The same obligations which obliged us to go to war obliged us and are obliging us now to govern Cuba and those obligations will oblige us to protect her from other nations and from herself. It would be idle to deny and criminal to disregard the fact that the chief peril to the freedom and independence of Cuba is to be from within and not from without. And if that peril is to be averted it must be averted by us—and for this we must have a way to interfere. We are committed in our own eyes and in the eyes of the Cubans and in the eyes of all other nations to the protection of Cuba.

After the policy of the American government has been accepted by the Cubans it will follow, as Mr. MacVeagh says, that—

> If Cuba can maintain her freedom and independence without aid then she will be as independent as England; and if it shall sometimes happen that the freedom of her people or the independence of her government is in danger then she shall have the timely and generous help of our greater wisdom and more ample power.

After the fall of Santiago the Americans discovered that the Cuban revolutionary government they had heard so much about was made up of bands of guerrillas. As Mr. MacVeagh says, "instead of a country we could enter as an ally and march out of with a vote of thanks from an organized people—as Teller dreamed"—and as France marched out of the American colonies after the revolution—"we found ourselves in a political no man's land, with an unorganized and disorganized people thrown helplessly on our hands."

The acceptance by a Cuban government of the advice and aid of the United States, a nation possessing greater experience, and power, and sounder political judgment, will not be a surrender of the independence of Cuba. It will serve to secure a guaranty of independence. Chief Justice Marshall said in the decision in Worcester vs. the State of Georgia:

> The settled doctrine of the law of nations is that a weaker power does not surrender its independence—its right of self-government—by associating with a stronger and taking its protection. A weak state, in order to provide for its safety, may place itself under the protection of one more powerful, without stripping itself of the right of government and ceasing to be a state. Examples of this kind are not wanting in Europe. "Tributary and feudatory states," says Vattel, "do not thereby cease to be sovereign and independent states, so long as self-government and sovereign and independent authority are left in the administration of the state." At the present day, more than one state may be considered as holding its right of self-government under the guaranty and protection of one or more others.

Congress and the President recognize the fact which is also recognized by the great majority of the intelligent citizens of the United States that if Cuba have not that measure of protection outlined in the Cuban resolutions the inhabitants of the island will not enjoy under a Cuban government the blessings of peace and freedom.

EXPIRING STREET RAILWAY RIGHTS.

It would be a cause of ample satisfaction to local street railway interests if, by brandishing with sufficient vigor and show of confidence the "ninety-nine-year act," they could impress the public with the idea that there can be no such thing as a street railway issue if they are in complete control of the street railway situation for fifty-eight years to come.

That this act, passed by the Legislature in 1865, against popular protest and over the Governor's veto, is still a factor in the situation is not to be ignored. That the ill-advised and deplorable twenty-year extension in 1883 of all the then existing franchises was defended on an opinion of the Corporation Counsel supporting that act is likewise true. But, although the representatives of the city in 1883 failed to require, as a condition of that immensely valuable extension, that all claims under that act should be waived, and although under that extension the public has been and still is paying 30 and 35 per cent dividends on the stock of the original North and West Side companies, whose rights were affected by the act, yet the situation has been fundamentally changed since that time by the substitution of mechanical power for the animal power to which the act limited its attempted extension.

Furthermore, the lines concerned under that act include but a minor fraction of the present street railway mileage of the city, and to a great extent that fraction includes only parts of what are now operated as continuous trunk lines. For example, the act does not include any one of the existing down-town loops—without which the companies today could not operate a car on any of the cable lines.

Any claim by the traction companies that the "ninety-nine-year act" disposes of the street railway situation is merely an exhibition of unmixed assurance. One thing should, however, be kept constantly in mind from this time forth—namely: that the city must handle this subject in a manner corresponding to its complexity and difficulty, and with the aid of as good legal and technical advice as traction interests find it expedient to pay for.

AFTER PRESIDENT DIAZ, WHAT?

It is reassuring to have an authentic denial of the rumors that President Diaz is dying or losing his mind, but the fact remains that the time is not far distant when Mexico must undergo the ordeal of a change of rulers. President Diaz is now 71 years of age. In the natural course of human events it can be but a few years at most before his death or retirement will call for a new President. He has ruled Mexico uninterruptedly and wisely since 1884, nominally as a President, but practically as a dictator. His power was originally obtained as a revolutionary leader, after the manner familiar in other Spanish-American republics. It is impossible to ignore the fact that when he passes away Mexico may again become the scene of revolutions.

This question is of vital interest to a large number of Americans, who have invested capital and established various enterprises in Mexico under the firm rule of Señor Diaz. The remarkable prosperity of that country in the last quarter of a century has been due in no small degree to his policy of giving liberal concessions to Americans and protecting foreign capital by maintaining peace and order. The long period of stable government which he has given to Mexico has afforded the inhabitants an object lesson enjoyed by no other Spanish-American republic. It has given an impetus to the arts of peace which should go far toward establishing permanent stability. Whether it will prove sufficient, however, to prevent disorder when Porfirio Diaz relaxes his strong hold on the reins of government still remains to be seen.

Happily those most closely in touch with the existing government at the City of Mexico speak most hopefully of the future. They have assurances to the effect that President Diaz has made careful provision for the peaceful naming of his successor in the event of his death. It is said that the next President will be the man who is now Secretary of War, or some one representing him, and that this arrangement has long been agreed to by the Governors of the various States. The army and police are supposed to be under strict discipline. Citizens of the United States who have long been residents of Mexico feel secure in the belief that there will be no serious disturbance when the change comes, and that if there should be any riots among the more turbulent elements in the northern districts they will be promptly suppressed. No apprehensions are felt as to the security of American investments under any circumstances. It is to be hoped that this belief is well founded and that the beneficent institutions of peace and progress established by President Diaz will prove to be permanent.

THE NEW NAVY.

The contracts announced by the Navy department call for the building of five battleships and six armored and three protected cruisers, the aggregate cost of which will be $81,500,000. Following its usual custom of giving the more powerful vessels State names, the battleships will be named Virginia, Nebraska, Georgia, New Jersey, and Rhode Island; the armored cruisers California, Colorado, South Dakota, Pennsylvania, West Virginia, and Maryland; and the three protected cruisers Milwaukee, St. Louis, and Charleston. These fourteen vessels will require 930 guns of various calibers, 270 for their main and 660 for their secondary batteries.

The aggregate outlay for these sea fighters is the largest ever made at one time by the government, and the fourteen new vessels will be the strongest and best equipped yet constructed. When they are in commission the United States, in number of vessels as well as in their equipment and fighting ability, for the first time will take its place among the world's great naval powers.

But if these vessels which are yet to be built are to be put in commission without at the same time laying up other ships which are in commission now, provision will have to be made for more officers and more seamen. The navy lacks men at this time more than it lacks ships. The manning of the vessels actually in service is no easy task. Something, though probably not enough, has been done towards increasing the number of officers, but there must be more seamen also.

WOMEN AND POCKETS.

The Anti-Suffragist, the organ of the women of New York who do not wish the ballot, does not confine its crusade strictly to anti-suffrage, but seeks to point out methods by which woman may emancipate herself from conditions which hinder her advancement in the contest for superiority over man. In a recent issue it contends that man's present superiority to woman is incontestable because he has pockets. It says: "Man is a perfected marsupial. He is a creature of pockets. With him the necessity of a pouch simply develops one. This is the law of evolution. The first we read of him as a pocket-bearing animal he was on a level with the kangaroo. He then had one pouch fastened to his belt. Now look at him and compare him to woman. She has not evolved under the laws of nature, but under the sterner decrees of the dressmaker. What a difference between no pockets and a score of pockets!"

The Anti-Suffragist has hit upon one of the principal obstacles which stand in the way of woman's superiority to man. It is one which illustrates woman's slavish adherence to the decrees of fashion. At no time in the history of civilized man, whatever fashion might dictate as to his garments, has he been without pockets. In this matter he has been absolute and consistent, while woman, on the other hand, has been weak and servile. At one time in the past she was the possessor of one pocket, but as she never could find it in an emergency it was discarded as a useless appendage, and from that time to this she carries her light impedimenta in her hands to tempt the thieves. She has more garments than Eve, but no more pockets. She is still primeval and undeveloped. Her servility to the decrees of fashion is all the more remarkable when it is considered these decrees are so often issued by man, to whom she would be superior.

BRIDEWELL BRICKMAKING.

It is not to be expected that the Brickmakers' alliance will, at its meeting tomorrow or at any other time, oppose the making of bricks at the bridewell for use in city work, or will oppose the project to double the present output of 4,000,000 per year in order to furnish a larger part of the 20,000,000 bricks which the city will require during each of the next two years for the South Side intercepting sewer. The objection of organized labor is not to the employment of prison labor. Trade unionists recognize that idleness is harmful to prisoners and that its burden must ultimately be borne by productive labor. The objection is, instead, to the competition in the open market of prison-made goods, since they are not produced on the basis of ordinary wages, but practically on the basis of a State subsidy.

The most approved method of obviating this objection is that which, after having been long urged by organized labor, was adopted about four years ago by New York State, under which prisoners produce commodities to be used by public authorities. Their product thus does not enter into the open competition which fixes market prices and indirectly affects wages. The production of brick at the bridewell for city use harmonizes entirely with this principle, and any trade union opposition to the plan—unless the latter were extended to unreasonable limits—would contradict the established position of organized labor on this question.

As to the fact that a part of the bridewell's product of bricks during the last year has been disposed of to private parties, there is no propriety in raising this question—which has hitherto been overlooked—at the present moment, when plans are in hand for devoting the entire product to public uses.

A Welcome to Minister Wu. Wu Ting Fang, the Chinese Minister to the United States, who is coming to spend several days in Chicago as the guest of the university, is one of the most learned of Oriental diplomats as well as an exceedingly picturesque and interesting personality. He has taken a keener interest in the affairs of this country than any of his predecessors. He has been a notable contributor to American reviews and magazines, and delivered eloquent and thoughtful addresses. He was educated in England, has been called to the English bar, and speaks the language perfectly, yet he is still, first of all, a Chinaman. He seems to realize fully the splendid achievements of Western civilization, while at the same time he has the strongest faith in the institutions of his fatherland. He watches the progress of affairs in the United States with keen eyes and has on occasion pointed out the inconsistency which exists between the professions of Christian civilization and some of its practices. With admirable good humor he replies to the critics of China by showing how abuses exist even in the land of the free and the home of the brave. When fault is found with the atrocities committed by Chinese mobs, Minister Wu points to the doings of American citizens, who now and then burn men at the stake. When impertinent comment is made on the diminutive size of the feet of Chinese women, he smilingly suggests tight stays as an indication that the rule works both ways. Minister Wu has all the suavity of the Oriental combined with the frankness of the Occidental. He has won the respect of the public in this country, who admire alike his manifested ability and the kindly spirit which seems to animate him.

It is interesting to note that M. de Rodays, after he was slapped and buffeted by Count Boni, did not lose his sense of what was proper. He was agitated, but polite.

IN A MINOR KEY.

The Amateur Reformer.

"Say, young chap, are you making faces at me?"

"Naw! I can't help it."

Whereupon the newsboy, from whom the tall customer had just bought a paper, rolled his eyes, moved his ears, and made horrible grimaces.

"You can't help it? I say you can."

"Mebby you know more'n I do about it, mister," retorted the boy, turning one corner of his mouth up and the other corner down, and sniffing violently.

"Maybe I do. I've seen men who had it a great deal worse than you have. I say you can help it if you want to. I've got a theory I'd like to try in your case, young chap. Do you want to earn a dollar?"

"Sure!"

"Then throw those papers away and come along with me."

"Do I gif de dollar now?"

"No; you get half a dollar now and the other half when I've done with you."

"Dat goes."

The boy threw his pile of papers at the feet of a trusty chum, with a ferocious wink intended to convey the idea that he would hold him to account for every one of them, took the proffered coin, and accompanied his queer customer around the corner.

They stopped presently in front of a cheap photographing establishment.

"This will do as well as any other," said the queer customer.

"Is it goin' to hurt?" asked the boy, as they walked up the steps.

"Hurt? No. Come along."

They went inside.

"I'd like to have this boy sit for his photograph," the queer customer said.

"For the rogues' gallery?" asked the astonished photographer.

"No, sir; do I look like a fly cop? I want his picture taken for my own use."

"Yes, sir. What style?"

"Any style."

"Want to take him to the dressing-room and——"

"No. Take him just as he is."

"What size picture?"

"Any size."

"We don't usually get such orders as that. How many prints?"

"Don't care for any prints at all. I only want to have him sit."

"We have to charge, you know——"

"All I want is to have him sit once in front of your camera. What will that cost?"

"We don't do anything for less than a dollar, because——"

"That's all right. This is a scientific experiment. Are you ready?"

"Be ready in a moment, sir."

He went into his back room and brought out a slide, which he put into the camera.

"How do you want the boy to sit?" he asked.

"I want him to sit facing the machine. Give him a long exposure. I'll tell you when to shut it off."

All this time the dirty-faced urchin had been contorting his features in the most frightful way.

"How can I give him a time exposure when he's doing that sort of thing?"

"That's the crux of the experiment. You go ahead."

"All ready."

"Wait a second. Now, my son, you are about to have your picture taken. It will be necessary for you to stop all that monkey business with your mouth and to keep your ears stationary."

A pitcher of water stood on a stand at the side of the room. He took it in his hands and sat down in a chair a few feet from the wriggling urchin.

"Now, you look straight into that machine, and remember I've got my eye on you. If you move a muscle, or even bat your eye, till I give you leave, I'll break this pitcher over your head and drown you. Go ahead, sir."

The photographer exposed the plate.

The boy sat with staring eyes, absolutely motionless, for nearly a minute.

"That will do," said the queer customer. "Now, boy, if ever you tell anybody again that you can't help twisting your face all out of shape you'll be lying. Do you understand?"

"Do I git de half dollar now?"

"Yes. Here it is. And if I ever catch you making faces after this I'll break every bone in your body. You may go now."

The next day a tall, slim, slightly stoop-shouldered man of solemn aspect was strolling leisurely along the sidewalk near a Dearborn street law office, when he heard a newsboy telling a bootblack of an adventure he had had the day previous.

"De guy," said the boy, "t'ought it wuz a disease, like it is wid some folks. He didn't know I wuz doin' it just for fun, an' he steered me up agin a bloke wid a kodak to see if I couldn't stop it. He give me a plunk fur doin' it. I could 'a' worked 'im fur two uv 'em if I'd——"

Then he caught sight of the man of solemn aspect and broke off.

With a roguish look on his dirty face he began rolling his eyes, moving his ears, and twisting his features.

Then he put his thumb to his nose, twiddled his dirty fingers at the man, and disappeared around the corner.

"The infernal little scoundrel!" muttered the man.

His Striking Individuality.

At that moment the Vice President-elect rose to take the oath of office, and a solemn hush brooded over the vast assembly.

"That's Roosevelt!" whispered the enthusiastic young man in the gallery. "Doesn't he impress you as a man of extraordinary force and individuality?"

"O, yes," ecstatically replied the young woman beside him. "And what a cute little bald spot that is on the back of his head!"

WHO'S WHO AND WHAT'S WHAT.

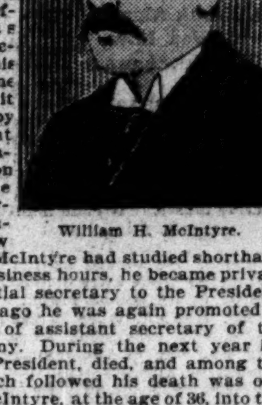

WOMAN PROFESSOR OF SAVAGE LANGUAGES.—One result of the war in south Africa is a great boom in the study of the native languages of the dark continent among young Englishmen. Evidently many of them expect to go out to the Cape as soon as the present difficulty is over. Under these conditions a demand has been created for teachers who are able to talk and teach the various native tongues. One of the best known of these teachers is Miss Werner, who occupies the chair of south African languages on the faculty of King's College, London.

Miss Werner.

She began the study of the Zulu language from books a number of years ago, but found that she could not make much progress without hearing it spoken. Accordingly, she went out to south Africa and spent several years among the natives, living for months at a time far from civilization and with only a single comrade. In this way she learned to speak the four principal native languages with fluency.

FROM OFFICE BOY TO VICE PRESIDENT.—Twenty-two years ago William H. McIntyre, then a boy of 14 years, was attending the public school at Irvington, N. Y. Because he was a manly, straight-forward boy he attracted the attention of the manager of a great New York insurance company, who was living at Irvington. He offered young McIntyre a job as errand boy in his office. It was promptly accepted, and his work was done so well that it was noticed by the President of the company, who soon made the youth his personal messenger.

William H. McIntyre.

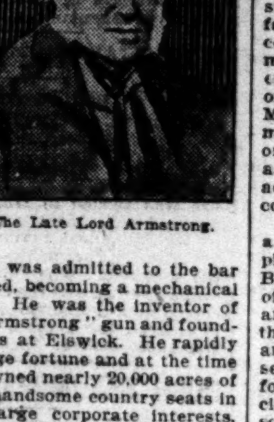

In a few years, after McIntyre had studied shorthand outside of business hours, he became private and confidential secretary to the President. Three years ago he was again promoted to the position of assistant secretary of the great company. During the next year his friend, the President, died, and among the changes which followed his death was one which put McIntyre, at the age of 36, into the chair of Vice President of the company, a position which increases his responsibilities and his salary almost equally.

NEW MONUMENT FOR NATIONAL CAPITAL.—By an amendment to the sundry civil bill, which passed Congress on March 3, the sum of $7,500 was appropriated for the purchase of a duplicate of the heroic bronze statue of Jean Baptiste de Vimeur, Comte de Rochambeau, which now stands in Paris. The sculptor of the original, who has been commissioned to make the duplicate, is Fernand Hamar, a famous deaf and dumb artist, of whom it is said that he "speaks in bronze and marble." When completed the statue will be erected in Washington, the exact site not having yet been selected. The Comte de Rochambeau came to the aid of the colonies during the revolution with 6,000 troops, and it was largely due to his presence and to that of the French fleet of thirty-seven sail that Washington was able to force the surrender of Cornwallis at Yorktown. He returned to France in 1783 being followed by the thanks of Congress. He died in 1807. The statue for which provision has been made measures with its pedestal twenty-six feet in height, and is twenty feet square at the base.

HALF A MILLION FROM LORD ARMSTRONG'S HEIR.—When Lord William George Armstrong died recently he left an enormous fortune, all of which was made by his own efforts. He was a childless widower and consequently the estate descended to Watson Armstrong, a relative who has just given half a million dollars of the old gunmaker's money to the Victoria Jubilee Infirmary. Lord William Armstrong was the son of a corn merchant, and from his early youth showed a liking for mechanics. He was a sickly child, and when he grew up was set to reading law. He was admitted to the bar but never practiced, becoming a mechanical engineer in 1847. He was the inventor of the celebrated "Armstrong" gun and founded the great works at Elswick. He rapidly accumulated a large fortune and at the time of his death he owned nearly 20,000 acres of land and several handsome country seats in addition to his large corporate interests. He died at the age of 90 years, after spending the last twenty years of his life in retirement.

AUSTRIA BUILDS A MEMORIAL CHAPEL.—For the first time since the Austrian Archduke Maximilian was killed at Queretaro by the people over whom he had been chosen to reign the Austrian government has recognized the existence of such a country as Mexico. It has sent Prince Khevenhueller, with a large suite, to visit Queretaro and dedicate a memorial chapel on the spot where the unfortunate Maximilian lost his life. Prince Khevenhueller is the Austrian Ambassador to the court of the Vatican and is famous as the handsomest and most dashing member of the Austrian diplomatic service. He does not go to Mexico in an official capacity, and has not therefore been formally received by President Diaz. At the same time the Mexican government has shown the distinguished party of Austrians every possible attention, and it is hoped that after their return home Emperor Francis Joseph may see fit to send an Ambassador to Mexico, where Austria has been unrepresented since 1867.

THIRTY YEARS IN THE WHITE HOUSE.—One of the permanent residents of the White House at Washington is "Uncle Jerry," the old colored man who came to Washington as a footman to President Grant and has been there ever since. "Uncle Jerry" still thinks Grant was the biggest man who ever sat in the President's chair. He calls the great soldier "The General of the world." His next favorites among the White House occupants are President and Mrs. Cleveland. He makes an exception in their case, for naturally he is a Republican. Few of the mistresses of the White House pay much attention to the housekeeping in the mansion, according to "Uncle Jerry." "Dey comes down to de kitchen once when dey first comes and pays der 'spects to de servants. Den dey goes back and stays away fuh a year or two." Mrs. Hayes was the most charitable woman whom "Jerry" has known in the White House. She used to come down-stairs, roll up her sleeves, and with her own hands fill baskets full of good things for the poor. For President McKinley "Uncle Jerry" declares that he "is the best man I ever saw to his pretty wife."

KINDERGARTEN IN CUBA.—The second annual report of the Cuban Orphan society, of which General Francis V. Greene is President, has just been made public. For the first year of its existence the work of the society was all in the direction of relief. Then, early in 1900, the government of the island took the relief work off its hands and left the society to take up educational work along kindergarten and manual training lines. At the present time the society maintains free kindergartens for destitute children and small manual training schools in Santa Maria del Rosario, Matanzas, Guantanamo, and Sagua la Grande. It is teaching 150 boys and 32 girls manual training; has 145 children in its kindergartens; has organized 100 poor widows into sewing clubs; has established English classes in some of the public schools, and is teaching 40 public school teachers the principles and methods of kindergarten work so that they may apply them in the public schools. Miss Laura D. Gill, who has had personal charge of the work since its beginning, has been elected dean of Barnard College and will consequently terminate her work for the society this spring.

BOOKS OF THE WEEK.

Grant Allen's newly published book, "Linnet: A Romance," is newly published in America only, having seen the light in England in 1898, before its author's lamented death. It is in his later manner, with science omitted and romance in its place, and it is a good story, though praise will hardly run higher.

The story is of a Tyrolean mountain maid who is gifted with a beautiful face, figure, disposition, and voice—a bucolic paragon. A poet-composer meets her in the second chapter while on a walking tour in the Tyrol, and all the other chapters of the book until the last are occupied with briging them together on the hither side of matrimony—in the last alone does love have its way. Linnet, the heroine, becomes an opera prima donna assoluta, but not until she has been married to her impresario, who is the leading resident of her native village. He gives her the necessary training, she herself acquires the cultivation needful to fit her for marriage to an English gentleman, and the latter and she meet repeatedly until the husband's brutality drives them apart, while his enemy, a fellow-Tyrolean, finally murders him in expiation for his having stolen Linnet from him as well.

Some of the devices for keeping the pair of lovers from coming into their own are tiresome toward the close of the book, which could be shortened to advantage. Rue Palmer, an American millionairess, who plays quite a little part in the story, is permitted, somewhat surprisingly, to appear as a credit to her native land. (New Amsterdam Book company.)

Arthur Stanwood Pier is a Harvard man who gained more than the usual repute for his first book, "The Pedagogues," a story of the summer school in his own university. The favorable impression made at that time is continued by a full-fledged novel, "The Sentimentalists" (Harpers), said in the publishers' announcement on its cover to be a story of "contemporary social life in Boston and Missouri." The idea of Missouri may be dismissed as inconceivable, nor need the secondary scene of the action be laid in the West at all—Pennsylvania, the author's home, will account for all the provincialism and political corruption described.

Briefly stated, the account is of a family in a small town which determines to capture a place for the younger son and daughter in Boston, the elder boy having made a place of his own through his Harvard connection after graduation. The mother, Mrs. Kent, is the striking figure of the skillfully drawn and dramatic narrative which ensues. The sentimental love of the hero, Vernon Kent, for a beautiful girl in the most exclusive circles of the Back Bay district deepens into something better and finer as he learns the lesson of life through the difficulties he is compelled to surmount. Losing the easy and demoralizing position gained through influence, he is driven to newspaper work in Boston, a calamity which entitles him to all sympathy.

The mother, in an attempt to save her children's fortune, imperiled through speculation, becomes a corporation lobbyist at the capital of the State of Olympia, and an exciting series of chapters leads up to a still more exciting climax. The book is characterized throughout by keen analysis and a delightful sense of humor.

In her best style Adeline Sergeant has written another thrilling romance entitled, "Daunay's Tower" (F. M. Buckles & Co.). A favorite trick of this writer is to fix upon some meek and lowly young girl for a heroine, and then by a series of daring and improbable events raise her from poverty and obscurity to a high place where she can put her foot on the necks of her enemies. In "Daunay's Tower" the process is attended by rather more interest than usual. The obstacles in the way are more difficult to overcome; indeed, sometimes they seem all but insurmountable, but this only gives the author a chance to exercise her wonderful ingenuity, which she does to so much purpose that the varied complications of this interesting plot are brought to a successful and happy end. There never was so lovely or acomplished a girl as Annabel Daunay, nor so brave and handsome a man as her cousin, Jocelyn, nor so good and great a man as the reformed criminal, Dr. Lechmere, and out of their troubles and sorrows Miss Sergeant works a beautiful joy. The story is intolerably long, but there is no reason why one should read it all.

IN THE SOCIETY WORLD.

LADY CURZON GOING TO ENGLAND AND NOT COMING HERE.

Hull House Preparing to Receive Prince Krapotkin of Russia — St. Patrick's Eve Celebration and Many Other Affairs Announced for Today—Revolution Daughters to Celebrate Their Tenth Anniversary by a Reception in the Fine Arts Building.

Mr. Levi Z. Leiter, who arrived from Washington on Thursday to spend several days in the city, says it is not probable that his daughter, Lady Curzon of India, will visit America this summer. "Lady Curzon sail from India for England on March 23 and goes directly to her husband's estates in Kedleston. She goes to England for rest. Later she will go to Scotland, where Mrs. Leiter may join her, but my own and Mrs. Leiter's plans for going abroad are indefinite."

Hull House is preparing for a distinguished visitor, Prince Krapotkin of Russia, who will arrive early in April. Prince Krapotkin is a member of one of the oldest Russian families. He spent five years in the imperial service in Siberia, and afterwards was imprisoned at St. Petersburg for his ideas of social reform. He escaped to France, but was again imprisoned. He now lives in London and is a well known writer on social problems, and comes to America to make a study of social institutions. A banquet is being planned in Prince Krapotkin's honor.

Beside the St. Patrick's eve celebrations in the various clubs, there are more social affairs this afternoon than usually happen in a day in Lent. The Chicago chapter of the Daughters of the American Revolution celebrate their tenth anniversary by a reception in Assembly Room, Fine Arts Building. The delegates to the national conference will give reminiscences, and the program further includes music and a tea. At the same hour Mrs. Warren Springer will receive the Betty Zane Chapter of the Daughters of the American Revolution at her home, 1635 Prairie avenue, a feature of the entertainment being a paper on "Woman's Doings at the Paris Exposition," by Miss Voes. The society colors are buff and blue, and will be used in the decorations, and in one room there will be glided cages containing canaries, the birds to vie with an orchestra of several pieces.

Also this afternoon comes the promised lecture by Mrs. M. S. Woodward at Steinway Hall. She will relate her experiences in China before and during the Pekin siege. A trip to the Chinese wall will be described. The hour is 2:15, and the entertainment is given under the auspices of the Woman's Aid society of the South Park Avenue Methodist Church.

Miss Maud L. Radford of the University of Chicago will give a paper on "How to Read a Novel" this afternoon before the Catholic Woman's National league in the Masonic Temple. Miss Eleanor Dooley will sing Irish melodies, Mrs. McDevitt and Miss Brophy aiding in the music program. Miss Myra Reynolds of the university will read a paper this afternoon on "Robert Southey" before the study class of the league.

Mrs. N. H. Root of Hinsdale will read a paper on "Peer Gynt," with musical accompaniments, this afternoon in the studio of Mrs. Magnus in the Fine Arts Building.

The Saturday Evening Assemblies will give a dance tonight at the Forum, Forty-third street and Calumet avenue.

Mrs. William Burns Kennedy, 364 Ashland boulevard, will entertain twenty young people this afternoon for her small daughter Florence.

A colonial ball was given at the Kenwood club yesterday afternoon for the children of the dancing class. A card party was given in the evening.

Mrs. Burton Hanson, 4637 Greenwood avenue, gave a musical and luncheon yesterday for her guest, Mrs. H. D. Goodrich of Milwaukee.

Mrs. Elisha N. Miller, 3625 Michigan avenue, gave a card party yesterday afternoon.

ARCHE BARS SALARIED WOMAN.

Excludes Matron Tyler of Model Lodging-House Because She Is Paid $50 a Month.

Mrs. M. J. R. Tyler, the member of the Chicago Woman's club who recently became matron of the Model Lodging-House for Women, was proposed for honorary membership in the Arché club at a meeting held yesterday afternoon. Opposition was unexpected, but it proved strong and the matter was dropped. The reason came out in the question asked by Mrs. Sarah E. Wiley. Mrs. Wiley wanted to know if Mrs. Tyler was not paid for fulfilling the position of matron. the was answered by Mrs. Walter Olds in the affirmative.

"There are lots of women who would be willing to take a place for $50 a month," said Mrs. Wiley, "and wouldn't expect to be rewarded for doing so by honorary membership, either."

The discussion was incidental to a consideration of how $42 should be spent. The members had their favorite charities, and the supporters of the vacation schools, the Jackson Park Sanitarium, and the model lodging-house were about equally divided. The vaction schools finally won and the entire sum was appropriated to them.

Then the women who had been working for the model lodging-house started a voluntary subscription for their cause. Two $25 subscriptions and a large number of smaller ones rade up a sum of over $100.

Members of the club who are in the secrets of its politics say that Mrs. Walter C. Nelson will be the next President of the club. Mrs. Nelson says she will not accept the office, but the club insists that she will be elected and that it will be without a President until she decides to accept.

COLLEGE CLASS IN HAT CLASH.

Northwestern Sophomores Divided into Factions Over Question of Choosing Tam O'Shanters or Fedoras.

The question of whether tam o'shanters or fedora hats are the more becoming is now agitating the members of the sophomore class of Northwestern University. Every year there is considerable discussion over the selection of the class hat. The "coed" plays no small part in the choice, and the young men use all their powers of persuasion to induce the girls to favor a certain kind. They have had hard work, however, this year, and the young women already have rejected several patterns. The choice now lies between the two kinds mentioned.

As much interest has been aroused as if an election for class President were being held. Some fraternities are said to have banded together in the interest of the fedoras, while the girls on the other hand have worked among their respective sororities and have pledged their friends to favor the tam o'shanters.

A meeting of the class was held yesterday and after long argument the matter was laid on the table for a week.

Partisans of the moderate use of liquors are admitted to the congress.

Over Hot Ploughshares

By ETHELYN LESLIE HUSTON.

SYNOPSIS OF PRECEDING CHAPTERS.

Mrs. Scarlet, a journalist, is given an assignment by her editor to solve the mysterious murder of a woman in a poor quarter of the city. She learns from a newsboy that the woman had a female companion, and on going to Cleveland in search of this woman learns she is in the workhouse there. Mrs. Scarlet has herself arrested and sent to the workhouse, where she cultivates the acquaintance of the woman, and learns from her that the murdered woman came from Idaho, and that her lover, who is suspected, bore the name of Dave Disbro. This is the name of Mrs. Scarlet's own lover, and the description of the suspected man tallies with his. Mrs. Scarlet goes to Boise, Idaho, where she stops with an old acquaintance. She travels twenty miles through a blizzard to the mountain home of "Gentleman Dave's" father, who is dying, and hears him recite in his delirium the story of the son's marriage and departure for Chicago, and of the father's gift of a gold nugget in the form of a devil's head, which is the shape of a nugget given to Mrs. Scarlet by her lover. From a Chinese shirtmaker she learns that "Gentleman Dave" had a scar on his neck. The train on which Mrs. Scarlet is returning to Chicago is wrecked and she is severly injured. Disbro hurries to her bedside. She asks to kiss his neck, and pulls down the collar of his negligee shirt. Then she faints.

CHAPTER X.

"AND what were you going to do, had the scar been there?"

Mrs. Scarlet was lying comfortably and contentedly on the broad divan of her compartment in a boudoir-car rolling swiftly away from the prairies. A motherly nurse peeped in now and then, and her "aid" and most humble subordinate always meekly saluted and reported on the condition of the patient. The aid now arranged the pillows, which he had arranged exactly four minutes before, and then proceeded to examine her pulse.

"But you don't have to hold both wrists!" protested the patient.

"A careful physician always holds both wrists," responded the assistant nurse, severely, determined to do his duty. "Particularly when the patient is good looking. And now answer my question. What were you going to do had the scar been on my throat?"

The smile died from her eyes, and she looked at him wistfully. Then she slowly shook her head.

"As heaven is witness, dear—I don't—know."

It was an awed whisper, and she looked out of the window at the naked trees and bare fields that were flying past, and the shadow of that deadly fear again darkened her eyes and swept its gray shade over her face.

"Don't look like that!" he cried, remorsefully. "My sweetheart, I ought not to have reminded you of all that horror."

She turned back with a sigh and twisted her fingers more closely into his.

"Remind me? Ah, if you could realize the long agony that was with me night and day—that I cannot realize yet is past!—you would not fear reminding me. I have to remind myself, again and again, that it is over, like some horrible nightmare."

She looked up at him with a touch of anxiety, and he nodded encouragingly. "Say it," he prompted. "Mrs. Gamp is talking babies in the next boudoir with Mrs. Castleton, and you are absolutely in my power—but say it. I am alone, lorn orphan, as I believe I have hitherto mentioned, and accept everything with the mildness of a Christian character. Go on!"

"Ah, my dear, you are generous and you pass it off with a jest," she said, with a wondering tenderness. "You are great enough for that. And yet I thought it possible to entertain a doubt of you!"

"No more ghosts," he warned, bending down to lingeringly kiss the shadows from her eyes. "We are done with all that. You were placed in the cruelest position a woman ever faced."

"And now tell me more about—that other," she said.

And he told her about the boyhood playmate—the cousin "Adair," who looked so much like him, and who had won his boyish affection and admiration by the wildness and recklessness that laughed at all restraint. They were both familiarly called "Dare Disbro," though the other Dare was nameless—his heritage the bar sinister, and a story of pain and shame.

"That was why, when the family died out, I tried to keep in touch with the poor old boy," Disbro went on in a low voice. "It all seemed so infernally unjust, that I should have the name and inheritance and he nothing. And, through no fault of his, to start in handicapped in every way. I would lose sight of him for months at a time, then he would turn up suddenly, gay, reckless, and quick-tempered as ever."

"And you knew he was in Chicago?"

"Yes. He hunted me up and gave me that nugget I had mounted for you. You have worn it ever since?" he asked, touching it gently.

"Ever since," she answered, with a little shuddering sigh as she thought of the lonely mountain cabin and the eyes of the dying miner fixed on her throat. Then Disbro told her of the vague mining schemes that the cousin was mixed up in, and the one or two mines in which he himself had bought shares—not, however, mentioning the large share of his own inheritance that he had turned over to the cousin because "things seemed so infernally unjust."

The train sped on with its burden of hope and sorrow, and at last the journey was ended at the great city.

Editor Carlton, bringing with him a stenographer, hastened to Mrs. Scarlet's flat, and resting among her cushions with her thoughtful eyes now on the flickering flames, now on the little crimson devil that smiled knowingly down at her, she told her story.

"Admirable! Admirable!" exclaimed the editor, rubbing his hands in a highly pleased manner as scene after scene was jotted down in stenographic hieroglyphics, and his busy brain sketched out the head lines. "Admirable, my dear Mrs. Scarlet! You followed the threads with as unfaltering tenacity as if you had personal motive in tracking the one responsible for the crime. An admirable piece of work."

The flames leaped around the logs and fled up the chimney, and the little devil smiled maliciously. Mrs. Scarlet stirred restlessly among the cushions, but before she could speak Disbro entered.

With one of the Examiner staff he had gone to the rooms of his double and found him apparently waiting for them.

"I was expecting you," he had said quietly. "I felt that the race was run, and—I am not sorry. I have repaid your generosity with bad coin, sometimes, Disbro, and traded upon your name and friendship in some of my deals. I thought you pretty easy, and yet—you were the only friend I ever had. Will you——?"

He half held out his hand hesitatingly, and Disbro took it in his firm grasp with a great pity in his steady eyes.

"You started out handicapped, old man," he said in his rich, low voice. "What is it?" he added hastily, as the other swayed in his chair and his face changed. The two men laid him on the bed and he looked up at Disbro with fast glazing eyes.

"It's the finish, Seraph," he whispered. The old boyhood nickname he had given his playmate—"because you're straight, and I'm such a bad 'un, you know," he used to explain—came out naturally, and Disbro bent over him with a strange ache in his throat. "She threatened me and my temper went and—I killed her. But I think she will—forgive. She always did. And—you——?" The whisper died away, but the eyes questioned, and Disbro's grasp on the hands that were already cold tightened.

"It's all right, old man—it's all squared," he answered unsteadily.

Then the questioning eyes closed and he sighed, content. The handicap was run.

"We found a little bottle on the table. He must have taken the stuff just as we came up the stairs," said Disbro, after he had told what had happened.

"Um! Shocking, but the best thing under the circumstances," murmured the editor, practically. Then he rose and bustled over to the couch and shook hands with Mrs. Scarlet and congratulated her again on her work.

"And—hem! I am commissioned to say that there will be an increase of—er—salary, in recognition—er—don't you know—eh?" he added, as he saw her look at Disbro oddly.

"Why, the fact is, Mr. Carlton," said Disbro gravely. "Mrs. Scarlet has consented to—er—change chiefs."

He smiled and touched the bronze hair gently with his strong hand.

"What? Bless my soul!" exclaimed the editor in dismay. "Writers have no business to marry—no business to marry! No, sir!" he went on in an injured tone. "You're all right, Disbro, but, by jove, sir——"

Eloquence failed him and he shook hands with both with an air of distinct disapproval, and shaking his head ruefully as they smiled at him, Carlton took his leave.

"And now," said Disbro, drawing up the little ottoman close to her couch and seating himself, "I am going to play autocrat and all gloom is to be debarred. No more shadows in your eyes, white woman. For you are mine—mine—mine! You have come to me over hot ploughshares, my pale sweetheart, but I have you and shall hold you——"

The strong arms closed around her and drew her to him and she lay there silent. But the eyes smiled.

And in the firelight the little crimson devil beamed approval.

[THE END.]

MUSIC AND THE DRAMA.

Sousa's Band Concert.

Sousa and his band gave the first of the three concerts they are to give here within two days at the Auditorium last evening. The great hall was well filled and enthusiasm was of the greedy kind that would accept nothing less than a double encore after nearly every one of the nine numbers the program contained. As to the performances accorded these numbers, as well as the additions to them, they may be declared at once to have been typically Sousa-esque—clear cut in attack, phrasing, and accent, technically faultless, and irresistible in their swing and vim. Better band playing will not be found the world over, and but rarely will its equal be met.

Arthur Pryor, an excellent trombonist; Miss Blanche Duffield, a soprano gifted with an agreeable voice and a pleasing manner of using it, and Miss Bertha Buckin, a capable violinist, were the soloists.

A matinée and an evening concert will be given today by Mr. Sousa and his men.

New Theater for New York.

F. Ziegfeld Jr. of New York, who has been in Chicago looking after theatrical interests, stated yesterday that he had disposed of his lease in the Manhattan Theater, New York. The theater is to be razed, together with several adjacent buildings, at the corner of Thirty-third street and Broadway. A building, occupying the entire block, will be erected in their place. It is specified that a theater will be placed in the corner portion of the building, that it will be completed Sept. 1, 1902, and that it will be leased to the firm of Brady & Ziegfeld.

From New York has come the confirmation of the story that a new theater is to be erected in Chicago under syndicate auspices. A. L. Erlanger informed a representative of THE TRIBUNE yesterday that the theater was to be built, but that the details of the preparation were not yet complete. He said Managers Will J. Davis and Harry J. Powers would give out the exact plan when the proper time came. Those managers continue to assert a lack of knowledge of any theatrical project.

DANCE OF SEVENTH REGIMENT.

Military Review and Ball to Be Given in the Coliseum This Evening, Gov. Yates Attending.

The Seventh Regiment will be seen in full dress parade this evening, and then will follow the military ball in the Coliseum. Governor Yates and staff will review the regiment. Elaborate arrangements have been made for the affair. According to military ethics, the full dress parade is held at sundown, and this custom will be adhered to. At the south end of the big hall a regulation flagpole will be erected, and when the bugle sounds retreat and the evening gun is fired by an electrical device the flag will be swung as though in a breeze as it is saluted and lowered. The dancing will begin about 11 o'clock. The guests and officers of the auxiliary association will occupy seats on a platform directly opposite the entrance to the hall, with Mayor Harrison and Judge Haney in private boxes on either side.

Marquise de Fontenoy Letter.

Copyright, 1901, by the Marquise de Fontenoy.

THE CABLE dispatches announcing that Lord Pauncefote has been created a member of the Privy Council are somewhat misleading, since they convey the impression that it is only now that he has been made a member of that august body, whereas he was appointed a Privy Councillor a number of years ago. The meaning of the dispatch is that Lord Pauncefote has been confirmed by King Edward in the Privy Councillorship, which he held during the previous reign. At the time of the accession of Edward VII. all the members of Queen Victoria's Privy Council were sworn in afresh, as technically speaking, her Privy Council came to an end with her demise. Owing to Lord Pauncefote's absence from England it was impossible to administer to him the oath which would have continued him as a member of the council, and in consequence thereof King Edward has been obliged to appoint him afresh, and he will be sworn in the first time that he goes to England.

The appointment of the Hon. Sydney Greville as private secretary and treasurer to Queen Alexandra indicates that she harbors no ill feeling whatsoever to the family of which the Earl of Warwick is the chief. Sydney Greville is a younger brother of Lord Warwick, and likewise of Lady Eva Dugdale, who was in this country a few weeks ago and who is the favorite lady-in-waiting of the Duchess of Cornwall and of York. Another brother, the Hon. Alwyn, was equerry to the late Duke of Clarence.

Sydney Greville is an exceedingly discreet and tactful man, the most striking tribute to his qualities as such having been the fact that he was able to hold simultaneously the position of private secretary to the Premier, Lord Salisbury, and of equerry in attendance upon King Edward as Prince of Wales. Queen Alexandra was credited at one moment with a pronounced aversion for the Countess of Warwick—an aversion which extended to the latter's family. This sentiment would seem to have entirely disappeared, since otherwise her Majesty, who has a strong will of her own, would never have consented to the appointment of Sydney Greville to a post of such intimacy and importance as that of her private secretary and treasurer.

An important announcement made by the Secretary of State for War in the House of Commons the other day, and which seems to have escaped popular attention, is to the effect that every officer in any way responsible for a surrender during the war in south Africa is to court-martialed precisely in the same way that the commander of any man-of-war that runs aground, or is lost or injured, is deprived of his sword until he has been cleared by a court-martial of all blame in connection with the matter. Throughout the recent war there has been a popular clamor for the application of this rule of the navy to the army, and that every officer either defeated or responsible for a surrender should be held to account. The demand has now been granted, and while all defeats that have taken place have been made the subject of courts of inquiry, every case of surrender is being dealt with by court-martial.

Prince Henry of Orleans, who was referred to a few weeks ago in the Spanish Cortes as disqualified by his conduct from becoming the husband of the Princess of the Asturias, whose hand he sought in marriage, has left Europe on a trip round the world, which, commencing with China and Japan, is to comprise an extended visit to this country, which he expects to reach via San Francisco towards the latter end of the fall. He would be warmly welcomed in the United States as the eldest son of that gallant Duke of Chartres, who served on the staff of General McClelland during the civil war, were it not for the many scandals in which he has been involved, scandals sufficiently serious to blind people to his exploits as an explorer and to have led to his being disinherited by both his grandfather, the Prince of Joinville, and by his granduncle and godfather, the late Duke of Aumale, who at one time proposed to make him his heir.

He has been remarkably attentive to several American heiresses alike in Paris and in the south of France. But they have all ended by fighting shy of him in consequence of his unsavory reputation, alike in money matters and in questions relating to the fair sex, while even his courage has occasionally been called into question, owing to his attitude in connection with his duel with the Count of Turin and his failure to demand satisfaction either from his fellow-explorer, Bonvalot, who denounced him to his face as a coward, as a liar, and as dishonest, or from two or three other well known men, who had subjected him to personal violence in consequence of his behavior. With all that, he is good looking, talks most interestingly and agreeably, and is related to many of the reigning houses of Europe. He accepted the Cross of the Legion of Honor from the late President Faure, thereby recognizing the republic, and is not a "royal highness," nor is he on good terms with his equally disreputable cousin, the Duke of Orleans.

The promulgation of the decree of excommunication against Count Tolstoi, reported in the cable dispatches a few days ago, was called forth by a remarkable letter which the Count recently addressed to the Czar, in which he denounced in the most unmeasured terms the state church of Russia, repudiating a number of its dogmas, describing it as reeking with corruption, profligacy, and bigotry, and declaring that it was such as to drive each year many thousands of religious and loyal subjects of the crown to seek their spiritual welfare in other denominations denounced and persecuted as heretical by the imperial authorities.

REJECTED!

IT IS but a few years since Insurance Companies insisted on a chemical analysis of the fluids of the body of applicants desiring insurance in large amounts. Now, every applicant must undergo such examination, no matter how small the amount of insurance asked for. The Insurance Companies have learned wisdom by experience. They know for a certainty that the only sure way of detecting Bright's disease in its first stage is by a chemical analysis and they govern themselves accordingly. Many men applying for insurance and finding themselves rejected are dumfounded when told that they have kidney disease. Why? Because they look and feel well, suffer no pain, and have a good appetite. But the unerring microscope in the hands of the intelligent physician has unmistakably shown the beginning of the end, unless repaired, of the breaking down of the delicate tissues of the kidneys. Happily, if taken in time, there is a cure for kidney disease. We say this with entire confidence, because thousands have so testified, and hundreds have obtained life insurance following a course of Warner's Safe Cure, after having previously been rejected because of incipient Bright's disease. Men, do not leave your dear ones dependent through your own carelessness!

FORECAST LOSS IN CASH.

MOVEMENT OF MONEY INDICATES POOR BANK STATEMENT.

Securities of American Bicycle Company Listed on New York Stock Exchange — Application Shows Net Profits of $605,579 After Bond Interest—February Traffic of Northwestern Elevated Road—Shrinkage in Electric Vehicle Companies.

Forecasts of today's New York bank statement were divided between good and bad, but most authorities looked for an unfavorable showing. The known movements of money indicate an apparent loss in cash by the banks of approximately $2,850,000. The operations of the week point to an expansion in the loan item of some size.

The forecast sent out from New York last evening said that Subtreasury collections from the banks for internal revenue and customs were responsible for the loss in cash. The banks did not lose to the interior, but made no gain, according to the known figures. The excess of receipts by the Subtreasury up to the close of business was $2,716,000.

The changes in cash accounts caused by the Standard Oil and other large dividend disbursements yesterday will figure to some extent in the report. As the largest stockholders in the Standard Oil company will redeposit their checks in the National City Bank part of the money will be simply transferred from one account to another in the same institution.

The money market continues easy and in the large centers shows a pressure of capital from interior points. In Chicago deposits are a little lower than the high point reached by some of the banks, but in others are at the highest level known.

American Bicycle Statement.

The New York Stock Exchange has listed the following securities of the American Bicycle company: $9,243,000 5 per cent sinking fund gold debenture bonds of 1919; $9,294,900 7 per cent cumulative preferred stock and $17,701,500 common stock.

In its statement applying for listing the company said that its gross sales for the ten months ended on July 31, 1900, were $13,780,228. Net profits for the same period were $855,579. Allowing for $250,000 bond interest leaves a balance of $605,579. At that rate the earnings for a full year would be a little more than the preferred dividend requirements. No dividend has been paid yet.

The authorized capital is $35,000,000 7 per cent preferred stock and $45,000,000 of common stock. The quick capital account as of Nov. 1, 1900, was stated as follows:

QUICK ASSETS.
Cash	$733,110
Accounts and notes receivable	4,765,384
Merchandise and material	5,865,748
Investments	1,909,700
Total	$13,273,944
CURRENT LIABILITIES.
Accounts payable	$125,579
Notes payable	1,211,529
Factory bonds and mortgages	82,000
Total	$1,419,108
Net quick assets	$11,854,836

The company holds in its treasury the following amounts of its issued capital: $705,100 preferred stock, $2,298,500 common stock, and $757,000 5 per cent debenture bonds.

The application for listing says that the company manufactures fully 65 per cent of the bicycles made in the United States, the annual output varying with the demand of the trade, but the capacity being 1,000,000 complete machines a year, and 12,000 automobiles in addition.

The company said in its statement to the committee that a number of plants which were in the combination at the time of formation had been sold, including the George L. Thompson Manufacturing company of Chicago and the Hart & Cooley Manufacturing company of South Chicago. From the sale of the various plants the company received $3,037,053 cash, $3,000,000 in the capital stock of the Automobile and Cycle Parts company, $146,000 of the capital stock of the American Wood Rim company, and $15,000 in a first mortgage on real estate in Grand Rapids, Mich., a total of $6,198,053. In addition it received from sales of machinery, etc., $260,417.

Northwestern Elevated Traffic.

Traffic of the Northwestern Elevated road during February, as given out officially by the management yesterday, showed a daily average of 55,256 persons. The total number of persons carried during the month was 1,547,218. The record from Jan. 1 is as follows:

January	52,021
February	55,256
Increase in February	3,235

Loss in Electric Vehicles.

The general unprofitableness of the electric vehicle industry is shown in the experience in other cities than Chicago. The gross business for 1900 of the Philadelphia company amounted to less than $50,000, while expenses reached $64,000. The deficit was larger than for the first year. The New York company showed an operating profit of $11,279 for the first year. In Boston the New England company earned in the year to Oct. 1, 1900, about $100,000, while expenses were $200,000. The loss of the Chicago company from Sept. 13, 1899, to Feb. 1, 1901, was $128,778. The shrinkage in market value of the stocks of the different companies is shown as follows:

	Present price.	High-est.	Shares outst'd'g.	Shrink in mkt. value.

Financial Topics.

Metropolitan Elevated issues were strengthened a little on the Chicago Exchange yesterday by reports that the consolidation was being arranged as an immediate transaction, but this was denied in authoritative sources. The other elevated issues were dull and inclined to show a little weakness from the top prices. Biscuit common, the most active stock on the list, moved in a narrow range, but closed at 40⅞, the high point.

The $100,000 Blackhawk County (Ia.) 4 per cent bonds, comprising $80,000 six and a quarter-year average and $10,000 ten-year bonds, were awarded to the First National Bank, Chicago, at 103.8888.

It is reported that H. H. Porter will take a more active part in the management of the Brooklyn Rapid Transit company and that E. H. Harriman and A. N. Brady will be associated with him.

The removal of the Union Bag and Paper company's general offices from here to New York will occur about May 1. Quarters have been engaged in the Washington Building, 1 Broadway.

The International Power company has declared a dividend on its preferred stock of 6 per cent for the year ended Dec. 31, 1900, and also a dividend of 1½ per cent for the quarter ended March 31, 1901, both payable on May 15.

The P. Lorillard company has declared a quarterly dividend of 2 per cent on its preferred stock, payable on April 1.

The Panama railroad company has declared a special dividend of 2 per cent, payable on March 25.

It is currently reported in New York that a syndicate of prominent New York bankers has lent $10,000,000 at 5 per cent to the Seaboard Air Line, taking as security a Seaboard ten-year 4 per cent bond at 55.

MORE ACTIVITY IN THE MARKET.

Total Sales at New York Exceed 1,250,000 Shares, with Irregular Upward Price Movement.

[BY E. W. HARDEN.]

NEW YORK, March 15.—[Special.]—There was more than the usual activity in today's stock market. Total sales exceeded 1,250,000 shares, which is in excess of that shown on any day for more than a month, and the list of stocks traded in was the most extensive for some time. As a rule prices moved upward, but this was not without irregularity, the result of extensive profit taking. The steel stocks today were again devoid of interest, but there was considerable activity shown in some of the other industrials.

Sugar and the tobacco stocks were actively traded in, although in the case of sugar sales were mainly at a decline from yesterday's prices. The Tobacco stocks were in good demand at advancing figures. American Tobacco gained 2⅝ points, the early trading showing a gain of more than 3 points. Continental Tobacco common sold up 1 point and the preferred 2 points, and these figures represented declines of ½ point in each instance from the day's high figures.

As has been the case during the trading of the last few weeks, the railroad issues were in the greatest demand, and as a rule the greatest net gain was shown in this class of securities. Burlington was the leader in point of activity and it was again the fashion in Wall street to tell of pending negotiations which will result in Burlington being acquired by another company. Union Pacific, Pennsylvania, and Northern Pacific, and Great Northern working jointly were each credited with designs on Burlington, the street giving the preference to the Union Pacific story. Burlington sold up today to 155½, the record price on the present movement, closing at 154⅝, a net gain of 2⅛ points. The trading was in excess of 85,000 shares.

Illinois Central was active and strong, the gain amounting to 3⅜ points and transactions being in excess of 17,000 shares. There was unusual activity in the securities of Chicago Terminal today, the common selling up 1½ points and the preferred 1¼ points, on transactions reaching 30,000 shares.

A combination between Wabash and Wheeling and Lake Erie is in prospect, and Wheeling and Lake Erie is to build into Pittsburg, which will give the Wabash a portion of the enormous coal and iron tonnage originating in Pittsburg and destined for the West, which now goes almost exclusively to the Pennsylvania and the Baltimore and Ohio. It is said Mr. Carnegie is interested in the deal and that he is to furnish the money to be used for the building of the connection between the present lines of Wheeling and Lake Erie and Pittsburg.

Wabash securities were again active today and Wheeling and Lake Erie was also traded in in fair volume. While Wabash stocks were not marked up in today's trading, the debenture B's were not only active but strong. Quotations advanced from 61⅝ to 64, closing at 62⅝. It is given on good authority there is a plan under consideration to retire the debenture A's and to fund the B's into a 4 per cent second mortgage bond.

HEAVY DEALINGS IN BONDS.

Transactions in Wall Street Exceed $8,000,000 Par Value—Investment Buying Is Large.

[BY A SPECIAL CORRESPONDENT.]

NEW YORK, March 15.—[Special.]—The prominent feature of today's security markets was the magnitude of the investment buying. Dealings in bonds were the largest on any day since the Presidential election, being in excess of $8,000,000 par value. While a large proportion of the transactions were in issues that are generally regarded as of a speculative character—notably in Wabash debenture Bs and Mexican Central first and second incomes—there was also a large and well distributed business in the investment issues. The greatest activity in these was in Erie general lien 4s, Fort Worth and Denver City firsts, Central of Georgia consol 5s, Chicago Terminal Transfer first 4s, Mexican Central consol 4s, Union Pacific convertible 4s, Minneapolis and St. Louis first refunding 4s, Wheeling and Lake Erie consol 4s, and Wisconsin Central first 4s. Some of these sold at the highest prices yet recorded for them.

The demand for Wabash debentures is unquestionably for the purpose of controlling the property, but other issues reflected investment buying pure and simple. The market for Chicago Terminal was influenced by the certainty that the earnings of the property will be largely increased by the alliances which can be made over to the company by the interests which have recently secured control of it.

The transactions in stocks were in excess of 1,200,000 shares. The increase in the trading was due in part to larger dealings in the industrial group, notably in sugar refining and American Tobacco. The last named was exceptionally strong at a net advance of 2⅝ per cent. The movement in this stock, as well as in Continental Tobacco shares, is based on prospects that the two companies will acquire control of the Havana Commercial company. Sugar Refining, after advancing early in the day, declined 2 points and closed fractionally lower than yesterday.

Interest in the railway list was most pronounced in Chicago, Burlington and Quincy, which advanced to 155½, the highest price recorded for it in recent years, and at a fractional reaction from the best figure it closed 3¼ points higher than last night.

Regarding this movement, it can only be repeated that the market for the stock reflects a steady accumulation of the floating supply by capitalists identified with the management of the company and by others who are seeking to become influential in directing the policy of the corporation.

There was a revival of activity in Northern Pacific common and in Union Pacific common, but without effect upon the prices of either stock. The most pronounced movements were in a number of the usually less active issues, notably Illinois Central, the Chicago Terminal common and preferred, particularly the last named; Chicago, Indianapolis and Louisville common; Chicago and Alton common, Canada Southern, Mexican Central, St. Joe and Grand Island second preferred, and Wheeling and Lake Erie issues.

Prospects of an announcement relative to a new issue of Great Northern preferred stock stimulated trading in that security.

The street is beginning to discover the possibilities of stocks which have heretofore not received much attention. This explains the activity in Mexican Central and Chicago Terminal issues. The possibility of closer connections between the Mexican Central and some one of the Southwestern trunk lines, together with the excellent traffic returns, has directed attention to Mexican Central securities.

IN THE NEW YORK MONEY MARKET.

General Tendency of Cash and Securities in Wall Street.

NEW YORK, March 15.—There was increased activity in the stock market today, and a disposition was manifested to come back to operations in the usually prominent stocks. It was evident powerful professional operators were making a systematic progress through the list, taking profits on a heavy scale on stocks which have recently shown considerable advances, while bidding up prices at new points. Burlington was lifted 3¼ points over last night at one time, in spite of the dragging tendency of other members of the granger group, which were under pressure all day, especially St. Paul and the Chicago Great Western stocks. Among new points of strength developed today Illinois Central was conspicuous, reaching 3⅝. Chicago and Eastern Illinois rose 4 on smaller transactions. There were gains of 2 to 2⅝ by Duluth, South Shore and Atlantic common and preferred, Canada Southern, Chicago, Indianapolis and Louisville, Ann Arbor preferred, St. Joe and Grand Island second preferred, Minneapolis and St. Louis preferred, New York, Chicago and St. Louis second preferred, and Hocking Coal.

The market closed with the price movement much confused, some few stocks selling at the top, but the majority of the list under the pressure of profit taking.

Today's heavy dividend disbursements are expected to show their effect in next week's money market. The time for deposit of the steel stocks under the terms of the merger expires next Wednesday, and when the plan becomes operative the organization syndicates will have to supply $25,000,000 in cash.

Business in railroad bonds continued large, the issues of Southwestern railroads continuing the favorites. Total sales on value, $8,685,000.

Money on call steady at 2@2½ per cent. Prime mercantile paper, 3¼@4½ per cent. Sterling exchange firm, with actual business in bankers' bills at $4.87½ for demand, and at $4.84¼@4.84⅜ for 60 days. Posted rates, $4.85@4.85½ and $4.88½. Commercial bills, $4.83½@4.00. Silver certificates, 61½@63. Bar silver, 60⅞. Mexican dollars, 49.

SHARP BULGE IN WHEAT.

EXPORT DEMAND AND LIVERPOOL ADVANCE BULL FACTORS.

Possibility of Import Duty on Grain Brought Into England Supposed to Have Sharpened Anxiety for Cash Wheat—Commission Buying Better—Shorts Cover Freely and Bulls Wax Enthusiastic—Corn and Provisions Strong.

All produce markets were strong and higher, with wheat leading the way, May selling from 75⅝c to 76⅝c, and closing at the top figure, a net gain of 1⅛-¼c for the day. The bullish influences of the week, light receipts and heavy clearances, were as prominent as ever and reënforced by several factors, which proved even more potent, a sharp advance at Liverpool, following a fractional decline here, Argentine shipments less than half those of last year, and good shipping sales at improved prices, the bulk of them for direct export, shippers reporting Liverpool on a working basis. The Liverpool situation was the prime factor early. Opening ⅛d lower, that market closed ½-⅝d higher, the advance being attributed, by private and public correspondents, to talk of a war import tax on wheat of 3c per bu, to go into effect July 1, the Chinese complications, the fear of a shortage of contract wheat for May delivery, 38 per cent of the tenders on March contracts having been rejected, and to better outside buying. The export business was early in evidence, with sales of 240,000 bu reported and 250,000 bu more rumored. The buying by shippers in the pit was heavy enough to justify the outside figure, and with better local buying and improved commission demand the price walked up to 76¼c before suffering a setback of more than ⅛c. On the bulge there was scattered selling for country longs and by Barrett-Smith and other professionals, who could see no reason in the possible imposition of import duties on wheat in England for an advance here. The Northwest, while reporting the best demand for flour and wheat in weeks, was a considerable seller of July in this market. All these offerings, however, were well taken, the most money being invested on the theory that England would be a heavy buyer of wheat up to July 1, and that prices must advance and ought to start up quickly. Local and St. Louis shorts covered freely. On late buying of July by Seaverns the discount under May, which had been ⅞c, narrowed to ½c, closing about ⅝c under. Northwest cars were 346, to 482 last year, and primary receipts were 528,385 bu, compared with 613,647 bu a year ago. Clearances were 596,862 bu, making 3,115,887 bu in five days. Export sales at the seaboard were 240,000 bu. Later reports from Liverpool declared the import duty would not be more than ⅝c and might not be imposed, but the shipping demand was evident and bull enthusiasm was stirred up, the commission buying being the best and the speculative trade the most active in weeks. London was steady to ⅜d higher, and Paris up ¼-½c.

May Wheat Range.

Corn Strong on Cash Sales.

There was a big trade in corn, but a narrow market, ⅛-¼c range, with 41½c for May the top until the last half hour, when the final bulge in wheat added ⅛c more to the price. May closed at 41½-⅝c, gaining ¼-⅜c, July closing at 41⅝c, a gain of ⅜-½c. July kept at a premium of 1-16c most of the session and the trade expects that delivery to begin paying a carrying charge. There was heavy selling by St. Louis through Chandler, Bennett, Avery, and others, with big buying by Harris. Cash demand was strong at better prices, sales of 530,000 bu for shipment giving the coarse grain an independent strength of its own. Seaboard sales were 320,000 bu and exports 239,529 bu for the day and 3,247,000 bu for the week. There were 262 cars in, with 34 contract, and 330 are estimated for today. Primary receipts were small, 441,865 bu, compared with 634,372 bu last year. Liverpool futures were ¼d higher and spot steady to ¼d higher.

Provisions were strong on light receipts of hogs and higher prices paid for them. Locals who sold the market down the day before bought it up yesterday. There was a renewed outside demand and Wright helped bull the market. The Anglo-American bought ribs and Cudahy sold them. Offerings were small. May pork sold up to $15.60, the highest price for the delivery, and closed there, a gain of 27½c. July pork gained 25c, lard 10@12½c, and ribs 7½@10c. There were 18,000 hogs in, 6,000 under the estimate, and $5.82½ paid for the best. The West had 49,700, compared with 58,100 last year. The cash trade was good and shipments of lard heavy.

There was an active market in oats, with closing prices showing an improvement of ⅛@¼c over the latest quotations of the day before. The May range was from 24¾-5c to 25¼c. Phillips was credited with adding to his long line, taking about 250,000 bu. Buckley was about the best seller. Cash business continued good, local sales being reported at 50,000 bu. The seaboard cleared 16,000 bu, making 406,600 bu for the five days of the week. Inspection was 178 cars, of which 12 were contract. Withdrawals from local store were 82,600 bu.

Rye was again dull and featureless, nothing being done in cash or futures. The only May price was 51c bid, with sellers at 51¼c.

Barley continued firm under light receipts, only 12 cars coming in. Buyers showed more interest in the market. Prices were about as follows: Poor, 48@50c; good, 52@55c; medium, 48@52c; choice, 56@58c.

Timothy seed was not mentioned. A nominal market on March was $4.35. Clover was nominally easier than recently quoted, contract at $10.65.

Flaxseed was dull and spiritless, the only sales being confined to May, which sold at $1.51 and $1.51½, closing with $1.51 bid. Both No. 1 Northwestern and Northwestern were quotably $1.52. There were 28 cars here, 1 at Duluth, and 16 at Minneapolis.

Trade Gossip on 'Change.

Estimated receipts for today are 87 cars wheat, 330 cars corn, 190 cars oats, and 15,000 hogs.

Directors Chadwick, Buckley, and Slaughter met yesterday in an attempt to bring order out of the chaos surrounding the relations between the receivers' agents, official samplers, and the grain trade generally, but accomplished nothing. Mr. Slaughter said: "We are simply trying to find out where we stand and get a starting point which may lead up to a more satisfactory conduct of this inspection branch of the trade than now exists. Our position is made somewhat more difficult by the unstable position assumed by some of the receiving houses. Where they originally wanted the receivers' agents made official samplers they now talk against it—and vice versa. Until these opinions crystallize we can't do much."

It was reported in the corn crowd that the arrivals of contract corn coming in on different lines and alleged to be country corn are really all from Omaha. Rumor has it that one party is long 500,000 bu March corn and insists on delivery, compelling the shorts to draw on the only point where there is any considerable supply.

"I do not understand the cause of the Liverpool advance," said Thorburn, "but if it is based on a probable import duty on wheat I do not think it is a good reason for us to bull prices here. We may secure a temporary advance, but will have to pay for it later."

Memberships are easier and dull at $2,100 net to the buyer.

The cash demand for wheat was the bull card, bids being on a better basis and half a dozen concerns sharing in the business.

The Sioux City Packing company of Sioux City, Ia., incorporated some time ago, has organized by the election of the following officers, all prominent members of the board: A. S. White, President; T. E. Wells, Vice President; Alexander Geddes, secretary and treasurer.

Shipments of wheat from Argentina were 1,248,000 bu, against 2,528,000 bu for the corresponding week in 1900. Shipments since Jan. 1 were 9,268,000 bu, against 17,432,000 bu for same time in 1900. Shipments of corn were 200,000 bu, against 56,000 bu in 1900, and since Jan. 1 were 1,512,000 bu, compared with 4,352,000 bu in 1900. The Argentine wheat visible is 4,784,000 bu, against 6,680,000 bu last year, and the Argentine corn visible is 520,000 bu, against 84,000 bu a year ago.

The Modern Miller says: "The crop situation is much the same as for several weeks past—that is, uncertain. Scattered reports of damage by freezing and thawing weather are coming to hand, and there is more or less talk of injury by Hessian fly. Most of this information is based more on conjecture than on facts, as the plant practically is still in winter quarters."

Bradstreet's reports exports as follows:

	Wheat and flour, bu.	Corn, bu.
This week	4,694,000	3,247,000
Last week	4,230,000	3,956,000
Last year	2,727,000	3,729,000
Since July 1	143,472,000	139,359,000
Same time last year	141,315,000	149,531,000

PRODUCE SITUATION IS EASY.

Not Much Doing and Prices Little if Any Changed.

Produce was again dull with not much doing on the street. The demand was principally for the staples. Butter holders are finding it more difficult to realize as much on sales as they were getting a few days ago. The demand from outside points shows an appreciable falling off. Eggs are a shade steadier, with holders less disposed to make concessions. Nearly fifty refrigerators of

TRADE OUTLOOK IS BRIGHT

DUN'S REVIEW SEES PROMISE OF GOOD BUSINESS.

In Every Industry Except Textiles a Satisfactory Advance Is Shown—Steel Mills Behind in Orders and Prices Rising—Threatening Labor Troubles Believed Averted—Boot and Shoe Makers Have Work in Sight to Keep Them Busy Months.

New York, March 15.—R. G. Dun & Co.'s Weekly Review of Trade tomorrow will say:

"Improving wheat crop reports, a pig iron production seldom exceeded, strong cash prices for all iron and steel products that can be delivered, heavy grain exports at good prices, activity in minor industries, and a money market that imposes no hardship upon business comprise the bright side of the picture of the week. Threatening labor troubles seem more remote. The textile markets, long backward, again have failed to respond to the general confidence in commercial circles. A slight recovery in cotton was not held, and the goods market shows a decline in a month from 5¾ to 5¼ cents in standard brown sheetings, 22 to 21 cents in wide sheetings, 5¾ to 5½ cents in brown drills, and 5¾ to 5¼ cents in staple ginghams.

"Steel mills are still much behind their orders and contracts for Bessemer pig for July delivery indicate that the activity is not considered temporary. Yet the wide difference in quotation between immediate and distant dates suggests some fear that present high prices cannot be maintained.

Premiums Over List Prices.

"While the various pools and associations are extremely conservative about advancing nominal list prices, actual business continues to be transacted at premiums which vary according to the urgency of purchasers. Structural material is still a feature, and the rapid development of newly discovered oil fields is creating an unusual demand for plates, pipes, and drilling machinery. Steel rail contracts have been increased and railways need rolling stock.

"Boot and shoe shops are well occupied, Eastern factories having their full capacity engaged in some cases up to Sept. 1, and even the less fortunate makers have contracts for some months.

Wool Market Is Dull.

"Aside from a little better reorder business in light weights, reports are not of an encouraging nature from the woolen mills. Further declines are reported in wool, making a material fall since the month opened. At the last concession Boston holders exhibited an inclination to refuse bids and there is more indication of steadiness than previously this season.

"After the long continued season of sagging prices for cotton, the market seemed ready for a reaction, and Mr. Neill's circular was issued at what seemed to be a propitious moment. But it fell flat in this country, and the trifling response at Liverpool was brief. Predictions of a visible supply of only 250,000 bales at the end of the crop year, and requirements exceeding 10,000,000 bales are not indorsed by the course of domestic spinners, who have materially reduced their takings, or by the heavily decreased foreign demand.

"Prospects for a good winter wheat yield are considered bright. Official reports of supplies on the farms on March 1 showed the expected loss compared with last year, but a good gain over recent years prior to 1899.

"Failures for the week were 209 in the United States, against 190 last year, and 33 in Canada against 23 last year."

As Viewed by Bradstreet's.

Bradstreet's tomorrow will say:

"The general situation is without important change, the events of the week appearing to accentuate heretofore prevailing conditions. Distributive trade and speculation in securities continue large in volume, with prices rising in the more favored industries or drooping in those suffering from depression. As types of these movements, the iron and cotton goods industries are preëminent, and these two seem like opposite poles, so marked is the difference in trade feeling and conditions. In most other industries the reports are quite favorable, notable in this direction being the lumber, leather, and hardware and implements trades.

"Railway returns continue highly favorable, confirming reports heretofore published of activity in general shipping and reports of a shortage of cars, a strange one at this time of year, come from Chicago and other large centers.

"Conditions in the domestic iron and steel demand recall the boom of 1899, and it becomes more and more evident that an enormous consumptive demand, discouraged by the high prices of a year ago, is now coming freely into the market.

Bullish Reports on Wheat.

"The government report of wheat in farmers' hands, pointing to 30,000,000 bushels less held than a year ago, was regarded as a bullish feature, and, coupled with light Northwestern receipts, caused a rise which was, however, taken advantage of to realize, and the net change for the week is slight. Corn was bullishly inclined early, in sympathy with wheat, but weakened and lost most of the advance.

"Wheat, including flour, shipments for the week aggregate 4,693,939 bushels, against 4,220,528 bushels last week, 2,727,450 bushels in the corresponding week of 1900, 4,114,046 bushels in 1899, and 3,679,056 bushels in 1898. From July 1 to date this season wheat exports were 143,371,456 bushels, against 141,316,806 bushels last season, and 177,228,741 bushels in 1898-'99. Corn exports for the week aggregate 3,246,575 bushels, against 3,956,137 bushels last week, 3,729,291 bushels in this week a year ago, 4,211,326 bushels in 1899, and 3,941,374 bushels in 1898.

"Business failures in the United States for the week number 217, as against 208 last week, 190 in this week a year ago, 205 in 1899, 233 in 1898, and 231 in 1897. Canadian failures for the week number 28, against 33 last week, 28 in this week a year ago, and 21 in 1899."

In the World of Finance.

Bradstreet's Financial Review tomorrow will say:

"Prices this week have been strong and on the whole advanced, while the activity was considerable. The chief qualification that can be observed in the speculative situation is that the public is not in the market.

"Commission house business, however, has been slow and the chief feature, so far as the outside participation is concerned, is the steady investment buying of bonds and dividend paying stocks.

"The continued ease of money has been a factor in this connection, there being but slight appearances of any hardening of rates over April 1, and the fact that on Friday some $25,000,000 was disbursed in the dividends on various stocks created no previous disturbance of loans."

Cattle—Receipts of cattle were remarkably small, and even less than the usual light run on Friday. No good or choice cattle were included in the small supply, and few attractive enough to induce bids from buyers, except those who purchase common and medium kinds. The market was quiet and steady for all the offerings. The best steers sold at $5.15, with prime quotable up to $6.00. The bulk of the offerings sold at $4.20@4.75. Most of the fair to good beef cows sold close to 10c higher than one week ago, sales of fair to good cows ranging at $3.15@3.45, and the smooth to choice fat cows at $3.50@3.85. Cows and heifers that go at $3.90 upward are of the dressed beef or export variety. Something fancy in that line will land around $4.50. Thin light bulls and canners sell down around $2.50, the bologna stock and fair feeders at $2.75@3.10, choice feeders around $3.20, good butcher bulls around $3.50, and the fair to choice export bulls at $3.75@4.25, only something fancy up around $4.40.

Calves sold at $4.00@6.25, and feeding steers, $3.00@4.60.

Hogs—Values were a little higher again, demand was good from all sources early in the day, and most of the offerings went at prices strong to 5c higher than the average of Thursday. Fancy heavy hogs sold at $5.82½, and many loads went at $5.75@5.80. Droves of hogs cost the packers from 1c to 4c more than on Thursday. Salesmen who had hogs on the late market reported a weaker feeling, and claimed hogs sold a little off from the strong morning prices, but the bulk of the trading was done on the basis of the following quotations:

Bulk of sales	$5.70 @5.77½
Selected butchers', 220@270 lbs	5.67½@5.77½

Sheep—Receipts were small and a fairly good demand prevailed. Prices were strong to 10c higher for both sheep and lambs. Sheep sold at $3.85@4.75, including 1,600 contracted for export at the latter price. Lambs ranged from $4.50 to $5.45; bulk at $5.10@5.40.

IN THE FOREIGN MONEY MARKET.

General Tendency of Cash and Securities at London, Paris, and Berlin.

NEW YORK, March 15.—The Commercial Advertiser's London financial cablegram says:

The activity which was resumed in the stock market here yesterday was continued today, but the tone was irregular. Home rails remained extremely dismal. American stocks were strong from start to finish, and a substantial business was done in them. New York over night had sent here orders to buy 40,000 shares of Eries not for arbitrage profits but for direct purchases. The New-Yorkers got their stock cheap, but with results seen in the afternoon here, when the whole American list was buoyant.

London expects that J. P. Morgan will have completed the coal road deal and settled the strike before sailing. It still is expected that a dividend will be declared on the preferred issues of Erie. Other features of the day's movement were Northern Pacifics and Southern Pacifics. Tintos were down half a point on forced sales from Paris. Gold is being exported, £20,000 to Malta, £15,000 to South America. Money was firmer. Call rates, 3¼ per cent; discounts, 3 9-16 per cent. Silver was weak on American sales.

Close—Consols for money, 96¼; consols for the account, 96 11-16. Atchison, 59⅝; Canadian Pacific, 93¼; St. Paul, 155⅝; Illinois Central, 135¼; Louisville, 97⅛; Union Pacific preferred, 87⅛; New York Central, 148; Erie, 30⅛; Pennsylvania, 78; Reading, 17⅜; Erie first preferred, 69⅛; Northern Pacific preferred, 90⅛; Grand Trunk, 7⅛; Anaconda, 9⅛; Rand Mines, 42⅛. Bar silver steady, 28 1-16d per oz. Money, 3¼@4 per cent. The rate of discount in the open market for short bills is 3⅛ per cent; do three months' bills, 3 7-16@3¼ per cent.

PARIS, March 15.—During the earlier part of the day business was dull, but later internationals took a more favorable turn. Spanish 4s were somewhat harder on a slight improvement in exchange. Spanish railroads were firm. Rio Tintos were agitated at the opening, became fairly steady, and relapsed sharply on the weakness in copper. Kaffirs were maintained.

BERLIN, March 15.—On the boerse today internationals and home funds were quiet. Americans and Canadian Pacifics were firm. Locals were in great demand on the likelihood that the canal bill will be accepted.

MICHIGAN SURE TO WIN TONIGHT.

Only a Question of the Number of Points in the Track Meet.

The second indoor track meet between Chicago and Michigan will take place at the University of Michigan tonight. In the former meet, at Chicago, Michigan was victorious by a score of 42 to 30, and it looks as if the score would be even larger in the coming event. As before, there will be nine events and ten men in each team.

Four changes have been made in the Michigan team. Dvorak, Armstrong, Hall, and Sweeley are retired and their places filled by Udell, White, Kellogg, and Hahn. While Udell is not the equal of Dvorak as a pole vaulter, he will have no competition worth mentioning in the Chicago team, and ought to share all the points with his team mate, Fishleigh. White is a high jumper only slightly inferior to Armstrong. In the recent annual indoor meet he cleared the bar at 5 feet 11 inches. Hahn is a freshman who has just entered the university. He is a sprinter of merit, having won out in the forty-yard dash against a field of thirty-nine contestants recently. Kellogg is depended on for the mile run, and will undoubtedly get a place, as he has a record of 4:47 2-5 for the distance.

In the Chicago team two substitutions have been made. Henry and Hulbert are entered in the half and mile runs, taking the places of Grabo and Catron. Although Hulbert failed to win at Notre Dame last week, he has been in constant training since, and will try to show something like his old form.

On the whole, it appears that Michigan's chances are better than before, and the maize and blue can count more certain points in advance than the maroons. The latter can hardly expect to gain a single score in the field events, and must depend entirely upon the runs. If W. Moloney is as fit as he was at Notre Dame he should win both the half and quarter mile, though Stagg may not deem it advisable to enter him in both events. F. Moloney and Manning may win all the points in the hurdles, as they did before, but there is much uncertainty in short distance runs. In the mile Henry and Hulbert are pretty sure to draw a place. The relay race ought to go to Chicago. Beyond these events the chance of scoring by Stagg's men is rather slender.

Michigan is fairly certain of sweeping the boards in the forty-yard dash, the pole vault, high jump, and shot put, which will give the Wolverines a straight lead of 32 points. Additional points in the quarter, half, mile, and relay will run up the total to nearly 50, if previous records may be relied upon.

Coach Stagg and his men left yesterday afternoon at 3:18 over the Michigan Central. They will return tonight after the meet is over. All of the athletes are in good condition, and hopeful of making a good showing against their opponents. Ferd Horton has almost recovered, and will be in shape to run today.

Hyde Park Wins at Basketball.

For the sixth time this winter Hyde Park defeated Englewood at basketball yesterday afternoon. This time it was the girls who inflicted the defeat by a score of 6—2. The feature of the game was the throwing of two difficult field baskets from the center of the field by Miss Beck of Hyde Park. Miss Sullivan played a fast game at guard. Miss Smith played the best game for Englewood. Because of the failure of the Y. M. C. A. officials to appear the game will not count as a league game. The lineup:

Hyde Park.		Englewood.
L. Beck	R. F.	A. Kelly	R. F.
P. Altman	L. F.	P. Smith	L. F.
F. Paulsen	C.	J. Gardner	C.

M. Sullivan	L. G.	H. Ramsay	L. G.

Referee—Indermille. Umpire—Bard. Baskets from field—Beck [2], Smith. Baskets from foul—Beck, 2.

Girls Play Overtime Game.

One basket, thrown from the field, decided a game of basketball between the North Division and Austin High School girls' teams at the Columbia Roller Rink yesterday. The score was 3 to 1 in Austin's favor. Each team had made one goal from a foul when the time was called at the end of the second half, and play was continued till Miss Bartelme, after five minutes of overtime, succeeded in throwing a goal from the field. The lineup:

Englewood-South Division Meet Today

This afternoon Englewood and South Division will hold a dual meet in the university gymnasium.

RILEY THREE-CUSHION CHAMPION.

Defeats Harris and Makes a Phenomenal Run of Twelve.

Riley is the champion three-cushion billiard player of Chicago. He gained that title last night after defeating Harris in the play-off game for first money in Mussey's tournament. Both men strung for the lead last night with six games won and two lost. First money, $75, and the championship hinged on the result, and Riley captured both by scoring the required fifty points while Harris was gathering forty-one.

Besides this, Riley made a run of twelve, the second highest on record in a tournament or match game. Unfortunately for Riley his run came just one night too late, as the prize of $5, set aside for the highest run, goes to Harris, who cracked out nine consecutive caroms in the opening game of the tourney. Riley, however, captured the $5 prize for the best average by scoring fifty points in sixty-seven innings in his game with Wadsworth on Thursday night.

They started off at the usual rate of speed, and at the end of the eleventh inning the game stood 11 to 10 in favor of Harris. The latter added two in the next nine innings, which gave him a lead of three. A natural confronted Riley when he went to the table, which he made. Then came a series of all sorts of shots, natural and unnatural angles, bank shots, reverse English draws. When he passed Harris' run of nine the crowd, which uncomfortably filled the amphitheater, cheered him to the echo. His next two caroms were beauties. He missed his thirteenth and sat down amid deafening cheers. The run gave him a lead of nine, and, although Harris got within five of him, he could not overcome the lead and was forced to take second money, $60.

The prizes were divided as follows: Riley, first money, $75, and for best average $5 extra; Harris, second money, $60, and for high run $5 extra; Lazarus and Avery divided third and fourth moneys, $32.50 each. The gold watch additional prize will have to be won eight times before it becomes personal property.

Handicaps for the second annual fourteen-inch balk-line tournament given under the sanction of the A. A. U., which will begin at Mussey's next Monday night, were announced yesterday and are as follows:

C. F. Conklin, scratch	300	Harley Parker	230
W. W. Kellogg	275	George E. Kurtze	200
E. C. Rein	240	R. A. Miehle	200
J. D. Adams	240	H. A. Coleman	200

Prizes amounting in value to $250 will be the incentive.

YACHT ILLINOIS IS COMPLETED.

Chicago Yacht Club Boat Will Be Shipped West in a Few Days.

Boston, Mass., March 15.—[Special.]—The Canada cup defender Illinois has been completed and will be shipped West on a flat car during the latter part of this month.

The yacht is now at Lawley's yards and is said to be a handsome piece of work both in design and finish. Its underbody is painted green, and its topsides are all in mahogany, splendidly polished. It is estimated that the Illinois is two minutes faster than the Genesee over the Canadian Cup course, and its owners have little fear that the Chicago Yacht club will retain the trophy next summer.

George M. Pynchon, head of the syndicate that is building Illinois, has gone to California for a three weeks' trip. He will return in time to superintend the packing and loading of the new yacht preparatory to its trip West.

For International Tennis Match.

New York, March 15.—[Special.]—The Executive committee of the United States Tennis association met tonight. The meeting was held behind closed doors, but it was announced later that the acceptance of the challenge of the English Lawn Tennis association was a foregone conclusion. The team that will represent America at the tournament was not decided upon, but from a reliable source it was learned that the four men would be picked from the following five players: Malcolm Whitman, Dr. Davis, H. Ward, Beales C. Wright, and W. A. Larned.

Crosby Wins Championship.

New York, March 15.—[Special.]—The sportsmen's show trap shooting competition for the continuous championship was finished at Interstate Park today with W. R. Crosby the winner, his new world's record of 345 straight breaks, made on Wednesday, standing at the head of the list. The only change as the result of the last day's shooting was that J. S. Fanning passed Fred Gilbert for second place.

Live-Pigeon Match.

J. Bergen and J. Barto defeated H. Odell and M. E. White in a two-man team match at twenty-five live pigeons a man yesterday at Watson's Park. The winners scored 42 kills to 35 for the vanquished.

HALSTED STREET BRIDGE FALLS

Lift River Span Put Out of Commission by Breaking of the Six Cables.

The Halsted street lift bridge, which spans the river near Twenty-second street, fell at 7:30 last evening as it was being hoisted to allow the passage of the tug Drew and its tow of a piledriver. Street cars were delayed for a time and other travel impeded. The bridge had been elevated twelve feet when one of the six cables snapped. The other five then parted and the bridge dropped to the level. Engineer Ponshe said repairs could be made within twenty-four hours.

Sampson Must Go to Prison.

A mandate from the Illinois Supreme Court directing that Michael J. Sampson, formerly an auditor in the Special Assessment department, be taken to the State penitentiary immediately was received yesterday by State's Attorney Deneen. Sampson was convicted more than a year ago of forgery, having been brought back from Ireland to face the charge. The Supreme Court refused a rehearing.

TWO DERBIES ON TODAY.

ONE AT NEW ORLEANS AND THE OTHER AT INGLESIDE.

Seven Colts Will Start in the Crescent City Event, with Wild Pirate and Varro the Favorites—Joe Frey the Choice of the Wise Men for the Race in California—Jockey Club Officials Will Ignore Action of the Rebellious Minor Tracks.

New Orleans, La., March 15.—[Special.]—The fourth renewal of the Crescent City Derby will be run tomorrow. Seven starters will line up to the barrier a furlong from the judges' stand, and the delegations which will be on hand from Memphis, Nashville, and other racing points, as well as from nearly every town in Mississippi and Louisiana, promise to make the biggest assemblage which ever witnessed the first big 3-year-old event of the year here. The field may not be as imposing as some of those which have run before, but just as much interest is taken in it here, and the winner may turn out to be as good a horse as was Meadowthorpe, who won the first, or Presbyterian, King Barleycorn, or Prince of Veronia.

Tomorrow's race is conceded to lie between Wild Pirate, a Memphis trained colt who is owned by Senator J. S. O'Brien of Stillwater, Minn., and Varro, who was trained and raced here. Varro will be the favorite with the New Orleans racegoers, but Wild Pirate will be the choice of the bookmakers, and the Memphis sports who are on their way here will keep him at the shortest price.

The probable odds in the big race will be:

8 to 5	Wild Pirate, 115	Van Dusen
5 to 2	Varro, 112	Caywood
4 to 1	Siddons, 110	Dupee
4 to 1	Picador, 115	Winkfield
6 to 1	Henry Clay Rye, 115	Cochran
15 to 1	Hanwurst, 110	O'Brien
15 to 1	Choice, 115	Walsh

Hanwurst was added at the last moment. Tony Licalzi, his owner, does not think he can win, but he is hopeful he may get in the first three.

The Derby horses all received their final workouts yesterday and were only given slow gallops today to keep them limbered up for tomorrow's race.

President Fitzgerald of the Hawthorne track arrived here today from Florida to see the Derby run and will return to Chicago on Sunday morning. He watched today's race from the stewards' stand, where he was the guest of Captain Rees. He expressed the belief that the smaller tracks should apply for a license to the Western Jockey club, and said all of them would be allotted dates.

Five favorites, a second choice, and an outsider in the betting won today's races. Radiant Heat, who took down the purse in the six and a half furlongs for maidens, was the only long-priced winner.

Sim W. came out for the first time since the Harlem fall meeting in the seven furlongs event, and at the favorite's price he won practically all the way.

Cherries won the six furlongs, but did not get the purse. The race was for horses which had not won since Nov. 29, and it was discovered when some one protested the purse that Cherries had won on Dec. 7 at Bennings. Cherries was claimed for $600 a week ago by Mose Goldblatt. He sold her to J. B. Harrison. Hayman & Frank got her back today by bidding her up to $1,000, which was $500 over her entered price. Such a complication has probably never arisen before. Cherries was ineligible for the race, but the stewards allowed the sale to stand, and Dorothy Lee, who is owned by Baker, and who ran second, was awarded first money and half of the run-up money. She was also put up at auction and sold to her owner at the entered price. Captain Rees decided the question according to rule 152, which covers the case.

GOOD CALIFORNIA DERBY FIELD.

Undecided Whether the Race Will Be Run at Ingleside or Tanforan.

San Francisco, Cal., March 15.—[Special.]—Turf circles here were thrown into a ferment when Mayor Phelan closed up his office tonight and went home without signing the ordinance opening the Ingleside race track. While the San Francisco Jockey club has never officially announced that the track would open tomorrow for the running of the California Derby, the big event was practically slated for that track and a force of 200 men were kept in readiness at Tanforan today to move the racing paraphernalia to Ingleside after the day's racing. Suddenly the whole preparations came to an end, and the track officials scurried to town to find out what was the matter. The Mayor had practically fathered the opening ordinance when presented to the Supervisors for passage, and his failure to sign it is inexplicable to the men who were supposed to know all about the racing problem. Unless vetoed or signed by midnight the ordinance becomes operative at that hour. Meanwhile the whole situation is a mystery, and everybody identified with the sport is searching the town to obtain some clew as to the probable outcome. The bookmakers now doing business at Tanforan were given no official notification today whether they were to move to Ingleside tomorrow or not, and the entries for tomorrow's races are printed to be run as usual at Tanforan.

All preparations for running the Derby at Ingleside tomorrow were stopped by orders from Prince Poniatowski tonight. It is impossible to say at which track the big race will be decided. The best field it is possible to get together is carded to start, and the winner will win something like $7,000. Brutal, Canmore, Kenilworth, Rolling Boer, Telamon, Articulate, and Joe Fay make up the star field of 3-year-olds, all of which have up their weight except Telamon, who will have to carry a five-pound penalty. Joe Frey is the favorite. In addition, the club announces a special match race of $750 added between Advance Guard, 125 pounds, and Tuthill, 105 pounds, at one mile and a sixteenth.

Today's racing amounted to little at either track. At Tanforan a good crowd tried to pick the winners. Alee won the first race from the counterfeit Prejudice, who has burnt up enough of the talent's money within a week to buy a stock farm. A drove of maiden 2-year-olds went in the second. E. M. Brattan was uncorked as a good thing and pounded in the betting to a finish. He won from Ogle. Cushion, another stable-played unknown, won the third. St. Cuthbert beat the fainthearted Hermoso in the fourth, and Wyoming finished in front of a fair lot in the fifth race. Toah took the last.

First race, 13-16 mile, selling—Alee, 106 pounds [Thorpe], 8 to 5, won; Prejudice, 104 [Burns], 8 to 5, second; Racetto, 105 [O'Connor], 3½ to 1, third. Time, 1:20⅛. Santa Lucia, Crutch, Mission, and Alary's Garter also ran.

Second race, ⅜ mile, 2-year-olds, purse, maidens—E. M. Brattan, 103 pounds [Dominick], 8 to 1, won; Ogle, 106 [Thorpe], 5 to 1, second; Lulette, 105 [Wedderstrand], 3 to 1, third. Time, :35½. Snowberry, Minerva, Priam, Murcia, Oratossa, B. C. Green, San Luition, and Contestant also ran.

Third race, ¾ mile, selling, maidens—Cushion, 105 pounds [See], 3 to 1, won; Katherine Ennis, 105 [O'Connor], 7 to 5, second; Mrs. Brunell, 105 [Henry], 5 to 1, third. Time, 1:02. Luca, Alpha Lee, Singer, and La Calma also ran.

Fifth race, 1 mile, selling—Wyoming, 113 pounds [Burns], 2 to 1, won; Haviland, 104 [Dominick], even, second; Nansen, 102 [O'Connor], 2½ to 1, third. Time, 1:41. Free Lance also ran.

Sixth race, 11-16 mile, purse—Toah, 112 pounds [O'Connor], 2 to 1, won; Alsura, 107 [Burns], 3 to 1, second; Seide, 112 [Henry], 2½ to 1, third. Time, 1:07¼. Andrattus and Maresa also ran.

The crowd at Oakland improves daily. There were features to the sport today. Hagerdon was best and won the first race. Dandy Jim took the second and Monastic the third. Spike, at a long price, won the fourth race. The Phœnician, a consistent performer, beat Rollick in the fifth, and St. Rica did the trick in the last race.

JOCKEY CLUB OFFICIALS ARE FIRM.

Unmoved by the Hostile Attitude of the Tilles-Cella-Adler Tracks.

Local members of the Western Jockey club were not in the least perturbed over the reports from St. Louis that the Tilles-Cella-Adler combination had bought, or intended buying, the St. Louis Fair association grounds. Neither were they worried when they heard of the apportionment of dates ladled out to the tracks that have thus far neglected to apply for a Western Jockey club license. One of the local officials, in speaking of the proposed strategic play of the other side, said:

"They have gone to the end of the lane, and they will either stand there or turn back. Granting that that is about the situation, my candid opinion is they will turn back. The purchasing of the Fair grounds, if they have done so, was their trump card. They have played it, and I presume that settles it. I doubt, however, whether they have or ever will get absolute control of the Fair grounds, as President Aull stated when in the city a couple of weeks ago that nobody could get control of the grounds. The track has been on the market for some time, and it is only about six weeks ago a party tried to interest John Condon and others to buy the track for something less than $700,000. The new clique claims everything outside of Chicago, Memphis, and New Orleans. That, to its way of thinking, gives them the best of the argument. If they are satisfied, so are we; so we will let it go at that.

"The Western Jockey club will do business on the exact lines it was organized for. Those lines are plain to every one that wishes to understand them. Those that do not will string along with the other party. We will stand pat."

Another local turfman sized up the St. Louis situation as follows: "Of course we have no reason to discredit the report that the Tilles-Cella-Adler crowd intends to plank down $600,000 for the Fair grounds. Carnegie sold out recently, and the next thing you know these St. Louis fellows will be after the steel trust. I have no doubt they have great wads of money stored away, and have had ever since the war. But a good deal of it may be confederate money."

NO TRIPLE EVENT IN LOCAL TRACKS.

Secretary Howard Says Washington Park Will Enter No Such Scheme.

"You may announce authoritatively and emphatically that the Washington Park club is not going to enter into any plan to give triple events," said Secretary Howard yesterday afternoon.

"The Washington Park club will offer its own stakes and purses, exclusive of any suggestion from or affiliation with other Chicago tracks, and will conduct its meetings in the same manner. While we have entered into an alliance with other tracks in the formation of the Western Jockey club, we are independent of all other turf organizations except in such essentials as that, and will continue to be so."

This statement from the Washington Park club official is the outcome of stories published in local papers to the effect that the Chicago tracks would probably institute triple events, similar to those prevailing on Eastern tracks, in which one part of a stake is run on one track, a second part on another, and a third part on still another.

Schorr Two-Year-Olds Are Worked.

Memphis, Tenn., March 15.—[Special.]—The secrecy maintained about the 2-year-olds belonging to J. F. Schorr, which included their breeding, workouts, names, etc., has gradually disseminated, and today several of the youngsters in the barn, candidates for 2-year-old stakes at Memphis, Louisville, Latonia, St. Louis, and Chicago, were given a public airing in the presence of over a hundred of the "railbirds." John Peters, by Lord Esterling—Tarpeil II., was sent a half in :51½, accompanied by Wilden Cliffe, a bay colt by Prince of Monaco—White Veil. Eddie Busch, a bay colt by Lord Harrington, and Major Tenny, a bay colt by Tenny—Rose, were breezed for four furlongs in :52½. Several others of the Schorr 2-year-olds were breezed.

Charter Oak After Big Race.

Hartford, Conn., March 15.—A. J. Welch of Charter Oak Park will leave this city on Monday for Lexington, Ky., to interview Mr. Cahill, the owner of Charley Herr. Mr. Welch is confident that he will be able to gain Mr. Cahill's consent to enter his horse in the $60,000 sweepstakes. He also believes the big race between Boralma, The Abbot, Cresceus, and Charley Herr will be brought about and that it will take place at Charter Oak Park.

Denies Garry Hermann Rumor.

New York, March 15.—W. C. Whitney, who is at present at Aiken, S. C., emphatically denies in a telegram the report that he has offered $28,000 for Garry Hermann.

SILER'S GOSSIP OF THE PUGILISTS.

Appleton Manager Wants a Match Between Yanger and Olson.

[BY GEORGE SILER.]

M. M. Moore, manager and matchmaker of the Appleton Athletic club, dropped into the city yesterday to arrange a match for the club's next entertainment. Moore offered a $1,000 purse for Benny Yanger and Tommy White a short time ago to contest fifteen rounds, provided Chicago sports would purchase a certain amount of tickets, but as nobody in the city was willing to assist Moore he withdrew his offer. Now he would like to get Yanger and Olson to battle fifteen rounds, but for no such amount as he offered for Yanger and White.

"I am willing to give a fair-sized purse for the contest. How much I do not care to say until I see the fighters or their managers. The game has slumped a bit since our last entertainment, and I will be compelled to do some tall hustling to revive it. Still, I am willing to take a chance, provided the fighters don't want the earth."

The Appleton club pulled off two fights this winter, and as they were hotly contested and strictly on the level the Badger sports are anxious to witness more of the same sort. Moore will remain in the city until Tuesday.

Tommy White, matchmaker of the Lyons Athletic club, contemplates giving another boxing entertainment, and is thinking seriously of matching Eddy Santry and Ole Olson as the star feature of his show. White claims he has secured a permit to promote fifteen-round contests, and that if he matches Olson and Santry it will be for twelve rounds.

Frank Childs, the colored heavyweight champion, and George Byers of Boston, who was recently defeated by Jack Root in San Francisco in nine rounds, will meet in a twenty-round contest at Hot Springs tonight. Byers defeated Childs in New York several years ago at a weight which was too low for Frank. Tonight's battle will be at catch weights, and Childs ought to win.

Sullivan and McGovern Again.

New York, March 15.—[Special.]—It looks as if there will be a match arranged between Terry McGovern and Dave Sullivan after all. The featherweight champion took the first step today by posting $500. As soon as Dave Sullivan heard that McGovern had deposited a forfeit he authorized his brother Spike to do the same, and the money will be covered tomorrow. Sullivan says Harris' proposition is a fair one.

Local Fighters at Milwaukee.

Milwaukee, Wis., March 15.—Martin Judge of Philadelphia got the decision over Jim Driscoll of Chicago at the end of six fast rounds before the Badger A. C. tonight. Kid Sayres of Milwaukee won from Jack O'Keefe of Chicago in six rounds of a whirlwind character, and Dick Fitzpatrick and Tommy Smith of Chicago went six rounds to a draw.

Convenes Cherokee Legislature.

Muskogee, I. T., March 15.—[Special.]—Chief Buffington today issued his proclamation convening the Cherokee Legislature in extra session May 2, 1901, for the purpose of canvassing the votes of the recent treaty with the United States.

BARS HIM FROM THE GAME

JOHNSON'S POLICY REGARDING A CONTRACT JUMPER.

Says He Believes the American League Will Perpetually Blacklist Any Man Who Violates His Written Agreement—Official Makeup of the Milwaukee Team Is Made Public—Hart Explains His Relation to the Dolan Case—Wallace Is Unsigned.

"A player who will sign a contract and then jump it is crooked, and we don't want any such in the American league. And the man who induces a player to jump a contract, knowing he has signed, is, in my opinion, worse than a crook."

With these words President Johnson yesterday paid his compliments to players who, like Outfielder Sheckard, are accused of having signed with both leagues.

"Of course, it rests with McGraw and the Baltimore club to say what shall be done to Sheckard if he is guilty, but it is my opinion he should be placed on the blacklist and never permitted to play with an American league club. I wouldn't want such a man on a team of mine nor in a league with which I was connected. I believe the American league will back me up in that opinion, and we are going to become a power that will be felt in the baseball world. Therefore, if we permanently bar a player it means he must take whatever salary the National league is willing to give him, knowing he cannot get away.

"The American league's position has been known for weeks. We announced that no player under contract to any club would be approached by us and, with the exception of Dolan, we have lived up to that. In Dolan's case we were misinformed, but he cannot play with our clubs unless he is able to get his release from Mr. Hart.

"We expect to lose players under contract to us and have lost them, but that is not our method of doing business. We are in the game to build up baseball; not to tear it down. We leave that for the National league to do."

President Comiskey of the White Stockings signed "Chick" Fraser for the Philadelphia American league club yesterday. Fraser was one of the stars of the National league Phillies last season, and was placed on Connie Mack's list some time ago. The way the American league magnates sign players for each other is in rather marked contrast to the attitude of the National-leaguers toward each other.

President Johnson gave out the official list of the Milwaukee team which Hugh Duffy has corralled. The lineup will be as follows: Catchers, Conner, Leahey, and Moloney; pitchers, Garvin, Dowling, Hustings, Reidy, Rettger, and Sparks; first base, Anderson; second, Gilbert; third, Burke; shortstop, Conroy; outfielders, Hallman, Duffy, and Waldron.

Conner, who is a brother of Roger Conner, caught for the Boston team awhile last year. Leahey was Captain of the Providence Eastern league team and has been in the National league with Washington, but was found wanting. Gilbert comes from the Syracuse team of the Eastern league, and is a diminutive player, smaller than "Cub" Stricker and twice as aggressive.

"Husk" Chance is the first of the non-resident Orphans to report for duty, outside of Captain Doyle. Chance, who is due to arrive in Chicago this morning sent word ahead that he had signed with the National league team, although he had a good offer from the team at his home in Fresno, Cal. They agreed to deposit a sum larger than his salary from Chicago in a Fresno bank subject to his order as fast as he earned it if he would remain there, but Chance preferred life in Chicago.

President Hart said he had written Outfielder Dolan that he could have his release if he would reimburse the Chicago club the amount expended for him. He did not feel, however, like letting him go outright after spending over $600 for him. Mr. Hart added that Dolan should have made known the fact that the Springfield club owed him money before. Then it could have been held out of the purchase money. Or he could have carried it to the board of arbitration, and might be able to collect it that way now.

TO MAKE TEST ON SHECKARD CASE.

Recalcitrant Player Is at Hot Springs with Manager McGraw.

Baltimore, Md., March 15.—[Special.]—A test will be made in the courts of the special option clause in the Brooklyn club's contract in the case of James Sheckard, who has signed with the Baltimore club as well as the Brooklyn and accepted advance money from McGraw. Sheckard is now at Hot Springs with McGraw, and will start east with him tomorrow. In a dispatch to a local paper Sheckard says: "If the court does not sustain the option clause in my 1900 Brooklyn contract I will play in Baltimore, as I signed with McGraw first. I was inveigled into signing with Brooklyn under the persuasion of Hanlon, Ebbets, and a lawyer. I want to be honest in this matter, and if McGraw is sustained I will be pleased to play with Baltimore."

SAY THEY WILL PLAY IN CHICAGO.

Wallace and Heidrick Admit Facts to Friends in Cleveland.

Cleveland, O., March 15.—[Special.]—Bobby Wallace and Heidrick, the St. Louis players, left for their homes in Pennsylvania this afternoon without coming to any satisfactory agreement with the American league. They did not give a definite answer as to what their intentions were, but, according to well defined rumors, they will be seen with the Chicago American league club this season. They said as much to friends in this city.

PADDEN JUMPS AMERICAN LEAGUE.

White Stocking Captain Signs to Play with St. Louis.

St. Louis, Mo., March 15.—[Special.]—Dick Padden, second baseman and captain of Comiskey's White Stockings last year, has jumped the American league and signed to play with the St. Louis team this season. Harry Pulliam of Pittsburg, Padden's home, consummated the deal for the Robisons.

No Sunday Ball at Fort Wayne.

Fort Wayne, Ind., March 15.—[Special.]—Sunday baseball in Fort Wayne received its death blow today by a decision in the Circuit Court. Last summer the players appeared each Monday morning before a justice, pleaded guilty, and were fined one cent and costs. The Good Citizens' league today succeeded in having the fines declared illegal, and the court administered a terrific scoring to the justice for conniving at the evasion of the law. The players were fined heavily.

Somers Outbids Robison.

Elkhart, Ind., March 15.—[Special.]—Louis Criger, catcher of the St. Louis team, stated tonight that he had signed a contract last Monday to catch with the Boston American league team, the consideration being $2,800 and $100 for expenses. When the announcement was first made that Criger had signed with the rival league, Robison offered Criger $2,400 for the season, $200 more than he received last year, but did not approach the figures of the American league.

END OF PRESIDENTS' DEAL

TWO ROADS GIVE NOTICE OF THEIR WITHDRAWAL.

Northwestern and Another Line Become Disgusted with Continued Rate Cutting Despite Expensive Committees Intended to Check It and Will Quit After Thirty Days—Interstate Commission to Go to Kansas City to Investigate.

Two of the most important Western roads have given the required thirty days' notice of withdrawal from the Presidents' agreement, which provides for the pooling of the business through district committees. One of the roads is the Chicago and Northwestern. The name of the other is kept secret for the present. These roads, it is said, have given notice also that they will not pay any portion of the committees' expenses. The action is said to refer especially to the St. Paul and Chicago and the Kansas City and Chicago committees.

The failure of these district pools, or committees, to bring about the promised maintenance of rates has disgusted the two roads and they could not see any reason why they should continue to help pay some high-priced officials without receiving any returns. Not in years has rate-cutting been more freely and more openly practiced than at Kansas City during the last few weeks. The fact that the Interstate Commerce commission has taken cognizance of the open violation of the law and has decided to go to Kansas City on March 21 to investigate charges preferred against several roads was the last straw and precipitated the collapse of the Presidents' agreement. It is understood that the Advisory Committee of Finance, of which E. H. Harriman is the chairman, hereafter will see that no more secret rate-cutting is practiced.

More Rumors of Consolidation.

The advance in Burlington stocks has revived the rumors that the Pennsylvania is trying to obtain control of this road. The Chicago officers of the company insist that there is nothing in these reports. The report that most of the stock which changed hands during the last two days was purchased by Boston and Western interests is also pointed to as refutation of the rumors. It is not denied, however, that Pennsylvania interests have bought some Burlington stock lately. This, it is said, is simply in furtherance of the community ownership plan, so as to give the Pennsylvania a voice in the management of the Burlington.

A report gained circulation yesterday that consolidation negotiations are pending between the Louisville and Nashville and the "Monon." The "Monon" officials claimed to be ignorant of anything of that nature. The fact that the stock of both roads has advanced during the last two days is believed to be responsible for the report. The feeling in railway circles here is that either the Southern or the Big Four will ultimately secure control of the "Monon," and that if the Louisville and Nashville intends to get an independent outlet to Chicago it is more likely to secure control of the Evansville and Terre Haute and Chicago and Eastern Illinois.

The Harriman-Hill interests are credited with having decided to purchase the Chicago Great Western. It has been known for some time that the Harriman syndicate's buying is responsible for the steady advance in this company's stock.

Many Extensions Decided On.

Extensions decided on for this year by the granger railroads represent 1,000 miles of line. Work double these figures is under consideration. The work decided on probably will represent 150,000 tons of steel rails. Many of the railroads are said to have taken option at $26 a ton, and this strengthens the belief that manufacturers will soon advance the price.

To Stop Coal Rate War.

A meeting of the roads interested in the present coal rate war from the Illinois mines to St. Louis has been called for next Saturday in St. Louis, to consider the restoration of normal rates. A short time ago the Illinois Central made the rate 15 cents, to compel other roads interested to stop cutting rates. The plan apparently has succeeded.

Rates for Buffalo Exposition.

Central Passenger association roads have perfected arrangements for rates to Buffalo during the Pan-American Exposition. There will be four classes: Regular tourist rates, good for the summer, at 80 per cent of full tariff; one fare and a third, good to return in fifteen days; one fare, with ten days' return limit. Special coach excursions, at one cent a mile, tickets good for three days.

To Continue Picture Frame Fight.

Miller & Barley of Marion, Ind., have taken steps to continue their fight against the Regal Manufacturing company of Chicago on a contract involving the delivery of 2,000 enlarged pictures and frames. The photographs in question are at present in the Chamber of Commerce safety deposit vaults, by order of the court.
